Agriculturists in Desperate Plight to Seek Relief at Polls

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. PAUL, July 11.—Discontent with existing conditions is prevalent in the agricultural communities of Minnesota, north and west of the Twin Cities, and among the workmen of the iron range.

Virtually this entire section of the State will be carried by the Farmer-Labor party in the special Senatorial election next Monday, on a platform of protest against national laws and national administration of laws, which the radicals blame for the present plight of farmers and workingmen.

The disaffection is less pronounced in the more populous south end of the State, where farms are more productive and farmers are more prosperous and more conservative. This is the Republican stronghold.

GOLD CAMPS LURE HARDING

President Goes Out of His Way to Visit Skagway, Ghost City of Klondike Rush Days

BY ROBERT H. ARMSTRONG
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SKAGWAY (Alaska) July 11.—Unable to resist the lure of a town whose history is woven into the most romantic period of the Klondike gold rush, President Harding changed his schedule and today visited Skagway, once a city of twenty to thirty thousand through which passed all the gold seekers en route to the Klondike, El Dorado. It is now more or less a deserted place with but two to four hundred registered as residents.

Only four automobiles could be mustered, and most of the Presidential party walked three-quarters of a mile to the center of the town over plank roads built on piles. The President and Mrs. Harding met all the men, women and children of the town at an impromptu reception in the Pullen House, filled with interesting relics of the day when Skagway was wide open and took toll both ways of the gold seekers going into and coming out of the interior. Here the first railroad in Alaska was built, a narrow-gauge reaching to White Pass and the gold country that once excited the world.

After two hours the President and his party again boarded the Henderson and started for Seward. The ghosts of the old romance of Skagway impressed the Chief Executive and his party more than the partly deserted city.

They found Skagway a picturesque little town with its population nestling among the glacier-crowned mountain peaks, quiet, with only a few reminders of the time when it was known as one of the wildest and gayest places of the frontier.

The rain which marked yesterday's visit to Juneau had ceased, and the sun oftentimes broke through the clouds, revealing the beauties of the glaciers, reaching down from the mountains along the Lynn Canal. While in Skagway the President went to the hotel kept by Mrs. H. S. Pullen, whose son Royal, now a colonel in the United States Army, was a famous football captain of a few years ago at West Point.

Mrs. Harding was presented with several bouquets of flowers, among them one of great dahlias with blooms nearly a foot in diameter.

Recalling a vacation trip in the mountains last year, spent with the late John Muir, Henry Ford and others, the President directed that the Henderson on the way to Seward pass by Muir glacier, named for the famous naturalist.

BRIDE-TO-BE IS DESERTED AT WEDDING

Groom at Altar Rail Flatly Refuses to Take Fiance

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW BRITAIN (Ct.) July 11.—Miss Josephine Tkacz, 23 years of age, today is prostrated and Joe Zielinski, 29, her former fiance, is in seclusion evading attempts of her relatives and friends to find him as a result of his backing out of their scheduled wedding yesterday as he stood before the altar of the Sacred Heart of Jesus Church.

Having kept company for seven years with Miss Tkacz, a Y.W.C.A. waitress, Zielinski became engaged to the girl and the wedding was set for yesterday morning.

Rev. Alexander Kowalczyk, priest at the church, was officiating at the service, and when he came to the passage wherein he asked Zielinski if he took Josephine for his lawful wife, John replied firmly, "No."

"Do you know what you are saying?" asked the priest. "Do you want to have this woman for your wife"

"Yes, I know what I'm saying. I don't want to marry her," replied John, whereupon he turned about, facing the astonished gathering of relatives and friends, and made a brief speech, in which he said:

"I hereby inform all you people that I don't want to marry this woman, and I'm not going to."

The prospective bride fainted, the priest closed his prayer book and amid an awed silence John stalked down the center aisle all alone and unwedded, and departed.

The girl's parents today said that not only did the prospective bride purchase her own trousseau and buy her own bouquet, but also she had to pay for the taxicab that took her to the church.

Clubs Filled by Bald Heads But Nobody Knows

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 11. — New York's exclusive clubs are full of bald-headed men who wear toupes so realistic that even their closest friends do not know their secret, declared Bruno Leo Schurig, toupe purveyor to John D. Rockefeller, who returned today from Hamburg. But the little ruse is costing them more and more dearly, for most of the toupe artists of France and Germany were killed in the war.

"Men are willing to pay any price for a toupe that will make them look young," Schurig said. "The only trouble is that such a toupe is a work of art. Every hair must be perfectly matched. And before the task is even begun a plaster cast of the individuals head must be made. The war killed so many toupe makers that wealthy men have placed a premium on the industry."

RIVERSIDE LIMITS PARKING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, July 11.—Riverside motorists will be restricted to a fifteen-minute time limit for parking on certain streets, according to the new traffic law and parking ordinance passed today by the Common Council. A two-hour parking limit will also prevail in designated sections. The law goes into effect on August 31.

FIVE INCENDIARY FIRES LAID TO RED AGENTS

Attempts on Packinghouses Near Fullerton Recall Activity of Radical Agitators

FULLERTON, July 11.—Two attempts tonight to burn the packing-house of the Placentia Orange Growers' Association, and attempts to burn the plants of the American Fruit District and the Black Diamond Walnut Association, and a large bean warehouse formerly occupied by the Globe Mills of Los Angeles, caused authorities here to wonder if the arson squad of the I.W.W. is at work in this vicinity.

The fires follow three separate incendiary fires at Anaheim last night. The police here will keep watch all night for the firebug to halt any further attempts to burn the plants.

CAUSES $2000 DAMAGE

The fire at the American Fruit District plant caused a damage of $2000. It occurred at 9 p.m. Ten minutes later a fire broke out at the Black Diamond Walnut plant occupied by the Benchley Fruit Company. A person passing saw a man open a window and toss a large wad of railroad car-journal waste into the place. It is probable this is the man who caused all the fires because all of them were started by burning brands of waste.

Within fifteen minutes of this last fire a blaze broke out at the bean warehouse. Here a window had been forced and the waste thrown in.

FIRES AT PACKING PLANT

The three Anaheim fires were at the packing plant of Joseph N. Gentile, the Co-operative Packing Plant and a marmalade factory. None of them did much damage. All were believed to be incendiary.

While the Sheriff is inclined to believe the man seen is a member of the I.W.W. band, his ground for the belief is that I.W.W. agents and organizers are known to have been active in Orange county and that attempts have been made to organize packing-house workers. There have been no strikes or labor trouble at any of the plants.

Some persons suspect the fires are being caused by some one mentally deranged, with a mania for starting fires.

FOOD RIOTS IN POTSDAM

Army of Unemployed Storms Market When Announcement is Made of Rise in Bread Prices

BY GEORGE SELDES
[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BERLIN, July 11.—Potsdam, the home of the Prussian autocracy and nobility and the scene of the former Kaiser's triumphs and downfall, today witnessed one of the most serious food riots in German history.

Coincident with the government's announcement that bread prices would be quadrupled on account of the fall of the mark, unemployed, largely metal workers from the neighborhood, marched on Potsdam, coverging upon the open market which is held once weekly. Here Germany's rich farmers sell their produce to middlemen who double their prices immediately.

The mob demanded that the dealers sell at cost. The dealers called the police and the fight was on. A large part of the open market in the square immediately became a food shambles. What the mob could not grab it upset or destroyed. When the militia arrived the mob subsided but it remained threatening, outnumbering the police.

Another part of the mob then raided nearby grocery shops, stealing food. Reinforcements arrived finally and the riots were quelled. The hungry citizens then demanded to see the burgomaster of Potsdam. He addressed them in pacific terms and then the rioters returned to their homes with their stolen food.

A Potsdam grocer raised the American flag when he was attacked by a mob.

WHAT LOS ANGELES THINKS OF SAN FRANCISCO

In an effort to, once for all, let 'em get it out of their systems and thereby clear the atmosphere, the Los Angeles Times and the San Francisco Chronicle have undertaken to print what has long been supposed to be the unprintable—what San Francisco thinks of Los Angeles and what Los Angeles thinks of San Francisco. Each paper has sent one of its best writers to the other city and each writer is preparing a daily article, stating frankly what he thinks of the other man's town. These articles are exchanged nightly on the direct wire between the Times and Chronicle offices and each paper runs each article in parallel columns every morning for six mornings.

LOS ANGELES, July 11. — In a city like Los Angeles, where the population has grown so rapidly that a large slice of it has not had time to amputate the Middle West chin whiskers and unbuckle the celluloid collar, it is natural that amusements for the public are varied and many.

The fact that one meets many hundreds of newly arrived inhabitants who, having met a suave tongue-waver which he later classifies as a Los Angeles realtor or oil salesman, have not been able to remove evidence of foreign habits and customs is reflected in the amusements which are purveyed for their benefit.

And, too, I may observe in passing, it does not take much to amuse a certain bloc whose proud boast is that they are now citizens of "Our Glorious City."

You'd naturally think that a pretty girl, seated in a drug store window for the purpose of demonstrating Monsieur Blah Blah's cold cream would not attract undue notice.

It doesn't in a city like, say, San Francisco or New York.

But in Los Angeles 'tis different.

I had vivid proof of this fact this afternoon. I had just push-balled my way out of a "self-serving restaurant," as they euphemistically say in Los Angeles, when I spotted a crowd in front of a Broadway drug store which measured not less than 500 souls.

In any other city I would have guessed that somebody had been murdered, or the lady drank acid in the drug store, or the wife had precisely tossed victriol into the other lady's face, or something like that, but this was not the case at all.

DID THEY? THEY DID NOT

On the contrary, the attraction was nothing more than a perspiring, bobbed-hairite, who was busy demonstrating Monsieur Blah Blah's cold cream.

And when a couple of cops urged the mob to "get out of there and leave them people get through," do you suppose the mob obeyed?

Not on your chin whiskers!

The mob stayed there until the little lady in the window canceled her show in favor of luncheon.

One old chap, who sported a celluloid collar and a set of chin curtains that never had their origin outside of the State of Indiana, right up and said he never had such a good time in all his life, by heck.

Another harmless amusement, which a certain portion of the populace hereabouts goes in strong for, is the old-fashioned street show so strongly reminiscent of the circus side show.

A number of bright young men cater to this desire on the part of the newcomers who, because of their early training on the farms of Iowa and elsewhere, have not yet accustomed themselves to golf and such like.

These bright young men aforementioned have rented small store space on the main avenues and have filled them with snakes, Gila monsters and other weird specimens of desert and forest.

The business they do would put a land office to shame.

The contrast impresses one, too.

Within the same block may be found a cheap snake show and the last word in motion-picture palaces. From snakes to screen is only a hop and a half. This very variety in tastes simply goes to show, as the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce interprets it, as proving beyond cavil the utter cosmopolitanism and metropolitanism of the great and glorious city of Los Angeles. Any member of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce can prove his words with one hand tied behind him, although a number of them must use both hands or they simply can't talk.

TRADING LETTERS

Another and more favorite amusement indulged in by thousands of Angelenos is "You Read My Letter, And I'll Read Yours."

This amusement is double-barreled—it provides amusement for the readers and plenty of it for the small, sad group of original Californians who once ruled "Our Glorious City" in the dim past.

But about this letter-reading business:

On street cars, in hotel lobbies, on the streets, in the "self-serving restaurants," on foot and in flivvers, the letter readers ply their favorite amusement.

Hank of Iowa exchanges his letter for one that Zeke of Indiana has received.

For a few moments there is tense silence as the readers read their letters.

Then the leg-slapping and heehawing begins.

The air is punctured by such thrilling exclamations as "Doggone his ornery old hide, anyway!" "Ain't hear' tell of Rube fer nigh onto two years." and others of more or less importance.

But the exchange of letters received from those poor benighted souls who haven't the nerve to

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—When you come to examine the essence of its soul you find that Los Angeles is a woman's town.

San Francisco is a man's town.

The principal business street in Los Angeles is given over almost exclusively to stores that cater exclusively to women. Real estate values in Los Angeles have always followed the women shoppers.

The greatest industry of Los Angeles is the manufacture of motion pictures. This is an industry the real aim of which is to exploit the beauty and charm and sweetness of women—girls.

An astonishing proportion of the great commercial successes of Los Angeles is being made by women. Not only this, but there is no other city in the world wherein women are finding their ways into so many new occupations; where so many women are inventing new jobs.

I think it could fairly be said that the political life and progress of the city in all esthetic and political ways are in the grip of the women's clubs.

If you have ever seen Los Angeles at a distance, it must have struck you at once that it is a white city. In the distance against the mountains, it looks like a white lawn scarf.

San Francisco stands rugged against the sky-line. Its lines are beaked and angular like the fists of a man.

And this is the real reason why Los Angeles has San Francisco licked to death.

There may have been a time when pioneering was a man's job. But I don't really believe it.

Men go into new countries; snoop around; shoot a few wild animals; dig up some gold; have a few fights and wander on.

No pioneering country ever amounts to anything until the women arrive. Then it begins to get settled and to progress.

A WOMAN'S JOB

As a matter of fact, pioneering is a woman's housekeeping job.

Women move into a town like Los Angeles and look around and straight-away begin to spruce the place up.

"Tut, tut," they say, "This is no place to have the residence district. Here is this nice hay field. We will lay out some nice straight streets with some nice new curbs and have the residence part of the city over here."

Whenever you think of Los Angeles, you think of department stores and bungalows.

When you think of San Francisco, you think of theaters and cafes.

Await Statement by Baldwin

Reparations Deadlock Sets Europe to Wondering What Will Happen

Speech Today in Parliament Expected to Decide British Program

BY ARTHUR DRAPER
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, July 11.—Everything else here is overshadowed by the prospect of the statement which Premier Baldwin will make tomorrow in the House of Commons.

The Cabinet met today to consider the final draft of the speech, which is generally considered the most important utterance that has been forthcoming from this country since the war.

A tone of friendliness for France will run through the speech of both the Prime Minister and Marquis Curzon, Foreign Secretary, who will address the Lords; but the dominant note will be Britain's determination to do something to re-establish Europe on a sounder economic basis.

WILL PUSH OWN POLICY

Although Premier Baldwin adopts an attitude of consideration, there is no mistaking the fact that the government has decided to push its own policy henceforth and whatever chances there may be of united Allied action will depend chiefly upon the degree to which Premier Poincare is willing to compromise. As already stated in these dispatches appointment of a committee of experts to fix Germany's capacity to pay will be one constructive feature of Baldwin's speech.

Much is being made here today of dispatches from Washington stating that Secretary Hughes has summoned Ambassador Harvey into conference and that the American government is about to express its approval of the British suggestion in this connection. As the idea of a committee of experts to arbitrate in the reparation problem is original with Washington there seems reason to accept this report as accurate.

Premier Baldwin's statement tomorrow will be made following a private question put by Ramsay MacDonald on behalf of the labor opposition. There will be no debate tomorrow although arrangements will undoubtedly be made to hold one on this whole subject soon.

SITUATION SERIOUS

The government regards the situation as serious but nothing will be said by the Premier calculated to give the French undue cause for complaint.

Labor party leaders take a gloomy view of the future. Ben Tillett, head of the transport workers' union, declared at the annual conference of that body today that Europe is on the verge of another war. The "Daily Herald" goes so far as to say that Britain and France are drifting toward war in the same way that Britain and Germany were ten years prior to 1914. This is not the general feeling, however, although firm friends of France believe that her policy in the Ruhr represents the most dangerous adventure upon which she has embarked since the Anglo-French entente was formed.

One group of Britons has been urging Premier Baldwin to speak with the greatest frankness, arguing that the case of this country

LA FOLLETTE SHOWN UP

Railroad Valuation Cost Government $23,000,000, Roads $62,000,000 Instead of $2,000,000

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) July 11.—Work in the Interstate Commerce Commission under the Valuation Act has cost the government more than $23,000,000, and the railroads more than $62,000,000 although the cost originally was estimated at less than $2,400,000, President H. L. Byram, of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway declared here today before the farm conference called by the Milwaukee Association of Commerce.

"The chief sponsor of the La Follette Valuation Act stated before the Senate on May 31, 1910, that all the railroads in the country could be valued at an expense not exceeding $2,400,000," President Byram said, "and that such a valuation would save the country in transportation charges in twelve months more than 150 times the cost of making the valuation of the physical property of the roads.

TOTAL OF $85,000,000

"Up to the middle of last year this work had cost the government more than $23,000,000 and the railroads more than $62,000,000, a total of more than $85,000,000.

"This vast discrepancy between the estimate of those who obtained the passage of the act and the actual cost and the fact that the tentative findings of the commission in 1920 have justified the contention of the railroads that they were worth their entire capitalization, shows how little these opponents of railroads understood the subject and quite naturally suggests that it might be well to consider whether they and their followers are any more competent to advise the public now than they were then.

"The commission has spent ten years in a most thorough and painstaking examination of every mile of road and every bridge, building and other structure, every locomotive, car, machine and tool; every rail and tie; digging into the roadbed at frequent intervals to see how much ballast has been applied; measuring cuts and fills to ascertain how much earth work was done; applying to all these items the wage and price levels of 1913-1914 to arrive at the property value of the railways.

REFUSE TO ACCEPT

"Now, after the expenditure of all these millions and this length of time in accordance with the Valuation Act of 1913, the men who were responsible for this needless work and expenditure refuse to accept the findings of the commission.

"Why? Merely because the findings proved these railroad baiters to be wrong and unless something was done in the emergency they would likely lose their political prestige and all that goes therewith."

JUDGE AND JURY AT DEATH SCENE

Jacobs Trial is Moved to Ocean Beach

Cottage Occupied by Couple Also Visited

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, July 11.—The spot on the beach below Torrey Pines where the body of Fritzi Mann was found January 14 was visited this afternoon by the jury which is hearing the evidence in the second trial of Capt. Louis L. Jacobs, accused of the girl's murder, by Judge Spencer M. Marsh and by the defendant, together with several witnesses in the trial.

A visit also was made to the Blue Sea Cottage near La Jolla, where Miss Mann and her mysterious escort spent part of the night before her body was found.

WAGNER CALLED AGAIN

Dr. A. L. Wagner, Los Angeles county autopsy surgeon, who testified in the previous trial, was called again this morning. He said he had drowned a rabbit in the ocean at Long Beach as an experiment on which to base testimony for the defense in the trial of Jacobs, bearing on the hypothetical circumstances under which the body of Miss Mann was found.

Dr. Wagner's testimony was a short course in the pathology and medical terminology of drowning and death by poisoning. He said he found sand in the lungs and respiratory system of the rabbit, but only after microscopic examination.

Dr. H. A. Thomsen of San Diego has testified for the State that he "felt" sand when he examined the body of Fritzi Mann.

The defense sought, through Dr. Wagner's testimony, to show that the condition of Fritzi Mann's body might indicate any one of a large number of causes of death, including suicide by drowning or poisoning as a result of a neurosis arising from her physical condition.

AUTO IS IDENTIFIED

A defense witness, John Henry Kalleen, manager of the garage at Camp Kearney, corroborated the statements of witnesses for the prosecution regarding the unmistakable identity of Jacobs's Hudson coach. After stating that he had arrived at the camp reservation Sunday night, January 14, between 9:30 and 9:45, Kalleen said he had driven into the garage and had seen Jacobs's automobile parked in its accustomed place.

Miss Mary Helen Coble, nurse at Camp Kearney, testified that she had seen Dr. Jacobs about 8 o'clock in ward 7 of the hospital, and also between 9 and 10 o'clock, and again later in the evening of January 14.

Former Wife of Frank Gould to Dance for Paris

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, July 11.—Edith Kelly Gould, who is suing Frank J. Gould for a half of his fortune in France, signed today with a Paris music hall to put on a dancing act for twelve weeks.

If she can prove that she and her husband were both domiciled in France when they were divorced she surely will be awarded half the estate because French law is strict on that point.

The fact that she was found with a Cuban, which caused her husband to divorce her, does not injure her case.

REFUSES TO TALK ABOUT FIGHT FUND

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

GREAT FALLS (Mont.) July 11. State Superintendent of Banks Skeleton, who is here investigating the closing of the Stanton Bank & Trust Company and the First State Bank of Shelby, was said to have devoted the entire day to an attempt to determine whether George A. Stanton, president of the institution, put up $50,000 on July 16 to complete the second payment of $100,000 due Jack Dempsey on his $300,000 guarantee for his bout with Tommy Gibbons at Shelby on July 4. Mr. Skeleton also was trying to find out if Stanton subscribed the money, where the cash was obtained.

Stanton declined to say today whether he put up the $50,000 and whether he took the money from the Stanton bank funds. All day long Stanton, Skeleton and L. E. Jones, secretary of Great Falls Commercial Club, were busy issuing denials that promotion of the world's championship bout had anything to do with the failures. Mayor Jim Johnson of Shelby, one of the heaviest losers at the Shelby fiasco, is president of the Shelby institution.

Jones admitted today that after Stanton was said to have put up the $50,000 to make Dempsey's second payment possible, many business men stopped doing business with Stanton's bank. Skeleton merely characterized the questions as to whether Johnson would be prosecuted as untimely and improper. He said he did not think Johnson had "looted" the Shelby institution.

Jones said a good way to start a riot here would be to announce plans for another title bout in this vicinity.

PREUS FACING STIFF BATTLE of the farmers since the war, and the dissatisfaction of the more radically inclined farmers and workingmen with the old parties as a means of procuring relief.

The farmers are hard up. A large proportion of them are unable to make both ends meet. They receive comparatively low prices for what they produce, and pay comparatively high prices for what they are compelled to buy.

A farm without a mortgage is rare in the disaffected section and thousands of farmers have defaulted on their interest for the last five years. The farmer who is able to stave off foreclosure considers himself lucky. Farm labor is scarce and wages are still high, and the common complaint is that wheat bringing 90 cents a bushel at the farm costs $1.30 to raise.

From such conditions of distress the Farmer-Labor party has arisen, as did the Greenback and Populist parties in the generation following the economic dislocations of the Civil War.

MANIPULATION OF PRICES

Then cheap money was the popular demand, now it is government manipulation of the price of wheat and other farm products upward.

Here is the officially proclaimed platform on which Magnus Johnson, the Farmer-Labor candidate, is opposing Gov. Preus, the Republican candidate for the Senate seat made vacant by the death of Knute Nelson:

"Unified government control of railroads with immediate reduction of freight rates.

"Government control of coal mines, water-power sites and other natural resources.

"Graduated tax on incomes, inheritances and excess profits.

RESTRICTION OF COURTS

"Restriction of courts in the use of injunctions in labor controversies and in nullifying acts of Congress.

"Friendly relations with all nations and entangling alliances with none.

"Stabilization of prices of farm products through Federal regulation.

"Legislation making constitutional rights of free speech, free press and peaceable assembly effective."

The Farmer-Labor party contends that the farmers' distress is due largely to the credit inflation during the war period and the ensuing radical deflation policies adopted by the Federal Reserve Board toward the close of the Wilson administration.

FRUIT GROWERS ELECT MORTENSEN MANAGER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN JOSE, July 11.—A. M. Mortensen of an Francisco, vice-president and general manager of the California Pine Box Distributors, was named today as general manager of the California Prune and Apricot Growers' Association to succeed H. G. Coykendall, resigned. Mortensen is the former traffic manager of the Panama Pacific International Exposition, the Pacific Fruit Express and the California Fruit Growers' Exchange.

WALES TO VISIT CANADA

LONDON, July 11.—The Prince of Wales, it was learned today, intends to visit Canada in the autumn. He will go in a private capacity and will not accept official engagements during his stay.

ENTENTE'S FATE DECIDED TODAY

will justify itself if the facts are put plainly. Another group has been advising him to emphasize Britain's desire for co-operation. Baldwin is more inclined to speak frankly, without resort to the language of diplomacy.

Dr. Eduard Benes, Czecho-Slovakian Foreign Minister, had luncheon with Marquis Curzon today and gave him a report of his recent talk with Premier Poincare. Dr. Benes takes a grave view of the Anglo-French deadlock, holding that an open break would have disastrous consequences for Europe.

BREAK UNTHINKABLE

"A break between Britain and France is unthinkable," he said today. "It must not be. We must not forget that the only great moral force in Germany today is imperialist and reactionary. We have to help Germany, therefore, to help herself and so help the common cause of Europe."

As some weeks must elapse between the appointment of a committee of experts and their report as to Germany's capacity to pay financiers are inclined to believe that no real decisions can develop immediately. In the interval, further efforts will be made to bring the French into line with the British. Consequently markets were active today and exchanges, excepting the German, improved several points. At the opening of the market French and Belgian francs appreciated, but later in the day a reaction set in. Toward the end of the day the market became exceedingly jumpy.

Many Americans have arranged to hear Premier Baldwin tomorrow, among them Senator Smoot, who will have a seat in the visitors' gallery.

WORKING WITH WASHINGTON

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, July 11.—Prime Minister Baldwin has been working in the closest co-operation with the American Embassy in London in preparing the British policy on the Ruhr and reparations, it was learned authoritatively today.

The knowledge that the State Department has been kept fully informed on the British decisions disquiets the French, who feel that this action is a sure indication of Washington's entire sympathy with Downing street.

On the eve of Baldwin's declaration in Parliament the French Foreign Office again issues a warning that France will not accept the vesting of the power of again fixing the amount of reparations in the hands of some international neutral committee.

"The reparations commission was legally created by the Versailles Treaty to handle the problem and this cannot be transferred elsewhere without violating the Treaty," said Poincare's spokesman.

The French point out that the smashing of the entente and individual dealings with Germany regarding reparations probably would mean the collapse of the League of Nations as the League's duties are based on an assumption of allied solidarity.

Poincare is determined, however, not to permit the League to interfere with reparations regardless of what the British threaten.

NO WORD AT WASHINGTON

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 11.—If Premier Baldwin has decided to suggest American participation in a reparation settlement, as hinted in some dispatches from abroad, neither American officials nor diplomatic circles here have been advised of the decision.

Heretofore, it was pointed out tonight, the allied States have not cared to risk the chance of American refusal of an invitation to take part in a conference on the subject in view of the attitude of the administration; it has been held all along that the United States would merely be informed completely as to whatever the British project may be, with the door to American participation left open in case this government itself desires to take the initiative.

So far as revealed here, the American attitude remains just what it was when Secretary Hughes in a speech in New Haven, some months ago, made the suggestion that a conference of economic authorities be organized to determine Germany's capacity to pay and the best methods of payment. Mr. Hughes made no commitment on the part of the United States government to official participation in such a procedure, but hinted that private American enterprise might find it possible to help.

Revolution in Paraguay Has Been Put Down

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BUENOS AIRES, July 11.—Revolutionists attacked Asuncion, capital of Paraguay, about noon Monday. The fighting lasted until Tuesday afternoon when the revolutionists were put to flight by government troops. Seventy were killed and 100 wounded in the battle, according to the official report.

Three of the revolutionary chiefs were wounded and captured. During the fighting the members of the government took refuge on a gunboat anchored in the Para River.

This information has been received in the first dispatches from Paraguay since early Monday. A wireless message received by the Argentine ministry of marine stated that the revolt which broke out at Asuncion had been suppressed.

DAYLIGHT-TO-DUSK FLIGHT POSTPONED

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

DAYTON, July 11.—Further attempts by Lieut. Russel L. Maughan to span the continent between daylight and dusk were called off today by the chief of the air service upon the recommendation of McCook Field officials.

Because the ideal time to make the flight is around the 21st of June, the longest day in the year, and the time is rapidly getting away from that date, is one reason for calling off other attempts, it was said. The other reasons given by McCook officials were because both the engine and the plane have never been given the customary ground tests at McCook Field.

LEVIATHAN NOT LIKE SAHARA

Passengers Declare Liquor Supply Held Out

Norman Mack Says Lasker Was Only Dry Man

Giant Liner's Behavior is Pleasing to Board

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, July 11.—There is some difference of opinion as to just how dry was the voyage under the American flag, of the Leviathan, the world's greatest ship, which put in at Cherbourg yesterday.

All passengers agree that no liquor was sold aboard, although some added that a rumor that a bootlegger was on the ship started an investigation especially on the part of those who came aboard with a scant supply of ammunition.

Champagne glasses appeared, however, to have been held by very distinguished fingers of those who patronized the Ritz restaurant. "Giggle water" was brought aboard by more than one passenger. Albert Lasker, formerly chairman of the Shipping Board, personally put a stop to the bottles being opened by the stewards. In some instances teacups were used as cocktail containers after wine glasses were banished.

NORMAN MACK HAPPY

Norman Mack, Democratic national committeeman of New York said: "Dissipation was limited but everyone had a good time. I understand that the supply held out fairly well and also I think Lasker was the only dry man aboard the ship."

Associate Justice Sutherland of the Supreme Court, pronounced the trip "reasonably dry."

Senator Reed Smoot was silent on the question of dampness, but predicted that Congress, perhaps before another year, would loosen up the Volstead Act and raise the alcoholic percentage of thirst-quenching drinks above the one-half of one per cent class. All passengers declared the Leviathan a "wonder ship." George Horace Lorimer said: "She is a real 100 per cent proposition." Vincent Astor gave as his testimony, "She is a demonstration of the American power to do things right."

GIANT BEHAVES WELL

Lasker stated that the maximum speed of the trip was made Monday night when between twenty-six and twenty-seven knots was attained. He was well pleased with the fuel consumption, declaring it was most economical. In regard to the report that the Shipping Board would take over the liner Columbus now in the process of construction in Germany, Lasker said that the Germans had approached the Shipping Board with an offer to exchange the new liner for three old ones, but stated that the negotiations were in a "nebulous twilight stage."

Secretary of Labor Davis landed to begin his trip of investigation into the immigration problems in most of the countries in Europe. He denied knowledge of a rumor to the effect that British seamen were deserting their ships and signing on American vessels contrary to law. He announced his intention to return to his native Wales which he left forty two-years ago, and take part in the national singing contest.

Mack stated on his arrival that he understood that Henry Ford was running well with the Paris voters.

MAY USE TARIFF ACT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Another angle of the ship liquor situation has become a subject of speculation as a result of a decision of the Treasury to prosecute ship liquor violations by foreign lines under the tariff law instead of the Volstead Act. The point has been raised among customs officials as to what penalties should be applied when liquor illegally brought into American waters is confiscated.

Section 593 (B) of the tariff law provides in addition to the prohibition among smuggling that any merchandise brought into the United States "contrary to law" shall be forfeited and "the offender shall be fined in any sum not exceeding $5000, nor less than $50 or be imprisoned for any time not exceeding two years or both."

WHITE WAY LID TILTED BIT HIGHER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 11.—Efforts of the police department to continue cracking the whip over Broadway's cabarets, despite the repeal of the Mullen-Gage Act, received a sharp setback today. Inspector Bolan's men had brought two cabaret managers into the Westside Court, charged with violating the recent police ruling prohibiting dancing after 1 o'clock.

Magistrate Hatting listened to the testimony and then threw the cases out of court. He showed no sympathy with the police department's evident intention of keeping a strangle hold on the cabarets with the same czar-like domination they displayed during the Mullen-Gage regime last winter.

By a strange coincidence the Moulin Rouge and the Montmartre were the first cabarets to fall victims of the new order. Patrolmen stationed there by order of Inspector Bolan found patrons dancing in both places after 1 o'clock. Summons were promptly served.

As a result of frequent raids and unpleasant experiences, Richard Green, general manager for both cafes, brought an action against Inspector Bolan for oppression, several months ago. The case comes to trial in special sessions in August.

COMPARE NORTH AND SOUTH

LOS ANGELES

leave Iowa or Indiana for sunny Southern California is only the beginning of the fun.

It is only when a group of newly transplanted Middle Westerners coagulate on a busy street corner to swap news "from back hum" that one gets the proper slant at pure joy.

The eye of the transplanted Iowan or Indianan, as the case may be, wells with keen pleasure, and the leg-slapping and hee-hawing is heard in the land at great length and with all sorts of gusto.

GAWKING AT FILM STARS

Another amusement of the populace—I refer, of course, only to the fresh supply of Los Angeles—is gawking at the motion-picture stars and some of them who do not twinkle that much.

When one comes all the way across the continent from Des Moines or thereabouts to make ones' home, one must naturally get an eyeful of those screen babies whose names appear in electric signs and divorce courts.

Hence, as much as it hurts a pocketbook which is trained for "self-serving restaurants" but must unbuckle in eateries where they knock you for five bucks a plate, it is nothing to see the fresh laid Angeleno get his gawk at the screen screams as they put on the nose bag.

These are only a few of the amusements which are having a heavy play.

Pitching horse shoes is another.

There's plenty of room for it, too, when you recall that the city limits of Los Angeles run north to the immediate neighborhood of Bakersfield.

SAN FRANCISCO

fact is that the theater is a "he" institution.

Also cafes.

Women like to be where there are men and the cafes seem to be the natural meeting place. But if there were only women there wouldn't be anything but Mary Jane tea rooms and cafeterias.

The whole psychology of San Francisco is masculine.

It is tender hearted, easily moved, impulsive, romantic and sentimental.

Los Angeles is essentially feminine—downright and practical and somewhat material. And with a deal of good-natured "you-got-to-show-me" in its make-up.

The biggest bunk in the world is the so-called tenderness and hysteria of women.

Women are so essentially practical and ultilitarian in their make-up that they use tears as a weapon against the soft sentimental natures of men as a valuable business asset. As a matter of fact, they are not half as weepy, inside, as men.

When Madalynne Obenchain thought she was to be tried by a jury of men, she came into court looking shabby and pitiful with a broken and stricken look. When she found that the jury was to be of women, she straight-way went back to jail and changed her dress and returned, a finished, assured, poiseful society queen. She knew that all that pathos stuff would be wasted on women.

NOT A CHANCE

It may not be quite clear just what bearing this has on the matter in hand. But it has all the bearing in the world.

Any city that has the cosmic nature of a man has no earthly chance against the cool calculation of a city that has the nature of a woman.

They are too shrewd, too unemotional and too industrious.

It's the little brown hen which makes the success of the poultry farm.

The rooster gets killed and served for dinner when the minister calls.

The Pacific Coast represents the last frontier—the last lurch westward of the Aryan race. And the old age-old pioneers—the women—have chosen to put their stamp on Los Angeles.

And that settles all questions of the future.

New York Jury Indicts Seven Stock Brokers

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 11.—Acting Federal Attorney Clark announced today that sealed indictments were returned ten days ago by the Federal grand jury charging use of the mails to defraud against Edward M. Fuller, William F. McGee, Charles H. Clarkson, John C. Feeley and James Mimnaugh, stock brokers; William J. Fallon and Charles W. Rendigs, also brokers, were indicted charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice and with giving and taking a bribe.

The indictments, it was announced, were returned after an investigation of six weeks into the affairs of Charles H. Clarkson & Co., brokers. It was declared E. M. Fuller, confessed bucketeer, and his partner, William F. McGee, had been instrumental in forming the Clarkson firm.

Another Balk in Turk-Ally Negotiations

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LAUSANNE, July 11.—A hitch in the agreement between the Turks and the Allies has arisen over the question of withdrawing the British warships stationed at Constantinople. The clause in the draft treaty concerning evacuation of the Allied forces refers only to troops, the Turks apparently having neglected the insertion of a reference to the warships.

Ismet Pasha is demanding that the vessels shall be withdrawn at the same time as the troops, namely, six weeks after ratification of the treaty by the Turkish National Assembly at Angora.

This demand has been submitted to the British government by Sir Horace Rumbold, who now is awaiting the decision from London. It is believed peace cannot be signed before the end of next week.

BOLT KILLS SOLDIERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BALTIMORE, July 11. — Three members of the Fifth Regiment, Maryland National Guard, in camp at Saunders Range, Anne Arundel county, were killed tonight when a bolt of lightning struck in the midst of a group of men. Ten soldiers were reported injured.

The men were lounging about the camp at the time watching a severe thunderstorm that swept over that section of the county.

Some of the injured were given first-aid treatment at the encampment, while others were rushed to Baltimore hospitals, where doctors said they were badly shocked, but their condition not serious. The officers in charge withheld names of the dead and injured.

According to one of the injured, the bolt descended at 7:45 o'clock and caused a panic among the soldiers and officers.

DEATHS TOTAL TWELVE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ALTON (Ill.) July 11.—With the number of dead in yesterday's explosion at the Western Cartridge Company's plant at East Alton increased today to twelve, physicians at St. Joseph Hospital in this city were making every effort to save the lives of the eleven seriously hurt who were brought here last night and several of whom are reported to be in a critical condition.

Deputy Coroner Streeper announced today that the inquest into the deaths of the twelve victims would be deferred several days owing to the serious condition of several women, who, it is feared, may die. In the meantime the investigation begun by officials of the company in an effort to determine the cause of the explosion, was continued without any satisfactory results.

It has been established by eye-witnesses that a flame shot from a machine used for decapping army rifle bullets. The flames followed a sharp report, employees said, as though a bullet had been discharged. The actual cause will probably never be known, said J. M. Olin, vice-president of the company.

The process of removing the powder from cartridges, Mr. Olin added, had always been regarded of little danger. On the other hand, employees engaged in that kind of work asserted that cartridges frequently exploded while they were being run through the decapping process. Mr. Olin was inclined to advance the theory that about ten pounds of powder had become jammed in the pockets of the machine and were set off in some manner.

FRANCE ACCEPTS NAVY PACT

Washington Arms Limitation Treaty Ratified by Large Senate Vote Without Reservation

BY HENRY WALES

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, July 11.—The French Senate ratified the Washington naval-limitation treaty tonight by 287 votes against 3. The treaty will be signed by President Millerand on his return in a week from his trip to Auvergne, and the French ratification will be deposited in Washington within a month.

The Senate is expected to adjourn Thursday afternoon without having acted on the Pacific Treaty which has been ratified by the Chamber. All the other Washington conference treaties must go over until Parliament's reconvening in the middle of October.

"It is well understood that in ratifying the naval treaty, France retains its liberty regarding the use of submarines," declared Senator Lemery, reporter for the Naval Commission in emphasizing the fact that the French parliament was not ready to accept the submarine convention.

Senator Reynald recalled former Premier Briand's telegram to Secretary of State Hughes on December 10, 1921, to the effect that France in accepting a reduction in line ships tonnage maintained complete liberty to build light unit ships and submarines.

"The opinion of the government on this point has been formally reaffirmed in the last few days," added A. Reynald.

The treaty only applies to capital ships," affirmed M. Raiberti, Minister of Marine. "As regards light ships and submarines the French idea triumphed at Washington."

The treaty finally was ratified without reservation.

MURDERESS TRIES SUICIDE

Mrs. Nitti Beats Head Against Bars Till Blood Flows

Juror's Wife Threatens to Leave Him

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 11.—Mrs. Belle Nitti-Crudelle, the first woman ever deemed in the jury in Cook county, attempted to commit suicide early this morning in her cell at the County Jail. Meanwhile her case continues to excite comment everywhere, the verdict which sent her to the gallows is causing dismay in many happy homes.

Already the wife of one of the jurors who rendered the verdict of guilty and voted for the death penalty, has threatened to go home to mother if Mrs. Nitti hangs, while another admits that she is a "broken up" about the case.

REFUSES FOOD

Mrs. Nitti's attempt to kill herself came in a frenzy of loneliness. She beat her head against the bars until blood came, and tried to choke herself with a towel. Intervention that only the timely arrival of a matron prevented her from lapsing into unconsciousness. After the frenzy subsided the woman had a high temperature and refused food.

Thomas L. Mortimer, foreman of the jury that sentenced her to the gallows, announced that the twenty minutes' conference with Judge David this morning was a "domestic hot water he was glad to be in as the result of the verdict was merely business." Mrs. Mortimer, after she had thought that her husband should subscribe to the hanging of a woman, her sex, told him that he could go home to her mother if he wished. Mrs. Nitti was canvassed, according to the report.

OTHERS APPROVE

Another juror's wife who declared that she is "all broken up" over the verdict is Mrs. Marchese. She said:

"I am much distressed that my husband voted to take a woman's life," she said. "Of course, I would not leave him on account, but I feel very badly about it. I have wept a good deal about it."

Wives of other jurors have stood back of their husbands in the belief that the verdict was justified.

CROP OUTLOOK HAS IMPROVED

State Expert's Report Shows Advance From June 1

Increased Production Along Most Lines Indicated

Notable Change for Better in Lemons and Walnuts

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, July 11.—California crops show a general improvement in condition on July 1, as compared with June 1, according to information released today by the agricultural statistician of the California Crop Reporting Service. The acreage planted to rice, beans, potatoes and sweet potatoes decreased in comparison with last year, while there is an increase in the area planted to corn. The crop conditions are summarized as follows:

Indian corn: The preliminary estimate of the acreage of Indian corn in California shows an increase of 10 per cent above last year, which indicates a total planting of 178,000 acres. The crop condition is 91 per cent of a normal, which is the same as that of a year ago and compares with the ten-year average of 89. Upon this basis the production for this season is forecast at 4,542,720 bushels.

Wheat: The condition of wheat in California on July 1 was very good, due primarily to favorable weather during June. Late maturing fields in many counties are producing a more plump kernel than had been anticipated. Threshing is advancing rapidly in the important wheat-growing localities. The total State production now indicated is 14,589,000 bushels, as compared to a total production in 1922 (December estimate) of 15,305,000 bushels.

CONDITION OF WHEAT

The condition report on spring wheat for July is 82.4 per cent. This figure compares with 83.7 for the same date last year and 85.1 for the past ten-year average. On this basis a probable production of 234,729,000 bushels for 1923 is indicated.

Oats: The State condition figure on oats for July 1 was 92 per cent of a normal, compared with 85 last year and 83 as an average of the past ten years. This condition indicates a crop for the State of 5,669,000 bushels as against a total production for 1922 of 5,250,000 bushels.

Barley: Climatic conditions during the month of June were equally favorable for the maturing of both barley and wheat. In most localities barley is grading out at a very satisfactory weight per bushel. The forecasted production for the year, compiled at this date, is 34,724,000 bushels.

RICE: The preliminary acreage estimate of rice planted in California in 1923 is 105,500 acres compared to 140,000 acres harvested in 1922. Cool temperatures throughout the important rice-growing counties during most of June have retarded the development of the crop. An average condition of only 80 per cent of a normal is recorded as compared with 88 last year and a ten-year average of 90.

POTATO CROP OFF

Potatoes: The total acreage of potatoes in the States shows a decrease of 30 per cent from the 1922 plantings—an effect attributed to low prices received by growers for last season's crop. The area for 1923 is estimated at 53,000 acres. The condition reported is 94 per cent of normal. Should favorable conditions maintain to maturity, the total harvest for the State should be 7,372,000 bushels, compared to a total production of 10,260,000 bushels in 1922. The condition for this date one year ago was 95, while the ten-year average is 89.

Sweet potatoes: The area planted to sweet potatoes in California for 1923 has likewise been decreased. Only 76 per cent of last year's acreage has been planted, which comparison stands at 3000 acres for 1923 and 6100 acres for 1923. Cool weather and considerable wind have retarted the growth of young plants resulting in a condition report of 83 per cent of a normal. This compares with a condition of 94 for July 1, 1922, and 93 for the ten-year average. These figures establish a forecast on this date of a total production for the session of 795,000 bushels. The total production for 1922 was 850,000 bushels.

DECREASE IN BEANS

Beans: The average planted to lima beans shows a decrease of about 20 per cent in comparison with last year, while there is no change indicated in the acreage of "beans other than limas." Owing to comparatively cool weather, the condition is not quite as good as on June 1, being reported at 88 per cent of a normal for beans other than limas and 87 for limas.

With the advance of the season the general trend is for large crops of fruit than reported on June 1. The report says:

Peaches: The present forecast of production is slightly above that reported on June 1, being now figured at 393,000 tons, which is estimated to be about 92 per cent of a normal crop. In 1922 there was a crop of 420,000 tons produced. The production of peaches in the United States is forecast at 48,258,000 bushels as against 56,705,000 in the United States last year and a five-year average production of 42,700,000 bushels.

Pears—Present information indicates that the pear crop was not so seriously affected by "drop" as reported on June 1. The condition is 89 per cent of a normal compared to 75 per cent last month and a ten-year average of 77. The forecast of production would indicate about 112,000 tons, against 125,000 tons last year.

APRICOTS INCREASE

Apricots—With the important districts now reporting a normal and better than normal outlook, the present condition is estimated to be 102 per cent, compared to 59 at this date last year, and a ten-year average of 67. The forecast of production would indicate about 210,000 tons, against 120,000 tons last year.

Cherries—This year's crop of cherries turned out somewhat better than expected, and is now estimated to be about 81 per cent of a normal production and will amount to approximately 14,500 tons.

Prunes—The prune crop promises to be slightly better than heretofore reported. The condition is 83 per cent of a normal, compared to 76 per cent at this date last year, and a ten-year average of 77. If present prospects continue, the production of prunes will be approximately 80,000 tons.

Plums — Reports indicate no change in the condition of the plum crop which was estimated to be 97 per cent of a normal on June 1, compared to 79 last year, and a four-year average of 74.

Olives—While the June 1 report indicated a very favorable outlook due to the heavy blossoming, the present condition is only 75 per cent of a normal, compared to 91 per cent a month ago. This is due to a poor set in Southern California. However, in the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys prospects are much better.

Figs—The condition of the fig crop is estimated to be 92 per cent of normal, compared to 91 at this date last year, and a six-year average of 95.

LEMON PROSPECTS GOOD

Lemons—Prospects for a lemon crop continue to be as favorable as reported on June 1, when the condition was estimated to be 88 per cent of a normal. This compares with 56 per cent at this date last year, and a ten-year average of eighty.

Oranges—But little change is reported in the condition of the orange crop, it being now only one point lower than the June 1 report, which was 93 per cent of normal. In Tulare county both the Valencia and Navel crop promise to be good, while the Valencia crop in Los Angeles and Orange counties is not as good as originally estimated.

Grapes—The abnormally cool weather during June promoted the development of mildew causing some loss to leading grape districts. However, the recent hot weather has checked the disease to a great extent and the damage will be somewhat less than early reports indicated. The condition of all grapes is estimated to be 96 per cent of a normal compared with what was believed to be a slightly better than normal outlook on June 1. Last year's raisin crop was equivalent to about 830,000 tons of fresh grapes which added to the estimated production of table and wine grapes and the tonnage left on the vines gives a total crop of 1,660,000 tons on a fresh basis. A forecast of this year's crop on a fresh basis under conditions as of July 1 indicates a production of 1,743,000 tons. The probable increase in production is due primarily to new bearing acreage. A raisin crop of 250,000 tons would leave approximately 743,000 tons of fresh grapes to find a market within and without the State.

NUT OUTLOOK BETTER

Almonds—Growers are becoming more optimistic as the season advances as to this year's crop which is now estimated to be 77 per cent of a normal and compared to 75 last month and a ten-year average of 70 on July 1.

Walnuts—Prospects continue to be very favorable. The present condition is 90 per cent of a normal, compared to 85 per cent last year at this state, and a ten-year average of 84. This good crop is uniformly distributed throughout the principal walnut producing counties; however, in Ventura county the outlook is exceedingly good.

Hay—Grains cut green for hay having been practically all harvested, the tame hay would be largely confined to alfalfa and the condition of tame hay and alfalfa would naturally be the same. Unseasonably low temperatures held back the growth of alfalfa and the condition is 90 per cent of a normal as compared with 94 last year and a ten-year average of 92. The condition of wild hay is about 91 per cent of a normal. A condition of 90 for tame hay and 91 for wild hay would forecast a total crop of about 4,634,000 tons. Alfalfa is included in the estimated production of tame hay.

MacDONALD SMITH FEATURES THIRD DAY'S GOLF PLAY AT INWOOD

HAGEN QUALIFIES AFTER DODGING OL' MAN JINX

Walter Saved From Extinction by Spectacular Performance in Open Championship

BY HUGH FULLERTON
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

INWOOD (L. I.) [illegible] far off his game in the morning, moved from extinction only by digging long and difficult putts, and with a great burst of speed, made desperate chances, but pre[illegible] disaster.

NARROW ESCAPE

In the afternoon, going out in 36 and playing with extreme care [illegible] home, he got well inside [illegible] safety zone, although he had a narrow escape.

Hagen, Smith, by magnificent steady golf and carefully [illegible] the pitfalls into which [illegible] of great golfers have fallen, shot the best golf of the day [illegible] 74 in the morning and a [illegible] in the afternoon, making the [illegible] for the day, three strokes [illegible] than Willie Ogg of Worcester, who shot both rounds with [illegible] a slip. Hagen had a strenuous trip in the morning round [illegible] only superputting, and a break [illegible] kept him from one of the best rips of his career.

Smith, straight with his wood, [illegible] all save three traps in [illegible], and his approaching was [illegible] he had easy work on [illegible] greens, although he did not [illegible] single long putt, running up [illegible] and taking two putts con[illegible].

Penalty Adds to Score of Ex-Champion

BY WALTER HAGEN
Former British and American Open Champion
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

INWOOD COUNTRY CLUB, July 11.—Whatever chances I had of leading the field today in the third qualifying round of the open championship were knocked into a cocked hat on the first nine holes. I was unable to get my game going properly and required forty-two for this half of the journey. Then something unusual happened on the inward half which cost me two strokes, from which I got no benefit. My tee shot was in a trap at the fifteenth hole. I tried to play out, but topped the ball. Without thinking, I took a practice swing at the spot where the ball was lying and gathered up a lot of sand with my niblick. The rules say that this is not permissible, even though one is more than a club's length away from the ball. This penalty added two shots to my score and I finished with seventy-nine.

The scores in general were about the same as they were the first two days. I brought in the winner of the low score today, as I was paired with MacDonald Smith. He did a fine seventy-four in the morning and added a seventy-six in the afternoon for a total of 150. This was not as good as Gene Sarazen or Joe Kirkwood did in the first two days' play, but it was consistent golf. I made sure that I was going to get safely in during the afternoon and took no undue chances. The qualifying round is always the hard one in the championship. I am never particularly desirous of beating the field and I think most of the boys feel the same way. If I have any good shots at my command I would rather save them for the big show.

Carbie A. Walker, the Cleveland Y.M.C.A. swimmer, will on July 25 try to swim Lake Erie from Point Pelee lighthouse, on the Canadian side, to Lorain (O.) lighthouse, a distance of thirty-two miles.

Eugene, Or., will hold the 1924 Pacific Coast and Northwest conference track and field meet.

KINSEY MEETS ALONZO

Californian and Spaniard in Feature Match of Clay Court Tourney Today

BY WILLIAM T. TILDEN, II,
Tennis Champion of the World, 1920-1921.
(Copyright, 1923.)
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

INDIANAPOLIS, July 11.—Terrific heat again featured the national clay court championship resulting in one upset in the boys' singles and causing many of the leading players to take things rather easily. Sandy Wiener, Great Lakes, Western Pennsylvania and Illinois State junior champion, fell a victim to the heat after winning the first set 6-2 from Don Wilson of Ft. Wayne and dropped the next two 6-4, 6-4. In the men's singles all the favorites ran true to form. Wallace T. Johnson defeated Ted Mertz, the young Californian 6-0, 6-3. Flashing the best tennis he has yet shown in the west, his control was perfect.

The Kinsey brothers advanced with ease, although young Clifford Kinsey, the Buffalo junior, carried Howard to 6-4 in the first set. Howard drove magnificently his second, but Kinsey's clever court generalship proved too great a handicap for the youngster's brilliancy to overcome. Bob Kinsey defeated his fellow-Californian, David Conrad, 6-2, 6-2, proving too steady for the collegian, who threw away several chances by wildness.

Jess Willard and Luis Firpo in Twelve-Round Battle Tonight

BARGAIN DAY IN FISTIANA TODAY

Prices of Admission Suit All Pocketbook Sizes

Rickard Expects to Pack in Many Thousands

Interest in Heavyweight Bout Tremendous

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 11.—Fit and ready for their twelve-round battle tomorrow night in the big pine bowl at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City, Jess Willard, former champion of the world, and Luis Angel Firpo, the pride of the Argentine, will be the principals in what is expected to be one of the greatest ring dramas in years.

Popular interest in the match, the star attraction of a five-bout heavyweight card, had broken all records for a contest in which no championship is involved. But, while no title hinges on the outcome, the fact that Firpo and Willard, two of the most striking personalities the fistic game has ever known, will fight for the right to meet Jack Dempsey in a championship struggle, has focussed unusual attention on the bout.

Tex Rickard has signed Willard and Firpo to contracts containing the stipulation that the winner fights Dempsey and the promoter expects to come to terms with the champion's manager, Jack Kearns, within a few days.

From indications tonight the fight will have a background rivalling in size and color the Dempsey-Carpentier spectacle two years ago in the same arena. The advance sale of tickets tonight was approximately 35,000 it was announced, with the receipts close to $350,000. There remained, however, 27,000 reserved seats ranging in price from $3.30 to $11, together with 30,000 tickets at $1 and $2 which will go on sale late tomorrow afternoon for the general admission sections.

Paid attendance for the Dempsey-Carpentier match amounted to 72,328, although the entire number of spectators, including employees, police and others, was about 90,000.

BIG-BUGS TO ATTEND

Prominent figures in national, State and municipal public life, together with a throng of society folk and other notables, will occupy ringside seats. Past and present luminaries of the prize ring will include two former heavyweight titleholders—Jack Johnson and Jim Corbett. Delegations of Firpo's supporters from South and Central America will bring a new element to fistic fandom.

Willard may enter the ring a slight favorite, experts conceded tonight, despite the fact that a few weeks ago his opponent was favored by a majority of boxing followers.

In ring prowess, stamina and hitting power, they are closely matched, Willard's advantages are in height, weight and reach, offsetting Firpo's youth and aggressiveness.

Both fighters had light workouts today. Neither is required to make weight, but they will jump on the scales at the arena at 7:30 o'clock. Willard is expected to enter the ring around 240 and Firpo about 214 pounds.

The two men vanquished by Willard and Firpo in the Milk Fund heavyweight carnival in May will box in the semifinal, also scheduled for twelve rounds. This pair of youngsters, Floyd Johnson of Des Moines, Iowa, and Jack McAuliffe II of Detroit, are closely matched.

The remainder of the card includes three eight-rounders, bringing together Cliff Kramer of Seattle and Tiny Jim Herman of Omaha, Neb.; Young Bob Fitzsimmons of Newark, N. J., and Tom Roper of Chicago; Charley Nashert and George West, two local pugilists.

"I HOPE TO WIN," STATES WILLARD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 11.—The following statement was made by Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion, in reference to his bout with Luis Firpo tomorrow night: "I am not overconfident but I think I can win. I have never seen Firpo fight but I have been told he is a tough fellow and a hard hitter. I believe that to be so, but I don't think there's anybody in the ring who can take my measure today. I'm in better condition than at any other time in my career. I hope to whip Firpo. If I do, I'll be ready for a return match with Dempsey the next day or any other day he signs. My one and only object is to win back the title I lost to him four years ago."

WILLS IS LOGICAL OPPONENT

Winner of Willard-Firpo Go Must Show Unexpected Class to be Considered

BY CHALTER ACKERSALL
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 11.—Unless Jess Willard or Luis Firpo make an unexpected showing in their twelve-round bout at Jersey City tomorrow night, Harry Wills, the colored fighter, will be the next opponent for Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey.

This was the emphatic statement made today by Jack Kearns, who passed through Chicago on his way to New York, where he will talk over proposed contests for his champion. Incidentally, Kearns will be about the most interested spectator at the ringside in Jersey City, and if the public demands that Dempsey meet the winner of tomorrow night's heavyweight clash, Kearns said he will lose no time to sign.

According to Kearns, everything points to a Dempsey-Wills match and he stated that Tex Rickard and Tom O'Rourke will sign a partnership for staging the mill. Dempsey's manager said he has given his word he will fight for Rickard. O'Rourke has Wills's word he will fight for him. As a result of the mix-up, O'Rourke and Rickard will have to get together with Kearns to put the match over. If Dempsey is matched to meet either Firpo or Willard, the contest will be staged under Rickard's direction.

At any rate, it is assured that Dempsey's next opponent will be either Wills, Willard or Firpo. Kearns admitted this and said the proposed bout will be staged on Labor Day, one of the best boxing days of the outdoor season.

If Willard should dispose of Firpo inside of five rounds, Kearns is of the opinion, the public would demand a return match between the ex-champion and the present titleholder. If Firpo should be the victor in the same number of rounds a Firpo-Dempsey match would be far more attractive than the proposed bout between Dempsey and Wills. Should Willard and Firpo go twelve uninteresting rounds, then a Dempsey-Wills clash will be arranged, according to Kearns.

VANCOUVER MATCH IN STORE FOR GEORGIE

Little Georgie Marks, former bantamweight champ of the Pacific Coast, and who is scheduled to meet Willie Spencer at Vernon next Tuesday night, Will probably fight in Vanvouver on July 24.—California Joe Lynch has been named as his probable opponent.

DR. HUNTER DEFEATED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SEATTLE (Wash.) July 11.—Dr. Paul Hunter, former California champion, was beaten by Lee Steil of Seattle, in a gruelling 36-hole match today on the links of the Seattle Golf Club in the second round of the finals for the golf championship of the Pacific Northwest. All the breaks today went against the doctor, who rose Monday from a sick bed to qualify. Seven stymies took the heart out of Dr. Hunter, who belongs to the Annandale Club.

It was a hard day all around on Californians. George Ritchie and Harlow Hurley, the other two to get into the finals, also suffered defeat. Francis Brown, long-driving Hawaiian champion, was tonight the lone survivor of a dozen outsiders who entered the tournament Monday.

Mrs. L. W. Palmer, Oregon State women's champion, did the best medal scoring in the first round of the finals of the Pacific Northwest women's championship. Mrs. Palmer finished out her second after beating Miss C. Hurley of Tacoma, six and five, for a 44-41—85.

SCHOONER TITLE UP

Coast Championship Will be Settled at Santa Barbara Regatta Next Week

Excepting the Santa Barbara-Honolulu race, which has stirred up nation-wide interest, the most important section of the regatta arranged for next week at Santa Barbara by the Southern California Yachting Association will be the Pacific Coast schooner championship, which has been sanctioned by officials of the Pacific Coast Yachting Association. Competition promises to be of an exciting nature, schooners from ports all up and down the Coast being expected to enter. Otto Wildey's Jubilo, Walter Siebert's Loafer, C. B. Eyer's Idalia, the Henrietta, owned by Morgan Adams, and Admiral Soiland's flagship Viking IV will probably represent Southern California in the championship event.

Entrants in the Honolulu race will be set off Saturday, July 21, the closing day of the yachting festivities in Santa Barbara. The Viking IV, flagship of the Southern California Yachting Association, and the yawl Poinsetta will represent the south in the trans-Pacific classic. The latter craft is being fitted for the race at present, and will be in shape by the middle of next week. The La Paloma, Honolulu entry, has been withdrawn.

Sir Thomas Lipton, internationally famous yachtsman, has offered a trophy for the winning skipper. The cup will be on exhibition at Santa Barbara during the regatta.

Another Lipton cup will be up for competition among the sloops, in one of the head-liners of next week's program. The Lady Betty, winner of the regatta championship last season at Newport, will defend her title against some speedy craft. The recent entry of the Patricia, formerly owned by Ron Haitland of Vancouver and skippered now by Pierpont Davis of the California Yacht Club, has lessened considerably the Lady Betty's chances of retaining the cup this season. The Patricia has created a sensation in northern waters in sloop competition, and is apt to dethrone the present champion.

A number of yachts from Port Los Angeles will race to the scene of next week's celebration, Commodore Eugene Overton having put up a trophy for the winning craft. The local fleet is slated to start for the channel city at noon Saturday.

SANTA BARBARA, July 11.—The schooner Yankee, skippered by Charles E. Miller, dropped anchor here today, coming from San Francisco, the first of the vessels to arrive for the regatta which will start Monday and continues through the coming week.

Four additional trophies were received during the day. Earle Ovington, chairman of the regatta trophy committee this forenoon received a solid silver cup from Admiral Soiland of the California Yacht Club of Los Angeles. The Santa Barbara Real Estate Board, at the noon luncheon voted to offer a cup; the Santa Barbara Elks voted last night to donate a cup, and a high powered receiving set was sent to the committee as a trophy.

The R boats will start from San Francisco for a race down the Coast to Santa Barbara and are due here Saturday or Sunday. The winner will get the first trophy awarded in the regatta program. All day electricians have been busy on the water front fitting up the clubhouse of the local yachtmen with additional decorations, while painters have been employed putting on finishing touches where needed. It is expected that by Saturday morning every detail for the week's regatta will have been taken care of.

ANGLING BEST EVER AT RAINBOW CLUB

In word received from Leigh G. Garnsey, fly fishing at the Rainbow Club couldn't be better. The water is very clear and many members have been angling at the various streams and lakes, have tried the club during the last few days and caught limits in short order.

Among the anglers to catch limits at Rainbow recently are: Dr. and Mrs. George L. McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Hedderly, Dr. and Mrs. L. D. Ruse, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Nickle, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Falck and H. S. Eaton and wife.

FOGGY WEATHER RUINS FISHING AT CATALINA

Foggy weather ruined many an angler's hopes at Catalina last week, accordinging to word from Peterson of the B. H. Dyas Company.

The weather has started to clear somewhat and the tuna are coming to the surface, but are not biting well. Eaton also reports that albicore are not biting, but that barracuda are plentiful. The first marlin swordfish of the season was seen a few days ago. Only a few broadbill swordfish have shown up.

FIRPO DECLARES: "I'LL BE VITCOR"

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 11.—Luis Firpo, Argentine heavyweight, when interviewed today concerning his bout with Willard tomorrow night said: "I know I can beat Willard. I watched him fight Floyd Johnson two months ago at the same show in which I knocked out Jack McAuliffe, II, and I know his style. I don't know how long it will take me to win but I hope it will be early. However, I'm in the best condition of my life and can outlast Willard if necessary. I have all the confidence in the world that I'll be the victor and then it's Jack Dempsey and the title."

JESS LARGER IN EVERY WAY THAN OPPONENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 11.—Jess Willard, the Kansas "man mountain," will have big advantages in height, weight and reach over Luis Angel Firpo when the pair meet at Boyle's Thirty Acres tomorrow night. Measurements taken today show the former champion has a margin of twenty-seven pounds on the scales, five inches in reach and nearly five inches in height. Firpo is fourteen years younger.

The comparisons follow:

WILLARD		FIRPO
40	Age	26
241	Weight	214
84 inches	Reach	79 inches
6 feet 7 inches	Height	6 feet 2½ inches
6 inches	Wrist	8½ inches

38 inches	Waist	36½ inches
25 inches	Thigh	23½ inches
13½ inches	Calf	15 inches

FAST LIGHTWEIGHTS MIX AT THE HARBOR

Alex McDonald, well-known local 122-pounder, will mix with Young Farrell in the main event of the Chief Petty Officers' show at the harbor tonight. McDonald has shown to advantage in all of his recent bouts and Farrell is one of the best boxers of his weight on the Coast.

Ernie Owens will meet Jack Inman in the semiwind-up. Young Datto and Tommy Richards will exchange punches in the special event. The rest of the card as announced by Matchmaker Lucas follows: Freddie Eller vs. Frankie Buffington, 133 pounds; Harry Ritzer vs. Young Stanley, eacthweights, and Johnny Nordis vs. Kid Thompson at 135 pounds.

Syndicate of Columbus Men Buys Red Sox

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, July 11.—The Boston American League baseball club today was sold to a syndicate of Columbus (O.) men by Harry H. Frazee, owner of the club since 1916. The completion of the sale and the signing of the contract, which has been periodically reported and denied for several months, was announced by Robert F. Quinn, former business manager of the St. Louis American club, representing the Ohio syndicate.

Mr. Quinn announced that the sale contract had been signed after a long conference at the offices of Pillsbury, Dana & Young, attorneys. President Ban Johnson of the American League was present, as were Edward M. Schoenborn and Palmer K. Winslow of Columbus, members of the purchasing syndicate and others. It also was announced that legal steps in connection with the contract would not be completed until August 1. Mr. Quinn refused to make public the amount of money involved.

President Johnson, in confirming the sale of the club, refused to make public the price, but said it was "over $1,000,000." He said that Robert Quinn would be president and treasurer of the company to be formed as owners and that Palmer K. Winslow of Cincinnati would be vice-president. It was said that a bord of five directors would be formed, two of whom are expected to be Edward M. Schoenborn nd Robert Drury of Columbus.

SCENE OF BOUT TO BE SHIFTED

The attention of the seven fight promoters, who only last Tuesday announced their plans to hold a return go between Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons somewhere in Southern California, has been turned to staging the affair in Arizona. The laws in that State permit ten-round fights, and allow the payment of purses to fighters. Definite offers have been forwarded to both Jack Kearns and Eddie Kane. Phoenix is named as the probable scene of the battle, and Thanksgiving Day as the proposed date for the affair.

SPORT SHRAPNEL

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Luis Angel Firpo is favored over Jess Willard, by such as favor him, and they seem in the majority, on the sole ground that youth will be served.

Youth, so far this year, has had a distinct edge. Mickey Walker took the crown from Jack Britton, Bernstein beat Johnny Dundee, Eugene Criqui triumphed over Johnny Kilbane and Pancho Villa punched Jimmy Wilde into submission. In each case the victor was the younger man.

But there seem to be exceptions to all rules. Youth, while polling a large majority of victories, stubbed its toe. Youth bowed to age and experience when Floyd Johnson met Willard. Youth was served at Shelby, but none too well. Youth won at Shelby solely because it had the weight.

Gibbons proved a marvel. Some claim that Willard, at least five years older, is a physical freak in the matter of size, strength and preservation, the rare exception which proves this almost inexorable rule.

He will have to be very much of an exception to defeat Firpo. The latter is large enough to whip anybody if he has the know. If the South American has been taught an adequate defense he should be installed as favorite. But if he proves as open as he was in his fight with Brennan, Willard should get him.

The fact remains that those nearest the scene favor Firpo. Some of the same people liked Johnson to beat Jess in the milk-fund fight. Also, a majority of them were wrong regarding Criqui and Kilbane, Dempsey and Gibbons. Those closest to the training camps sometimes seem to lose their mental perspective.

Jack Root, who battled Marvin Hart for the Jeffries belt, is inclined to favor the Buenos Ayres boy on the theory that Willard possibly has not been able to attain the desired pink.

Root was a fine boxer in his day, but fighters and ex-fighters have not batted very high in calling the turn on others, as the records show, just as a ball player seldom makes the right guess on a world series.

Incidentally, Jack is back in the show business as manager of the Mission Theater. After selling his playhouse in Pasadena, Jack partook of an extensive trip abroad.

Root, unlike a lot of fighters, didn't get his brains knocked out in the ring, figuratively speaking. Although engaging in something like sixty hard battles, he emerged unimpaired physically and mentally. In business he has been very successful, and there is nothing about him to suggest the ex-fighter except a well-muscled body. Cleverness probably explains his excellent, unmarked condition.

Root fought at 155, or about the same as Gibbons. Among some of those he defeated were Jack Moffatt, Tom Lansing, Australian Jim Ryan, Harry Peppers, Billy Stift, Tom Casey, Frank Craig, Alec Greggains, Tommy West, Dan Creedon, George Byers, Kid Carter, George Gardner, Marvin Hart, Kid McKoy, Jim Flynn. He subsequently lost to Hart, and terminated his career by whipping Fred Russell in ten rounds.

Russell was a big fighter who never got far. Another Queensberry Behemoth was Jack McAuliffe, San Francisco heavy. Also Ed Dunkhorst, the "human freight car," and Jack McCormick.

Willard was the only enormously big man to win a championship. Few of the old-time heavyweight champions were extraordinarily large. Fitzsimmons was the smallest to win the heavyweight title, at least in modern times. He could fight in the middleweight, light heavyweight and heavyweight divisions, and held all three titles.

Jeffries probably was the biggest titleholder in the heavyweight dynasty prior to the ascendancy of Willard. Sullivan was not large as heavyweights go, and neither was Corbett.

Jeffries, at 220 pounds, however, gave an impression of immensity which even Willard seems to lack. Jeff's huge arms and legs, and his torso as heavily haired as a bear, made him a terrifying sight, as some of his palsied opponents could testify.

"Mexican Pete" Everett caught one fleeting glimpse of him in the dressing room just prior to their fight. Mr. Everett was considerably shaken and insisted on being allowed to take a knife into the ring with him. His trainers compromised on a bottle of brandy, and this enabled Pete to generate the necessary courage.

Firpo physically is quite reminiful of Jeff, but imparts hardly the same impression of sheer, crushing, elemental power.

Someway you felt that if Jeff could only get under the world he wouldn't have much trouble holding it up. Yet Johnson took him by the wrists and bent his arms behind him as though he had been a child. That's what age did to one champion.

KINSEY MEETS MANUEL ALONZO

Both Howard and Bob Kinsey looked good today, and seem to be rapidly rounding into form. I was in far better condition today than yesterday, and easily eliminated Fritz Bostian of Indianapolis, 6-2, 6-2. Bostian was too soft on the ground, allowing me to advance to net and cut off his drives for points.

Manuel Alonzo met the hard-hitting, brilliant Cincinnatian, Louis Kuhler, Jr., and thrilled the gallery by a sparkling display of sensational tennis, winning by the score of 6-2, 6-4. Alonzo is slowly reaching the form which carried him to victory in Chicago last week, and is a ruling favorite for the title.

Walter Wesbrook of Detroit advanced at the expense of E. P. Westonhaver by the score of 6-2, 6-4. Wesbrook hit with more speed than formerly, and looks to be improving. Phil Bettins of California scored a decisive and well-merited victory over J. B. Zdone of Texas. Bettins was steady and used a short soft spot with great effect. Johny Hennessey ran away with his fellow-Indianapolis star, Ralph Burdick, to the tune of 6-0, 6-2. Hennessey looked particularly good today, making few errors and hitting clean and hard.

The men's doubles started today with all the favorites advancing according to dope.

Tomorrow the singles will play the best three out of five sets. There are several important matches scheduled. The most important will be the meeting of Howard Kinsey and Manuel Alonzo. I expect to see the Spaniard win, but Kinsey is a most resourceful player and may upset the dope. Wallace Johnson meets Walter Wesbrook in the second big match of the day. Bob Kinsey plays John Hennessey and should win, but will be forced to the limit, should Hennessey be as good as he was against Burdick. I play Phil Bettins in the last match for the day for a place in the semi-finals. If the heat abates by tomorrow I believe there will be sensational tennis in all the matches; certainly the Kinsey-Alonzo and Johnson-Wesbrook meetings should produce thrills.

PACIFIC NORTHWEST NET TITLE SETTLED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) July 11. Howard Langlie of Seattle won the Pacific Northwest tennis singles championship in the annual tournament here this afternoon by defeating Will Givler, boy champion of Portland, in a two-set match, 6-0, 6-3.

WHEEZER DELL IS NOW WITH INDIANS

Wheezer Dell, veteran Vernon pitcher, and for several seasons the mainstay of the staff, is now the property of Seattle. Vernon asked for waivers on Dell, and Seattle promptly claimed him. It seems to be the consensus that Dell will improve with this change and strengthen the Siwashes.

LONG BEACH HORSE-SHOE TOSSERS WIN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, July 11.—Taking 34 games out of 50, making 493 ringers, 995 points, the Long Beach horse-shoe team yesterday defeated the Pomona-Redlands combined team in a challenge meet on the local grounds. The Pomona-Redlands outfit garnered 393 ringers and 712 points.

Braddield of Long Beach was high-point man with 128, while P. C. Bemis of Pomona made the highest ringer total for five games with 34. A large crowd witnessed the tossing of the hoof ornaments and cheered loudly when exceptional plays were made.

ASHTON DONZA AND RUBIDOUX BOX DRAW

The Venice Boxing Club of the Venice American Legion pulled off a whale of a card last night at the Sunset Pier before a big house. In the main event Ashton Donza and Ad. Rubidoux fought a sensational draw. In the semiwind-up, Jack Russo stopped Joe Martini in the second round. The special event between Frank Smith and Teddie Frenchie went to a draw. Jackie Jones stopped Babe Conners in the second round. Alex Maurice won the decision over Freddie Ellis in four rounds. Bennie Dias stopped Kid Kelly in the third round. Lick Donald was referee and the decisions were all well received.

BUSHMAN AND BAYNE ON STAGE, SCREEN

The matinee girls will gather at Loew's State next week.

Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne are coming with the cinema unrolling of their return-to-the-screen feature, "Modern Marriage," and the stage will hold them, with members of their company, in a specially arranged one-act sketch, handled in an unusual way.

The stars will arrive in Los Angeles Saturday evening, to begin their personal engagement on Sunday, this opening date having been arranged on account of the popularity of Dick Barthelmess's picture, "The Bright Shawl," which will play an extra day and close Saturday night.

SKILLFUL SKATERS COMING SATURDAY

The Pavlowa and Mordkin of the ice!

That is the title by which Elsie and Paulsen, ice-skaters who make their debut at Grauman's Metropolitan Saturday, are often called.

These artists bring with them some of the most dangerous and difficult feats ever performed by skating experts. One is the original Apache Dance of the ice, in which Paulsen lifts his partner free from the ice by her hair. The skaters recently completed an engagement of two seasons at the New York Hippodrome.

Akron (O.) Racing Association is having a new track built, adjacent to the city.

BERT'S DEFEAT BRINGS DELIGHT

Vernon Crowd Joyous Over Colima's Downfall

Fans Perversely Acclaim O'Hagen's Victory

New Yorker is Now Coast 158-Pound Champ

BY ED O'MALLEY

Well—the rank and file of local Fistania is at present chortling consumedly. What's the big idea? Nothing other than a setback to the Whittier warrior, Bert Colima. Yes, Jimmy O'Hagen did the trick and did it neatly. It was not so broad as an oil fan's dream or so deep as a mother's grief, but it was enough and suff. Jimmy piled up enough points to win the judges' eyes. But why the acclaim, big noise and jamboree? Why go into ecstasies of delight when our local boast is depressed?

During the four hectic rounds last Tuesday night the swish of gloves was frequently accompanied with howls of delight every time Jimmy's mitts landed decisively on the local lad's anatomy. The crowd in the main wanted to see Bert licked, and the licking that they longed for came at last. But again we ask, why?

IS NOW CHAMP

Has anyone ever successfully plumbed the mental yearings of a fight crowd? Jimmy O'Hagen is now the champion middleweight of the Pacific Coast and this same championship was compassed amid explosions of delight by the major part of last Tuesday night's attendance at Doyle's arena. It really sounds like a contradiction in terms, yet it is the bald truth. Now, lads, get us right. We have all kinds of praise for Jimmy's showing and begrudge him not his new title, but we'll be gumsquidded if we can fathom the why and wherefore of the bawling joy that accompanied Bert's downfall.

Bert had a shade in the first round and looked like the Bert of old. In the second, however, the terror of Colima's insistent aggressiveness soon became conspicuous for its absence. His leads began to dwindle and we soon became aware of the reason. Jimmy totes a lightning-like right cross which he can negotiate almost from any angle. The Whittier boy darted a straight left onto the newcomer's shoulder—then quicker than instinct the New Yorker shot his right to Bert's cheek—a right that palpably shocked the receiver. From that time until the end of the round, Colima's usual cleverness and willingness to swap blows fell to the leeway and he contented himself by allowing Jimmy to back him all over the ring.

ON SHORT END

In most cases Bert got the worst of the exchanges at close work. In the clinches O'Hagen's mastery manifested itself in a short overswep of lefts and rights to the face—the right hooks being peculiarly effective. The third round also saw the local boxer on the short end of the bout. He took very little chance at a decided swing with either hand, evidently dreading quick response from Jimmy's left or right cross.

Knowing that the tide had set in against him, Colima gave a truce to caution in the final round and battled valiantly for a spell—all the time, however, never swinging too far out of kilter to be open to Jimmy's dreaded crosses. While Bert fussed and shuffled around a great deal in the final session he dealt little punishment. Much clinching was indulged in, with Jimmy slightly on the long end.

In the second round O'Hagen brought a slight trickle of crimson onto his opponent's lips with a lightning-like left at short range. This produced a smile of acknowledgement from Bert and in most cases, when a pugilist in action is well stung, he flashes a sickly smile. We shall always believe that O'Hagen will win over Colima whenever they meet again, and the dazzling rapidity of the New Yorker's right cross we feel will do the work.

FIGHT ARENA CHANGES NEARING COMPLETION

According to Roy Marshall, Hollywood American Legion fistic magnate, the concrete floor work on the new and greater Movie City arena will be completed Monday. Under the new arrangement there will be 200 fewer seats on the ground floor. The alteration plans call for the installation of a ventilation system, which will insure a complete change of air every ten minutes.

The arena will be reopened on July 20, when Bobby Harper of Portland and Sailor Ashmore of Los Angeles will mix in the main event.

KELLY WANTS RETURN MATCH WITH HACKLEY

K. O. Kelly, who lost a four-round decision to Jimmie Hackley at Hollywood recently, is anxious for a return bout with the U.S.S. Precyon sailor. Kelly knocked Hackley to the mat in the first round, but lost on points in the final three.

Matchmaker Frank Crowley will no doubt rematch the pair in either the special event or the semi-windup at Hollywood's next show on July 20.

"BABE" TWOMBLY BECOMES REALTOR

The Little Warrior

BY P. G. WODEHOUSE

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

Freddie Rooke, a young English diplomat, takes the welfare of his friend, Sir Derek Underhill, M.P., very much to heart. Sir Derek has lately become engaged to Jill Mariner, but in the eyes of Lady Underhill, Derek's mother, she fails to fulfill the requirements of the Underhill traditions. Under his mother's influence Derek criticizes Jill's actions at a theater party one night, a situation which casts Freddie in the role of peacemaker next day. At this time in one of London's slum districts, Willy Bryant, an American chorus girl, is starting out in search of work while Bill, her pet parrot, finding his cage door open strolls to the outer yard for a breath of air. A passerby, seeking to make friends with Bill, is severely bitten and the injured one is about to exact his revenge when Jill and Freddie rush to the rescue. An officer of the law is attracted to the scene and at his request the rescuers journey to jail. Released on bail Jill goes to meet her genial uncle and guardian, Major Christopher Selby.

Jill got up quickly. She was certain now that she had been right, and that there was something on her uncle's mind.

"What's the matter, Uncle Chris? Something's happened. What is it?"

Uncle Chris turned to knock the ash off his cigar. The movement gave him time to collect himself for what lay before him. He had one of those rare volatile natures which can ignore the blows of fate so long as their effects are not brought home by visible evidence of disaster. He lived in the moment, and, though matters had been as bad at breakfast-time as they were now, it was not till now, when he confronted Jill, that he had found his cheerfulness affected by them. He was a man who hated ordeals, and one faced him now. Until this movement he had been able to detach his mind from a state of affairs which would have weighed unceasingly upon another man. His mind was a telephone which he could cut off at will, when the voice of Trouble wished to speak. The time would arrive, he had been aware, when he would have to pay attention to that voice, but so far he had refused to listen. Now it could be evaded no longer.

"Jill."

"Yes?"

Uncle Chris paused again, searching for the best means of saying what had to be said.

"Jill, I don't know if you understand about these things, but there was what is called a slump on the Stock Exchange this morning. In other words . . ."

Jill laughed.

"Of course, I know all about that," she said. "Poor Freddie wouldn't talk about anything else till I made him. He was terribly blue when he got here this afternoon. He said he had got 'nipped' in Amalgamated Dyes. He had lost about £200, and was furious with a friend of his who had told him to buy margins."

Uncle Chris cleared his throat.

"Jill, I'm afraid I've got bad news for you. I bought Amalgamated Dyes, too." He worried his mustache. "I lost heavily, very heavily."

"How naughty of you! You know you oughtn't to gamble."

"Jill, you must be brave. I—I—well, the fact is—it's no good beating about the bush—I lost everything! Everything!"

"Everything?"

"Everything! It's all gone! All fooled away. It's a terrible business. This house will have to go."

"But—but doesn't the house belong to me?"

"I was your trustee, dear." Uncle Chris smoked furiously. "Thank heaven you're going to marry a rich man!"

Jill stood looking at him, perplexed. Money, as money, had never entered into her life. There were things one wanted which had to be paid for with money, but Uncle Chris had always looked after that. She had taken them for granted.

"I don't understand," she said.

And then suddenly she realized that she did, and a great wave of pity for Uncle Chris flooded over her. He was such an old dear. It must be horrible for him to have to stand there, telling her all this. She felt no sense of injury, only the discomfort of having to witness the humiliation of her oldest friend. Uncle Chris was bound up inextricably with everything in her life that was pleasant. She could remember him, looking exactly the same, only with a thicker and wavier crop of hair, playing with her patiently and unwearied for hours in the hot sun, a cheerful martyr. She could remember sitting up with him when she came home from her first grown-up dance, drinking cocoa and talking and talking and talking till the birds outside sang the sun high up into the sky and it was breakfast time. She could remember theaters with him, and jolly little suppers afterward; expeditions into the country, with lunches at queer old inns; days on the river, days at Hurlingham, days at Lords', days at the academy. He had always been the same, always cheerful, always kind. He was Uncle Chris, and he would always be Uncle Chris, whatever he had done or whatever he might do. She slipped her arm in his and gave it a squeeze.

"Poor old thing!" she said.

Uncle Chris had been looking straight out before him with those fine blue eyes of his. There had been just a touch of sternness in his attitude. A stranger, coming into the room at that moment, would have said that here was a girl trying to coax her blunt, straightforward, military father into some course of action of which his honest nature disapproved. He might have been posing for a statue of Rectitude. As Jill spoke, he seemed to cave in.

"Poor old thing?" he repeated limply.

"Of course, you are! And stop trying to look dignified and tragic! Because it doesn't suit you. You're much too well dressed."

"But, my dear, you don't understand! You haven't realized!"

"Yes, I do. Yes, I have!"

"I've spent all your money—your money!"

"I know! What does it matter?"

"What does it matter! Jill, don't you hate me?"

"As if anyone could hate an old darling like you!"

Uncle Chris threw away his cigar, and put his arms round Jill. For a moment a dreadful fear came to her that he was going to cry. She prayed that he wouldn't cry. It would be too awful. It would be a memory of which she could never rid herself. She felt as though he were some one extraordinarily young and unable to look after himself, some one she must soothe and protect.

"Jill," said Uncle Chris, choking, "you're—you're—you're a little warrior!"

Jill kissed him, and moved away. She busied herself with some flowers, her back turned. The tension had been relieved, and she wanted to give him time to recover his poise. She knew him well enough to be sure that, sooner or later, the resiliency of his nature would assert itself. He could never remain long in the depths.

The silence had the effect of making her think more clearly than in the first rush of pity she had been able to do. She was able now to review the matter as it affected herself. It had not been easy to grasp, the blunt fact that she was penniless, that all this comfort which surrounded her was no longer her own. For an instant a kind of panic seized her. There was a bleakness about the situation which made one gasp. It was like icy water dashed in the face. Realization had almost the physical pain of life returning to a numbed limb. Her hands shook as she arranged the flowers, and she had to bite her lip to keep herself from crying out.

She fought panic eye to eye, and beat it down. Uncle Chris, swiftly recovering by the fireplace, never knew that the fight had taken place. He was feeling quite jovial again now that the unpleasant business of breaking the news was over, and was looking on the world with the eye of a debonair gentleman-adventurer. As far as he was concerned, he told himself, this was the best thing that could have happened. He had been growing old and sluggish in prosperity. He needs da fillip. The wits by which he had once lived so merrily had been getting blunt in their easy retirament. He welcomed the opportunity of matching them once more against the world. He was remorseful as regarded Jill, but the optimist in him, never crushed for long, told him that Jill would be all right. She would step from the sinking ship to the safe refuge of Derek Underhill's wealth and position, while he went out to seek a new life. Uncle Chris's blue eyes gleamed with a new fire as he picturned himself in this new life. He felt like a hunter setting out on a hunting expedition. There were always adventures and the spoils of war for the man with brains to find them and gather them in. But it was a mercy that Jill had Derek . . .

Jill was thinking of Derek, too. Panic had fled, and a curious exhilaration had seized upon her. If Derek wanted her now, it would be because his love was the strongest thing in the world. She would come to him like the beggar-maid to Cophetua.

Uncle Chris broke the silence with a cough. At the sound of it, Jill smiled again. She knew it for what it was, a sign that he was himself again.

"Tell me, Uncle Chris," she said, "just how bad is it? When you said everything was gone, did you really mean everything, or were you being melodramatic? Exactly how do we stand?"

"It's dashed hard to say, my dear. I expect we shall find there are a few hundreds left. Enough to see you through till you get married. After that it won't matter." Uncle Chris flicked a particle of dust off his coat sleeve. Jill could not help feeling that the action was symbolical of his attitude toward life. He flicked away life's problems with just the same airy carelessness. "You mustn't worry about me, my dear. I shall be all right. I have made my way in the world before, and I can do it again. I shall go to America and try my luck there. Amazing how many opportunities there are in America. Really, as far as I am concerned, this is the best thing that could have happened. I have been getting abominably lazy. If I had gone on living my present life for another year or two, why, dash it! I honestly believe I should have succumbed to some sort of senile decay. Positively I should have got fatty degeneration of the brain! This will be the making of me."

My friend Mr. Bayly of Hollywood went fishing Sunday, and when he was about half way to the top of the San Marcos grade the gasline of his Rickenbacker broke. It's a mean thing to have happen to any car, especially when you're 20 miles from a garage. But Bayly fixed it up with spearmint and tire tape, making an air tight joint that lasted the 120 miles into Hollywood. This proves that chewing gum has its uses, but I wouldn't recommend that anyone try it for a hole in the radiator or a bent fender. Use Stewart Autoguards—they protect the car against injury.

TWENTY-FOUR hours a day year-round production maintained by workmen trained in our own modern plant enables us, without curtailment of quality, to effect savings which constantly are passed on to Vacuum Cup Tire and "Ton Tested" Tube users.

HELP HERBERT HOOVER

RUBBER importations to the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, show an approximate total of 775,000,000 pounds, an amount equaling fully three-fourths of the world's production.

Competent authorities assert that the American automobile utilizes not less than one-half of the world's annual rubber supply.

Responsibility for advancement in the art of tire building rests solely with the tire manufacturer, but safeguarding our future needs of raw rubber—fully 70% of which is imported from countries laboring under burdensome and uneconomic tax laws and recently enacted restrictions—makes it the duty of every motorist in the United States to advocate the placing of rubber production under the American flag and in tax-free districts.

It is the patriotic obligation of every American car owner, when opportunity affords, to express approval of the efforts of Mr. Herbert Hoover, our far-visioned Secretary of Commerce, who has, through Congress, secured appropriation for an already active campaign of world-wide investigation of the possibilities for an independent or, at least, a tax-free source of rubber supply.

NOTICIAS MUNDIALES DE ULTIMA HORA

En obsequio a nuestros numerosos amigos de habla española, y para beneficio de los lectores americanos del Times que estudien esa lengua, publicamos diariamente esta columna en castellano, con un extracto de las más importantes noticias de última hora.

Un conocimiento práctico del español es de grandísima utilidad en este país, especialmente en el suroeste; como lo demuestra el hecho de que en Los Angeles solamente hay más de 15,000 personas que estudian ese idioma con profesores oficiales o particulares. Para esos estudiantes será un buen ejercicio leer todos los días esta sección, donde encontrarán las palabras y frases más usuales del lenguaje español.

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

Noticias de Washington

WASHINGTON, julio 11.—Han sido batidos en la semana que terminó el 30 de junio todos los records de la historia ferrocarrilera americana en cuanto a número de furgones cargados de mercancía imponible; pero a despecho del gran volumen de negocios, hay todavía sobrante de vagones.

En un informe que presentó la autoridad del puerto de Nueva York a la Comisión del Comercio entre Estados, se alega que Neuva York se está quedando a la zaga de Chicago en punto a funcionamiento unificado de terminales ferroviarias.

En el Ministerio de Agricultura está discutiendo una asamblea de cremalistas y estadísticos la cuestión de la baja de los precios del trigo.

O'Hagen Derrota a Colima

VERNON, julio 11. — Jimmy O'Hagen, de Albany, Nueva York, venció a Bert Colima, de Wittier, California, en la prueba principal de pesos medios que se efectuó ante un público de aficionados de Vernon.

Bajará el Precio de Duraznos e Higos

FRESNO, julio 11.—Debido al mercado flojo, los de la Directiva de la Sociedad de Cultivadores de Duraznos e Higos de California, votaron ayer que los precios de las cosechas de 1923 serán un 25 por ciento más bajos que los de 1922. Aprobaron asimismo una reducción de 25 por ciento en los gastos de anuncios.

Circularán Peticiones para que se Derogue la Ley Wright

SAN FRANCISCO, julio 11.—William B. Hornblower, miembro de la cámara baja de la Legislatura de California, va a hacer circular inmediatamente peticiones para una medida de iniciativa de derogación de la Ley Wright, que es la ley seca de este Estado.

Declaraciones del Delegado Charles B. Warren

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, julio 11. Seguimos avanzando cada día con mayor rapidez, dijo el Sr. Charles B. Warren, uno de los delegados americanos a las conferencias del reconocimiento en Méjico, al concluir la sesión de anoche con los delegados mejicanos. Agregó también que no se había llegado aún a completo acuerdo.

Entiéndese aquí que se han completado virtualmente los arreglos para la convención sobre reclamaciones agrarias, que cubrirá las reclamaciones de Méjico contra los Estados Undios, y vice-versa; pero la conferencia no ha tocado todavía el punto de la proyectada convención que haya de discutir las cuentas que presentan los americanos por daño sufridos durante la revolución mejicana.

NOTAS LOCALES

Proyectan el Paro General en el Puerto

Anoche se discutió, en Liberty Hill, en el puerto de Los Angeles, en mitin de "Wobblies" y sus simpatizadores radicales, si sería conveniente decretar un paro de cinco días en dicho puerto, por vía de protesta contra la condena de veintisiete I.W.W. a prisión en San Quintín, por sindicalismo criminal. Según dice el Teniente Lane, de la brigada de policía contra "Wobblies," hicieron ayer esfuerzos los obreros rojos por persuadir a las tripulaciones de tres buques ingleses de que holgaran, en señal de simpatía con la huelga de los I.W.W. británicos, y parece que tuvieron algún éxito. La citada brigada de policía ha sido incrementada, en previsión de desórdenes, por más que se asegura que hay poco Trabajadores Industriales prestando servicios en los muelles o a bordo de los barcos, pues la mayor parte de ellos fueron expulsados en la pasada y reciente huelga.

Había ayer noticias contradictorias sobre la proyectada huelga. El Teniente Lane dijo que, a su entender, ya había sido aprobada, pues que el 9 de los corrientes había habido un mitin en el que como 450 "wobblies" votaron por que se holgara cinco días, en caso de que resultaren convictos los hombres enjuiciados en la sala del Juez McCormick. Otras personas manifestaron que no podía decretarse la huelga por la organización de aquí, sin previa sanción de los directores nacionales de los I.W.W. Si se decretara sin ella, la huelga sería ilegal y no podría durar mucho tiempo.

El Jurado de Gaston Glass en Desacuerdo

El jurado de nueve mujeres y tres hombres no pudo ponerse de acuerdo acerca de la inocencia o culpabilidad de Gaston Glass, luminar de cine, que ha sido procesado como persona disoluta, y cuya causa se está viendo desde hace dos días en la Corte de Policía. La desavenencia del jurado trajo por consecuencia que fuera disuelto.

Dice Bertram Mullen, Primer Jurado, que el escrutinio final arrojó ocho votos condenatorios, por cuatro absolutorios. Dos hombres, entre los que está el Primer Jurado, y dos mujeres, estuvieron por la absolución en todas las votaciones. El primer escrutinio dió seis votos contra seis; el segundo, siete por sentencia y cinco por absolución. Al tomarse el final, poco antes de que el Juez Fredericksson llamara a los jurados a la sala de juzgado, una de las mujeres, "por diversión," segun ella misma dijo, se pasó a las fuerzas condenatorias.

El caso de Glass fué puesto en manos del jurado después de un día repleto de sensaciones, habiéndose escuchado a seis testigos en la audiencia de la mañana.

DEPORTES

Golf

MacDonald Smith, de San Francisco, iba ayer a la cabeza del campo de jugadores en el torneo nacional libre que se juega en el Club Campestre de Inwood, Long Island. Su anotación fué de 150 para los 36 agujeros. Walter Hagen, antiguo campeón libre británico, que jugó desastroso golf en la mañana, se rehizo en la tarde, y haciendo lucidísimo juego, logró calificarse con la anotación de 156.

Joe Kirkwood, antes de Australia, sigue siendo el de tanteo más bajo en la tanda calificativa, pues tuvo el martes una anotación dee 144.

Yates

Sir Thomas Lipton, rico deportista inglés, ha ofrecido una copa al ganador de la carrera Santa Barbara-Honolulu. Esta regata será para veleros, y comenzará la prueba a últimos de la entrante semana, luego que terminen las festividades de la regata de Santa Bárbara. Puede decirse que cuanta embarcación hay en aguas de Sudcalifornia irá a Santa Bárbara para tomar parte en la regata, que será sin duda el mayor acontecimiento de la temporada de yates.

Baseball

Seattle derrotó ayer a Vernon por 5 a 1 en el parque Washington. Parece que haya perdido todo su viejo espíritu el equipo de Vernon, y de no ponerse pronto activo el empresario Essick, lleva trazas su equipo de acabar en último lugar la carrera del pendón.

Ayer se llevó Los Angeles a Sacramento por 10 a 4, en la ciudad de Sacramento.

Boxeo

Jess Willard, ex-campeón mundial de púgiles de gran peso, se encontrará esta noche con Luis Firpo, de la Argentina, Sudamérica, en pelea de 12 asaltos que se efectuará en Jersey City. El ganador en este combate no tardará tal vez en hacerle frente a Jack Dempsey para disputarle el cinturón de los de gran peso.

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN HAVE SNAPPY DRILL

CARRY ON BRISKLY IN SPITE OF WEARINESS DUE TO FIRE FIGHTING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALINAS, July 11. — Although still nursing stiff and sore muscles as the result of a battle with a fire on their reservation yesterday the 2800 men of the National Guard of California and Oregon at Camp Richardson, five miles west of here, went through a snappy routine today.

Col. F. J. Morrow, in command of the camp, has established a line of motor busses between the camp and Salinas and the streets here are thronged with guardsmen in the evening. A detail of eighteen of the guardsmen has been assigned for police duty in co-operation with the local officers.

It was announced today that Gov. Richardson will be here Thursday, the 19th inst. to review the troops in connection with the Salinas rodeo parade. The American Legion and Women's Civic Club are giving nightly dances for the guardsmen.

THINKS IT IS TOO LATE TO ENTER LEAGUE NOW

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 11. — Gilbert M. Hitchcock, former Senator from Nebraska, who led the Democratic fight for ratification by the Senate of the Treaty of Versailles, sailed for Europe today, declaring it now was too late for America to enter the League of Nations. The former Senator said he though William G. McAdoo was a "good bet" for the Democratic nomination for President in 1924. But this, he added, was not intended to indicate that he was supporting McAdoo.

NEW STEEL PRICES APPLY TO "EXTRAS"

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PITTSBURG (Pa.) July 11.—Announcement by the Carnegie Steel Company yesterday of an advance in prices will have no effect on the basic price of steel, it was explained at the company offices here today. The particular products advanced are known in the trade as "extras" and this list had been in use so long that it was necessary to make adjustments and to bring it to the standard of the rest of the industry.

HOTEL WETS LOSE IN MANITOBA CONTEST

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WINNIPEG, July 11.—A bill to make legal the sale of light wines and beer with meals in hotels was crushed by voters of Manitoba today, the same voters who, less than three weeks ago, gave an overwhelming majority in favor of government sale of intoxicating liquors. SAYS BIBLE DOES NOT PROVIDE FORGIVENESS FOR CONCEITED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RICE (Wis.) July 11. — "No rich will ever get into heaven," Rt. Rev. Irving P. Johnson, retired bishop of Colorado, told a conference of church workers.

"I read my New Testament I find no mention of forgiveness for the rich although there is promise of forgiveness for harlots and thieves," said the bishop. "I think that the rich will have to wait many long years in purgatory before they will be received on the judgment day of Almighty God.

"There is nothing back of intelligence, but there own self-satisfaction, and if you have noticed a wagon train passing, it is always the empty wagon that makes the most noise as it jolts. Many of the so-called modern churches are like my southern friend who, when asked if he was going, said: 'I have been where I was going,' and now they don't know where they're going but they're on their way."

MEXICO LANDOWNERS IN PROTECTIVE BLOC

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MEXICO CITY, July 11.—The land proprietors of the State of Puebla have organized themselves into a society for their mutual protection and have extended an invitation to the other land owners of the republic to do the same. The society plans to take an active part in the election for President.

Zanzibar Bishop is Appalled by British Paganism

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, July 11.—"Our Lord is being forgotten in this country in a way which simply staggers me," said the Bishop of Zanzibar at the Anglo-Catholic Congress today. "London to me is as pagan as Zanzibar."

This congress which is composed of members of the English church who want to reunite with Rome yesterday sent a telegram of devotion to the Pope and also of "duty" to the King and Archbishop of Canterbury.

At the request of the Bishop of London, who explained that some of the members of his diocese might not like it, the congress refrained from singing hymns of invocation to the virgin.

Lillian Huber, 18, Gary, Ind., leg and shoulder broken, internal injuries.

Alice Huber, 20, Gary, both legs fractured, internal injuries.

Harry Rise, 19, Hammond, internal injuries.

J. C. Jackson, 19, driver of the car, suffered a broken leg and severe cuts. Charles Smith, 20, was cut on the head and shoulders.

The party was proceeding from Hammond to Cedar Lake. Young Jackson could give no coherent account of the crash. He said that he did not see the freight train until too late to apply the brakes. Members of the train crew told the police that the touring car was traveling at a higher speed than sixty miles an hour. The freight train was unable to leave Dyer until a wrecking derrick had been sent from Gary to lift the derailed box cars back to the track.

BORAH HAS PLAN TO BRING PEACE

Favors United States Asking Economic Conference

Says Europe's Problems Are Breeders of War

Business Women Indorse World Court Idea

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND (Or.) July 11.—That the League of Nations and the World Court are impotent in the presence of the Ruhr and the Russian problems, and that the United States should ask for an economic conference to deal with reparations situation and take affirmative steps looking ultimately to recognition of the Russian government, was declared by United States Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, in an address tonight at the convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women.

The Senator said there could be no peace, no disarmament, no opening of the markets of Europe to the product of the American farm without adjustment of the reparations problem and the Russian problem.

"Until these are adjusted," he declared, "we may look for economic disorder and the continued deepening of human suffering. I agree with Senator Underwood, who has lately returned from a study of these questions on the ground, that we are drifting downstream, and can already hear the roar of the rapids.

WAR PROBLEMS

"In the presence of these problems the League and the World Court are impotent. They require a different and more determined treatment and consideration. They are, in fact, war problems. They sprang from the war and are breeders of war. We owe it to the cause of peace, to economic health, and we owe it to humanity to help in the adjustment of these questions.

"We can help, without departing in the slightest from our traditional foreign policy, or breaking away from our long-established precedent. It seems to me we should ask for an economic conference to deal with the one, and we should start the settlement of the other by affirmative steps looking ultimately to recognition.

"If these are not the proper steps, then let those who oppose such steps specify what we should do. It cannot be possible that we should be content to watch these conditions grow worse and worse until they swell into the deluge of war, or, if not war, then that awful state of economic stagnation and demoralization worse than war—the slow, grinding attrition which subtly undermines civilization. The question which the common people are asking is this—is the statesmanship of the world bankrupt?"

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

Resolutions proposing conferences with the National Women's Trade Union League of means of improvement of the condition of women workers were passed by the convention. Support for President Harding's proposal for United States participation in a permanent World Court was also passed, as were other resolutions indorsing a Federal department of education; the McCormick resolution for an amendment to the Federal constitution regulating child labor; permanent Federal employment service; an amendment to the Smith-Hughes Act, putting home economics on the same basis as trade and agricultural education, and the Kahn John bill to make permanent the work the government started during the war for social hygiene.

LAZY MEN BARRED BY GOVERNOR

Richardson Wants Able and Energetic Persons for New Judgeship

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ORANGE, July 11.—Announcing the cardinal qualifications which will have an important bearing upon his appointment of a new superior judge for Orange county, Gov. Richardson in a letter received here today stated that he intended to visit the county at an early date to interview various candidates.

The executive is determined to select a judge that will give the people the highest character of service regardless of political connections. The Governor also took a rap at the indorsement bombardment which has been directed at him since the new judgeship was created, stating that to him "one indorsement is as good as a hundred, as I am inclined not to appoint persons who have a multitude of indorsements."

"In appointing a judge for Orange county," he said, "I am anxious to select the best man for the place regardless of party lines. In making the selection I will be guided by three considerations, legal qualifications, integrity and ability to work."

While legal qualifications and integrity are the prime requisites, the Governor said that these qualities are useless unless the ability, desire and inclination to work accompany them.

The Governor Monday evening will be the guest of honor at a meeting of the Southern California Associated Dailies at Los Angeles. He is also planning to accompany Highway Commissioner N. T. Edwards of this city on an inspection of some of the new highways in Southern California.

The Fastest and Most Efficient Automobile Washer in the World

Promptly at ten o'clock Friday morning we will officially open to the motoring public the greatest innovation in automobile washing in the history of motordom, the Wimsett System, demonstrating the hitherto impossible feat of washing, cleaning, and polishing an average size automobile WHILE YOU WAIT.

You are Invited

Come and see this wonderful system in actual operation--the highest development of engineering skill and mechanism for the washing, cleaning and polishing of motor vehicles. See the whitest, cleanest spot in the city of Los Angeles--the white spot of the United States.

Free

FIRST 10 CARS WASHED FREE

The first ten cars on the runway at our station at 10 o'clock Friday morning, July 13th., will be washed free to demonstrate this wonderful system.

2 for 1

All other car owners having cars washed for cash on opening day will be given a ticket entitling them to another wash FREE OF CHARGE at any time before Sept. 1st. 1923

The Wimsett System.

Thoroughly washes your car—rugs, upholstery, chassis, top, wheels and outside of car; thoroughly cleans motor; and dries the car within the space of just a few minutes--WHILE YOU WAIT—a task heretofore requiring hours.

The Wimsett System cleans your car and chassis throughout—in all corners and crevices—in places where you cannot see as well as on the outside where you can see.

It cleans the high gloss finish of the car without the slightest injury. Nothing is used but clean, cold water and air, a spray that is finer than silken floss and as soft.

The motor is cleaned with cold kerosene and air, removing all dirt, oil and caked mud or grease, without steam or heat, and therefore cannot injure or remove paint or in any other way subject the metal parts to rust or deterioration.

The Wimsett System operates systematically and in perfect co-ordination so that not a moment is lost from start to finish. See it work Friday for yourself. The greatest innovation in the history of automobiles. Come early and have your car washed FREE — or get an extra wash free at some later date.

We absolutely guarantee that the Wimsett System cleans better than any method previously employed, without the slightest damage to even the finest finish. In fact, this system hardens and preserves the high gloss finish of a new car.

Question: Where is Handel's birthplace? G. C. H.

Answer: In Halle, Germany. It is asserted that the house, which is decorated with laurel and the names of his oratorios in honor of its being Handel's birthplace, in reality adjoins the house where the composer was born.

Q.: What does the figure on the dome of the National Capitol represent? J. T. B.

A.: It is a bronze statue entitled Armed Liberty. Designed by Crawford, it is 19 feet, 6 inches in height and weighs 14,985 pounds.

Q.: Wasn't Children's Day observed before the Presbyterian Church celebrated it in 1833? M. W.

A.: The General Sunday School Association of the Universalist Church says that the credit for this beautiful custom should be given to Rev. Charles H. Leonard, who, as pastor of the Universalist Church at Chelsea, Mass., began the observance of Children's Day before 1850. The Chelsea Church formally set aside the second Sunday in June as Children's Sunday in 1857, the General Conference of this denomination taking similar action ten years later.

Q.: What has become of the Grand Duke Nicholas, uncle of the late Czar of Russia? I. M. C.

A.: The Grand Duke, with the Duchess, is living in strict retirement in France.

Q.: Are there any Filipinos at West Point? C. C. H.

A.: Last year there were three Filipinos at the United States Military Academy, Jose E. Olivares of Iloilo of the June class being the first Filipino graduate from the institution.

Q.: When did the first marriage of an actress into the peerage occur? J. T. G.

A.: In 1722 Anastasia Robinson, operatic singer, married the third Earl of Peterborough. Since then 25 other actresses have become peeresses by marriage.

Q.: Why is the Boston Post Road so-called? S. R. C.

A.: A post road is so called from the fact that, in the early days, the United States mail was carried over it.

Q.: Was the lead tablet recently dug up at Fort Pierre, South Dakota of any real importance to history? F. C. S.

A.: This tablet which came to light in 1913 will cause a new page to be added to histories. Its inscriptions show that a Frenchman, Verandrye, and his sons explored that part of the country sixty years before Lewis and Clark opened up the Louisiana Purchase territory. The United States Government has set aside as a national monument commemorating the explorations of these early explorers 250 acres of land surrounding Crowleigh Butte.

Q.: What is the meaning of "close up" in movie parlance? M. McM.

A.: A "close up" is a picture taken when the subject stands five feet or less from the camera. A "long shot" is from 30 to 50 feet, and "medium shot" midway between.

Q.: Please suggest a form of grace to be used at meal times? L. A. S.

A.: The blessing spoken by Sheik Iderim in the Grove of Palms, as related in Ben Hur is a happy one. "Father of all, God what we have is of Thee. Take our thanks and bless us that we may continue to do thy will."

LETTERS TO THE TIMES

A Mild Complaint

LOS ANGELES, July 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] If any city in the United States is cursed with a worse army of dolts, woodenheads and incompetents than those who inhabit our City Hall, by the grace of somebody in authority, and who draw salary from the people, that city surely is entitled to sympathy. If this were not enough, then the innumerable petty ordinances, so-called laws, etc., surely make up the prize collection of asininity and annoyance for the unfortunate citizen who is compelled to deal with this army of bloodsuckers, in his efforts to establish a home and be a law-abiding citizen by obeying the innumerable provisions which provide employment for this army of salaryites, whose chief mission seems to be to watch the clock and wait for pay day.

Those who have been engaged in building enterprises in the city can verify my statement. One must have a "permit" for everything from driving a nail to spreading a quarter's worth of paint. In event the unfortunate citizen chooses to do his work himself rather than hire some "licensed" plumber, electrician or other favorite who has come across to the city for a "license," the citizen finds it almost impossible to get his work "O.K.'d" and passed. This I have just experienced, having my home moved to a new location, planning to erect a hotel building on the old one, the improvement to cost near $200,000 at the corner of Santa Monica and Western avenue. First there was the house-moving permit. Then a new sewer permit, then a plumber permit, then a gas inspection, then a permit to wire for electricity, and others innumerable. Permits cost from 50 cents to $1 each, and are hard to obtain unless you have been among those whom the city fleeces by reason of a license, there being no standard of excellence or efficiency necessary to obtain the mechanic's license. If you do as I did, and state that you intend to do the work yourself, every impediment is thrown in your way, and after you do the work, perchance better than the "licensed" workman would, it is almost impossible to get it inspected and passed, the "wise guy" inspector finding trivial flaws and faults in it that do not exist in reality. As evidence, I will say that I have been three weeks in getting my house remade and refitted to live in, and though there was not half a day's work all told, these woodenheads at the city office have not set any time in the future when they will "inspect" and allow me to have the use of light, water, sewer, and gas, although I have met every requirement, paid every paw that reached out for money at the City Hall, and implored and asked times without number that attention be given me.

These things breed discontent, encourage opposition to law and authority and discourage investment and improvement.

"Buy Home Products"

LOS ANGELES, July 9. — [To the Editor of The Times:] Will you permit me to thank you for your editorial appearing in The Times of June 15 entitled "Keeping Abreast of Events"?

The people of Los Angeles, in a rather impersonal way, and as if it was not a vital feature in their livies, know and are, to a certain degree, proud of the tremendous growth of our city and its development as a manufacturing and commercial center. By far the greater number of them, however, fail to realize the tremendous help that they, by centering their united buying power on Los Angeles-made merchandise, can be to these very industries that have made their homes in our midst.

Every dollar that the buying public of Los Angeles spend for articles manufactured away from Los Angeles go to support other localities, while every dollar spent by the buying public for merchandise manufactured in our city is turned over and over again locally and every man, woman and child living in Los Angeles is directly or indirectly benefitted thereby.

The slogan, "Keep Coast Dollars West," can be lived up to in no better way than in the purchase of Los Angeles-made merchandise, and the newspapers of the city can do no greater work for the community than by educating the buying public of the importance of purchasing whenever possible locally made merchandise.

Street Drunkenness

LOS ANGELES, July 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have no complaint to make against Mr. Oaks of the police department. He has, I believe, done nobly so far, in fact better then any of his predecessors, for a long time back.

New evils have arisen, however, and a stronger and more severe force must be used to stop at once before it becomes imbearable this drunkenness, which is everythere evident.

Why do these officers of the law not lock up drunken men? Why do they allow them to stagger along our streets using offensive language? Why all this? Does this not show that he is not doing his duty?

If these drunkards were immediately jailed as they should be, he would make it much easier for himself.

Arrest all drunken men.

An Appreciation

LOS ANGELES, July 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In the recent passing of ex-Mayor Rose the humane world has lost a loyal and devoted friend—always alert to the wrongs imposed upon God's sentient creatures—always ready to defend them in every possible way that might carry conviction and justice to those who offended "the least of these"—always eager to lend assistance officially and financially to the furthering of the spirit of kindness to helpless, voiceless creatures.

It is a regrettable fact that public officials generally are not humanely interested in the protection of the rights of animals to whom civilization owes so much and has given so little. They are prone to imagine that anticruelty work is superfluous and sentimental—forgetting the fundamental principal of eternal justice to all "that lives and suffers."

It is therefore a fitting tribute to Mayor Rose that the noble humane record of this kindly and generous man be forever cherished in the hearts of all humanitarians as one bright and fragrant memory in the annuals of passing days.

Pershing Square

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Before the recent election we were told that the use of Pershing Square by the P. E. Railroad for a subway would not interfere with the property for park purposes—that it was not to be used as a terminal, and that a strip seventy-five feet wide through the center was all that the railroad company desired.

Some of us were wise enough not to believe this talk, and we never dreamed the people would vote away their beautiful park to the railroad company, after having refused to give it up for a library site.

The people are going to wake up some day and find they have made a mistake, for when the railroad company gets through with Pershing Square it will be ruined.

No shade trees left and with the whole place undermined as the railroad desires to have it, no lawn or shrubbery will flourish in the shallow soil. The water required to keep such a place green and growing would doubtless affect the roof of the underground concourse, thus, in time, making it necessary to do away with the whole thing.

It is a most unheard-of thing—the destruction of this beauty spot, with its splendid trees, as grateful to thousands of homeless ones in our hot, overcrowded city, as an oasis in the desert, to say nothing of the esthetic value of the place to everyone.

She Lost Her Hair

Kotalko Grew It Again!

New, Beautiful Hair

Mary H. Little has luxuriant hair now. Yet for years, her hand, as she describes it, "was as bare and shiny as the back of my hand."

When Mrs. Little's hair began to fall, she tried to stop it by using various shampoos, oils and lotions, but her hair continued to come out until she had lost all. She perseveringly continued trying to get new hair. She consulted a specialist but no hair came. Her only hope seemed to be in having a wig.

Luckily she learned about Kotalko, a compound prepared from the Three Kingdoms of Nature. Watching in her mirror she saw new hairs developing. Faithfully she applied Kotalko and the hair continued to grow. It became long, strong and silklike. The likeness above is from her photograph.

SANTA MONICA

The Coast Highway and Connections

Los Angeles' Front Entrance

The Coast Highway has just been completed and opened from Santa Monica Canyon to Malibu ranch. It is probably not only the most beautiful link in the Coast Highway to San Francisco, but one of the most beautiful sea coast scenic routes in any land.

When the Coast Highway is built through the Malibu it will carry an almost constant stream of travel, which will pass through Santa Monica as the front gate of Los Angeles.

Connecting with the Coast Highway will be the main boulevards shown here.

There are plans for widening and beautifying most of these boulevards. The most elaborate are the plans for Wilshire or Archway, which is designed to meet the Coast Highway at the mouth of Santa Monica Canyon, with a great arch and pier at its terminal.

Perhaps beyond this pier the breakwater may be built.

It will be a yachtsman's paradise. A government and civilian flying field is already established and airplanes are now manufactured in quantities in Santa Monica.

Great hotels and apartments will look out from the Palisades and plateaus. The mountains will be covered with beautiful estates.

The world will pass in and out of this gate and pause to play or come to stay.

Great conventions will meet here. And all the time, every day in the year, the beach will draw its unnumbered thousands.

We invite you to live here. And we invite all interests to unite in the preservation and development of this great pleasure and profit resource—Santa Monica Bay, City and Crescent Coast —the front yard and entrance of Los Angeles.

Those who acquire homes and investment property in Santa Monica now will have these giant forces working for them.

BUSINESS NEWS OF BUSY MARTS

Workman New President of Morris Plan Company

New Stock and Bond Issues by San Pedro Industry

Mining Operations Quiet; New Service Department

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Los Angeles Morris Plan Company held yesterday afternoon, W. H. Workman was elected president of the company succeeding Mr. William Lacy, resigned.

Mr. Lacy stated that the rapidly increasing activities of the Morris Plan Company demand more time than his own business and his civic duties will permit him to give, but he will continue to serve on the board.

Mr. Workman, who originally brought the Morris Plan idea to Los Angeles, has been general manager of the company since it began operations six years ago. Mr. Trigg Garner continues as first vice-president, Mr. J. A. Jevne as second vice-president, and Mr. J. B. Van Nuys as treasurer.

At yesterday's meeting the board elected Miss Clara R. Mills secretary, Mr. P. G. Cottle, assistant manager, and Mr. F. M. Alton continues as cashier.

Mr. Workman stated that the Morris Plan Company will continue the work it began as pioneer in the field of industrial loans in Los Angeles. He stated that the company is now lending in excess of $2,000,000 per year on the sole security of good character and earning capacity.

DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

With fifteen years' steady growth under the one management as its record, the Regan Forge and Engineering Company of San Pedro has entered the $1,000,000 class of industrial corporations. It is announced that the company did over $1,000,000 worth of business in 1922; that its 1923 volume of business to date indicates that this year's business will be in the neighborhood of $2,000,000 and that the company has embarked upon a development program that calls for a $200,000 bond issue and an increase of its capital stock authorization from the present $300,000 to $1,000,000, of which there will be outstanding $500,000. It is understood that a large stock dividend will be declared by the company for the purpose of increasing the stock outstanding to the last named figure.

A conversion feature of the bonds will be an important factor, necessitating the company's authority to issue some of the additional stock.

Complete details of the financing are not yet available, but it was stated yesterday that the bond issue has been underwritten by Banks, Huntley & Co. and Howard G. Rath Company and that these houses are preparing to launch the bonds at a price to yield the investor about 7 per cent.

DIVIDEND PASSED

Directors of the Tom Reed Gold Mining Company have failed to authorize the 1 cent dividend due the 15th inst., because, it is said, of the poor earnings from mill operations. The company has paid two dividends this year, one of 2 cents and one of 1 cent per share. The Tom Reed mines are located in Oatman (Ariz.) mining district, and are among the oldest in the field. Operations are reported to be at the rate of 100 tons daily, while the capacity of the company's mill is 250 tons. Ore values are said to run around $8 a ton.

SHOE MARKET

With the opening of the Shoe Style Show in Boston, the 9th inst., shoe dealers expect fall styles to be definitely established. The vivid-colored shoes will be banned, it is anticipated, in response to the increasing inactivity in these lines reported by wholesalers. The bright reds, greens and blues, which have held popular fancy in the early spring months, are being liquidated rapidly by the manufacturers who have them in their shelves, in order to prepare for the fall styles. Women's shoes in patents, calf and kid are selling moderately well. Whites, both in buck and canvas, are meeting with a fair request.

SERVICE DEPARTMENT

Banks, Huntley & Co., Stock Exchange Building, announce the establishment of a service department for the benefit of the general investing public, and the appointment of Arthur L. Brewer as manager. The function of the department is broadly to keep investors advised of market facts concerning the bonds in which they are interested. A special feature of its operation is the reception of present and prospective investors who seek counsel as to the sound placing of surplus funds.

ARTIFICIAL SILK USE IS GROWING

Rapid Expansion of New Industry Has Effect on Other Markets

The rapid expansion in the use of artificial silk has a direct bearing on the situation in real silk and a potential influence on both the cotton and wool markets, says Commerce Monthly, published by the National Bank of Commerce in New York.

"The artificial silk industry has been expanded until today the world produces over 70,000,000 pounds of artificial silk, an amount considerably in excess of the commercial crop of real silk.

"Perhaps the most conspicuous fact in the artificial silk situation in this country is the price of the material, which is now less than one-third of the price of raw silk. With real silk today nearly $9 and replacement prices a matter of speculation, the appeal which artificial silk is making to the American manufacturer is apparent, and the far-sighted action of the producers in keeping artificial silk prices steady in what has long been practically a 'seller's market' has further advantaged the manufacturer of silks by supplying an alternative material for the virtually monopolized real silk.

"Not only has artificial silk invaded the hosiery mills, but it has made notable strides in the underwear and outerwear markets, its rise being largely coincident with the increase in production of silk underwear, sweaters and other knit goods which attained remarkable popularity during the war. Even in the weaving mills the use of the new textile has expanded, experimentation leading to discovery of many new uses.

"Even with the amazing increases in production of artificial silk the supply has not kept pace with the demand which has steadily increased and broadened. While the production of real silk responds only tardily to demand, the circumstances of artificial silk production allow for elastic regulation of supply to demand. However, the large initial capital costs, the necessity for quantity output to make production profitable, the relatively low profits per pound and the great mechanical and technical difficulties inherent in the industry have kept the units relatively large. Here and abroad the textile men have fostered the industry, realizing its potentialities in protecting them from centralized control of raw silk. They realize that artificial silk is a distinct addition to the textile world, a fiber which they may profitably employ in their products with other fibers, whether they are woolen, cotton or silk manufacturers."

FEARS OF DROUGHT STIMULATE COTTON

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 11.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 21 and 6 points in response to relatively firm cables and continued apprehension of drought in the Southwest, or boll weevil damage.

July sold up to 27.20 and October to 24.03 on the call but the higher prices met a good deal of southern selling and realizing, which caused more or less irregularity during the early trading.

Selling was checked during the early afternoon by detail weather reports showing high temperatures more general in the Southwest, and October rallied from 23.63 to 23.73. This bulge was not fully maintained, however.

Spot cotton was quiet, 5 points advance, 27.70 for middling upland.

Southern spot: Galveston 27.63, 10 points decline; New Orleans 27.25, 38 points decline; Savannah 26.50, 50 points decline; Augusta 27.63, unchanged; Memphis 27.50, unchanged; Houston 27.50, unchanged; Little Rock 27.75, unchanged.

Liverpool spot quiet, prices firm; good middling 16.23d, fully middling 16.13d, middling 15.98d; low middling 15.73d; good ordinary 15.23d, ordinary 14.93d. Sales 5000 bales, including 3700 American. Receipts 9000 bales, including 5400 American.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Mortgages of Ancient Lineage; Purchasing Activity; One-sided Market; Essay on Thrift

BY CHAPIN HALL

Mortgages are older than King Tut. No Los Angeles mortgage goes back quite that far, although some of them are doubtless of ancient lineage, but the practice of raising money on real or personal collateral was one of the earliest forms of business practice recognized when civilization was still in her swaddling clothes.

James A. Hool, general manager of the Federal Securities Corporation has been stirring the musty tomes for the purpose of writing a history of mortgages for his company and in the course of the stirring he unearthed some interesting data.

"For instance," said Mr. Hool, "if a man in ancient Egypt wanted a loan, with his house or land as security, he was required to not only transfer his property to the lender, but sign an agreement which amounted to a deed of sale, and it was altogether up to the lender whether he wished to accept payment when the loan was due or retain possession of the pledged property."

Among other things the researcher found that loans with security of real estate were well known as far back as King Hammurapi, who lived 2123-2083 B. C., and whose code of laws inscribed on an obelisk cover this subject fully.

Another custom in connection with mortgages provided that an Egyptian, who covered his entire property with a mortgage stipulated a sum payable to his wife in case he took another one; that is, another wife.

A custom which will not appeal to the present-day borrower was that of Ancient Greece. In Attica the law required the placing of a tablet or pillar on the mortgaged property, giving the name of the lender, and the amount of the loan for which the property was security. Hence, probably, the phrase, "the reforms of Solon removed the pillars from Attica," when he extinguished mortgages.

PURCHASING ACTIVITY

The Pacific Coast has jumped into first place in purchasing activity as reported by the credit clearing-house. This part of the country is less affected by seasonal influences than other sections, and this is especially true of Southern California, where summer often stimulates rather than depresses trade.

In the country at large there was a drop of 2.4 in purchasing percentage during the closing days of June, but the Pacific Coast section developed a sudden access of purchasing beginning with the second week in June which carried it to first place, Washington being the only State in the group to report a decrease.

The north agricultural section is second, while the mountain section, which showed a high degree of activity following the rise in copper in January has receded with the falling price of the metals. The middle agricultural section stands third, and in the south agricultural section there has been a marked drop, while the east section also shows a considerable decrease.

The large purchasing of recent weeks in this section has naturally caused increased indebtedness, but the perentage of bills paid promptly has been unusually high.

ONE-SIDED MARKET

The market continues to show a decided list to starboard. It is distinctly one sided, and the public has largely withdrawn from active participation to await developments both at home and abroad. There is really nothing in the trade situation to warrant the gloomy attitude taken by many. In speculative circles it is apt to be either a feast or a famine, and when things are blue they are very, very blue, with a gloominess that is little less than opaque. Surface indications tell very little under conditions like the present. It is what is going on underneath that really counts.

Heavy car loadings show that there has been no abatement in trade activity. Indications are plentiful that business in practically all channels will be sufficient to keep everybody employed for some time to come, and it is apparent that even the excessive wage demands of labor could not be met if the country at large was not in a highly prosperous condition.

Another straw is in the demand for jewelry which is said by local dealers to exceed the usual July requirements while June was one of the best months of the year, due in part to the demand for graduation and wedding gifts. These are more costly than they were a year ago, indicating increased spending power.

Railroads report that California-bound travel continues unabated from eastern points and there is an insistent demand for cars in which to transport the household goods of those who have determined to cast their lot with us.

DAY'S BEST INTERVIEW

J. H. Puelicher, president of the American Bankers' Association, yesterday delivered himself of the following panegyric anent thrift:

"'Like Daddy'—these two words, that expresse the imitative nature of children, occur to me as I think of our parental responsibilities in respect to both the thriftiness and the thriftlessness of our boys and girls. The accent belongs on both aspects of the case, for we have yet to find a person who is the perfect example of thrift.

"Even Ben Franklin admitted his lack of attainment after his years of self-admonishment and self-criticism—and his temptations were not so great as those of today. Every reader will admit his deficiency in thrift. So will I. And what of our children? Will they copy us? Will their attitude toward thrift be 'like Daddy's'? Will it be thrifty or thriftless?

"It will at least be largely influenced by it. The thrift of the next generation is in the hands of the present. If our children are 'out of hand' on their habits, whom have we to blame but ourselves?

"Remember this: The next generation will be subject to the same laws of economics, the same rules of success, the same principles of happiness, as prevail today. A habit of thrift is one of the best possible characteristcis we can mould into our children's natures during their habit-forming years. Its value will be apparent throughout maturity, whatever their lot, whether at the helm of large enterprise or steering the more humble affairs of a home.

"Thrift will be the basic principle in the economic life of our nation and its system of producing and exchanging commodities. Thrift is always of both social and of individual advantage. Each day finds us expanding both in breadth and in depth of our resources of enjoyment and our opportunities for service as we practice thrift.

"But how shall we bring about habits of thrift? Is there any other way than by teaching, whether by direct precept or by the unconscious example of our own habits, continually impressing themselves on the receptive minds of the young?

"'Like Daddy' expresses one of the most powerful social and economic forces there is."

Gas Consumption Is Growing

ACCORDING to figures compiled by the SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA GAS COMPANY, the average annual consumption of gas per consumer in its territory has grown from 27,890 cubic feet in 1910 to 55,673 cubic feet in 1922.

This surprising increase, together with a growth in number of consumers from 10,463 to 93,845 during the same period, shows the rapid progress of this utility company which has kept close pace with the development of the community which it serves.

The Company owns two modern and efficient plants for the manufacture of gas which it distributes in three counties of Southern California, including the cities of Los Angeles, San Bernardino and Riverside. Net Earnings for the 12-month period ended April 30, 1923, were 2.62 times interest requirements on all bonds outstanding, including this issue.

Killing the Goose That Lays the Golden Egg

Money, when properly cared for and judiciously invested, may be depended upon to yield a steady supply of golden income. But if you try to rush matters—if you speculate in the hope of gaining a large and quick profit—you risk losing your capital. In that case you would truly be killing the goose that lays golden eggs.

Safety and big profits are strangers—they don't travel together. There's just one way to make certain that the goose will keep on laying golden eggs, and that is to invest your capital in high grade bonds and similar safe securities, which, because of the careful precautions and safeguards surrounding them, insure the return of your principal, together with a definite and certain income.

Here are two investment suggestions. Your capital invested in either of these bond issues will be safe and productive.

Professional Building Company
$525,000 First Mortgage 6½% Serial Gold Bonds

The building to be financed from the proceeds of this issue is urgently needed. It is already under construction in a very favorable location at the corner of Sixth and St. Paul streets, Los Angeles. The property on which these bonds constitute a first closed mortgage is appraised at $878,633. The bonded indebtedness is less than 60% of the value of the security.

It is estimated that the annual net income will be over $120,000, which is 3.6 times the highest annual interest charge and 1½ times the highest annual interest and principal charge. The margin of safety will constantly increase as the bonds are retired each year.

Maturities from 1925 to 1936; Priced to Yield 6.60%

FROM THE "INSIDE"

You might expect a big banker "on the inside" of many business developments to invest his own money in some of these big income producing ventures.

Jacob H. Schiff of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. certainly had many such chances, and yet 66% of his great wealth was invested in government and tax free Municipal Bonds, and practically NO speculative securities.

There are many splendid reasons why Municipal Bonds should be the backbone of your own invested wealth.

We would be glad to talk to you about them.

The Value of an Investment

The ever-present problem confronting those wishing to invest funds, is the actual value of securities offered to them. Naturally, the investor himself has no means of gaining actual and positive information on various securities.

It is for this reason that Stephens & Company offers the services of its Statistical Department—a Department devoted exclusively to finding as nearly the exact value of any security as possible.

The value of this service lies in providing information not easily obtained through ordinary channels, on any security. It is maintained for your benefit.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Flurry in Foreigns

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 11.—Except for a flurry of buying in the foreign group this morning, trading in today's bond market was dull and listless with price fluctuations narrow and irregular. New offerings were again small in volume, investment bankers holding back several important issues pending more favorable market developments.

The higher opening of foreign exchange rates brought some buying power into the French issues, French 8's and Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean 6's each moving up a point but the gains were reduced in the later trading. Seine 7's closed 3-4 lower.

United States government bonds held steady.

Except for a gain of 1 5-8 by Kansas City terminal 4's and a loss of 1 point in Denver and Rio Grande refunding 5's, changes in the railroad group were largely fractional and unimportant. The favorable effect of record car loadings were counteracted by reports of early demands for higher wages by the higher paid employees and by the inquiry into anthracite rates by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In the industrial division, Pierce Arrow 8's and International Paper 5's, series B, each lost about a point, while the sugar, copper and independent company liens yielded fractionally.

Total sales (par value) were $9,432,000.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Following are the closing quotations on the New York Stock Exchange. Furnished by Logan & Bryan.

NEW YORK CURB

Dull Day, Narrow Market

NEW YORK, July 11.—Trading in today's curb market was about the dullest since the curb moved indoors but there was little effective selling pressure and prices moved irregularly within narrow limits.

Oils were inclined to yield in response to further cuts in crude prices but the recessions in important issues were limited to small fractions. Less than 11,000 shares of Standard Oil of Indiana were traded in, the stock closing ¼ lower at 53. Standard Oil of Kansas and Continental Oil each lost a point on a small turnover.

Industrials pointed upward. Glen Alden Coal, Gillette Safety Razor and Stutz Motors advanced 1⅜ to 2 points Lot Roamer motor dropped ¾.

In the mining group nine shares showed a firmer tone in reflection of higher commodity prices.

NEW YORK CURB

Dull Day, Narrow Market

NEW YORK, July 11.—Trading in today's curb market was about the dullest since the curb moved indoors but there was little effective selling pressure and prices moved irregularly within narrow limits.

Oils were inclined to yield in response to further cuts in crude prices but the recessions in important issues were limited to small fractions. Less than 11,000 shares of Standard Oil of Indiana were traded in, the stock closing ¼ lower at 53. Standard Oil of Kansas and Continental Oil each lost a point on a small turnover.

Industrials pointed upward. Glen Alden Coal, Gillette Safety Razor and Stutz Motors advanced 1⅜ to 2 points Lot Roamer motor dropped ¾.

In the mining group nine shares showed a firmer tone in reflection of higher commodity prices.

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

Two wells, with a total production estimated at from 5000 to 6000 barrels a day, were brought in at Signal Hill yesterday.

Fields No. 2, owned by the Petroleum Midway Company, was placed on production with an initial flow of approximately 3000 barrels which increased to 4000 barrels. The Fields No. 2 is located on a forty-acre lease near Fields No. 1, the pioneer producer on the northern border of the west section of the field.

The Umpire Grimm No. 1 well came in with a 2000-barrel flow. It is located on Temple avenue, opposite the offices of the Sandburg Petroleum Company in the discovery area of the field. It was drilled to a depth of 2805 feet and has 815 feet of screen in the oil string.

Huntington Signal Sprouts

A 2000-barrel well was brought in yesterday by the Huntington Signal Oil Company when well No. 2 sprouted a stream of 25 gravity oil from a depth of 4615 feet. The gas pressure at the casing-head is 680 pounds and 530 pounds on the tubing. It stands cemented at 4000 feet and was drilled by the California Drilling Company.

Expect Parkford Soon

Well No. 2 of the Santa Fe (Parford) Syndicate has been cemented off at the top of the Meyer sand for two months, but is expected to be ready to flow soon. No. 3 of the Santa Fe Springs Syndicate is drilling out the cement. Seven wells on the Parkford Syndicate Royalty plan are being drilled in the Santa Fe Springs field and one at Signal Hill.

Takes Big Lease

The Associated Oil Company has just leased sixty acres of land in the western section of the Signal Hill field, it was announced today by Phillip L. Bixby, who leased the land to the company. The land is located west of Los Cerritos and adjoins the United Oil Company's lease, which is also on land owned by Mr. Bixby.

The Associated is understood to have paid a large royalty for the lease and is also said to have agreed to royalty payments the size of which, it is reported will make the terms of the lease as advantageous to the Bixby interests as is the city's contract with the Jergins Trust. A number of wells are to be drilled on the new lease in the near future, reports say.

Makes Noval Arrangement

Determined that the oil and gas produced by wells located on his property in the heart of the Santa Fe Springs field shall be refined and shipped form his land, F. J. Baker has granted a surface and an easement on four acres to the Santa Fe Carbon Company, which is erecting a plant on the property.

Not only will the plant manufacture carbon black there, but a large gas absorption plant together with a 3000-barrel refinery will be a part of the equipment. Plans are under way to complete a plant which will handle 6,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily besides a number of large gas contracts which will be used in the manufacture of carbon black.

Contracts for production are said to have been arranged so that the plant can handle the production of distillate, lubricants and greases. The concern is officered by J. H. Parker, George G. Griffin and W. P. Forsythe. The site of the refinery is adjacent to the highway and to the Santa Fe Railway so that the oil and gas can be taken from the ground, refined and shipped without leaving the Baker lease.

To Spar in Soon

Well No. 2 of the Fisher-Gregg Oil Syndicate in Santa Fe Springs is to be spudded in soon. The machinery is being moved in. The well joins the No. 1 well which is drilling at 2500 feet.

The Fisher-Gregg Syndicate lease is at the intersection of Shamrock Road and Little Lake Road near the Pacific States Oil Syndicate and the Russell Petroleum and Boeske-Wardham properties.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Goodyear Tire and Rubber preferred broke through into new high ground for year yesterday on a small volume of sales which carried the closing price to 90¼, up 1¼ points over the previous closing quotations, and the first time the stock has crossed 90 since the drastic deflation in the market price in 1921. Mining stocks were somewhat more animated in the trading over the floor of the exchange, while the oils were inclined to remain quiet.

The chief development in the petroleum list was the loss of 16 cents in Globe Petroleum from the opening of 70 to the final price of 60, General Petroleum common was up ⅛ at 31¼, and United Oil at 32½ was unchanged. Shell Union was firm at 15½.

At a close of $1.60, United Eastern was ahead 5 cents compared with the preceding session. Ontman United was off 1 cent at 5½, and Telluride lost ½ cent at a final bid of 14½. Virginia Louise was taken at 6½ and sales were made in Simon Silver at 26.

The largest sales in the bond list were made in San Joaquin Light and Power series "C" 6s of 1950 at 97¾, and in Southern California Edison 6s of 1944 at 100⅝.

Following are the closing quotations and sales:

"ARTICLES of incorporation of The Los Angeles Electric Company were filed for record in the County Clerk's office yesterday, with the following corporators: R. M. Widney, R. R. Haines, E. Dunham, O. G. Weyse, and C. H. Howland."

—Newspaper Item, October 23, 1882

Very few cities were electrically lighted at that time. The electric light itself was yet an experiment commercially, and the project was an uncertain business venture.

From 1882 to 1923, The Los Angeles Electric Company and its successors have passed through several phases of development:

1. Financial Risk
2. Success and Growth
3. Engineering Advancement
4. Standardization and Regulation

These stages have overlapped in the time of their occurrence, but each has had its effect on the improvement and cheapening of electric service in Los Angeles.

In the fourth and final stage, electric service is rendered under business management and State regulation—the ideal combination, under which Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation operates.

This is one of a series of advertisements

Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation

WAGES EARNED IN 1922 WERE $276,912,168

Growth Is Phenomenal During Year

The value of products manufactured in the Los Angeles metropolitan district in 1922 was $2?9,-?06,?05.

This is far more than the entire gold in circulation in the United States at the time of the last federal census.

Wages paid to industrial workers in Los Angeles manufacturing plants in 1922 totaled $276,912,168.

This is more than the net earnings of all the 7762 nations' banks in the United States, whose earnings, as told by the census, were $249,346,000.

COMPARED WITH RAILROADS

These figures and comparisons were compiled by Frank V. Stump, editor of Southern California Business, the Chamber of Commerce magazine. To emphasize further the significance of Los Angeles' position as an industrial city, Mr Stump shows that manufactured goods turned out here in the 12 months of 1922 exceeded in value the operating income of all the railroads of the United States, and was practically three times as much as the railroads paid in dividends to their stockholders.

Also, that the goods manufactured here had a value greater than the value placed by the federal census on all the lands in the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Delaware, Wyoming and New Mexico.

EXCEEDS 22 STATES

In the Los Angeles district-built manufactured goods of greater value than was turned out in any one of 22 Eastern states, all of them listed as manufacturing states.

To illustrate the rate of growth of manufacturing here, Mr. Stump shows that the gain of 1921 over 1920 was $12,013,956, and the gain of 1922 over 1921 was $156,879,892.

INDUSTRIAL LOS ANGELES Reaches the Billion Dollar Mark

YOU should share in this prosperity.

Industrial progress in Southern California will be measured only by the amount of capital available for industry.

Nothing will tend to balance the prosperity and stabilize values in this section as much as sound industries and payrolls.

Let us tell you how you can safely and profitably participate in this constructive development.

MARKET REVIEW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YORK, July 11.—The sud- in wheat prices below ...ket for July and Septem- ..., and quiet strength in ...ous exchanges, in anticipa- ...of the British Premier's ...tomorrow on reparations ...clearly overshadowed ...expectation in the reparа- ...ation today. The stock ...of the week have been as ...as many years in a pod. ...ls 167@ 168, dull, listless ...ould may be dismissed from ...ations as meaningless, such ...advances as occurred ...to day representing more- ...ssing of professional spec- ...on one side or the other. ...ctles in wheat prices as- ...dramatic proportions when ...ber time this year, and ...the first time since Septem- ...1923, the near-by options ...not broke through the $1 ...but it was particularly im- ...because it followed so ...on the heels of the United ...Department of Agriculture's ...indicating acreage and con- ...which do not point to a ...crop.

...reat strength of the foreign ...today, in which sterling ...1-4 cents from the week's ...quite widely interpreted ...financial district as fore- ...a sane and sober view of ...questions problem by Pre- ...Coolidge in his speech tomor- row. In fact there were many ob- vious indications in the cables that France may be willing to recede from her former position and had moved to avert a threatened break in the Entente. At any rate, it was quite evident that much of the tension over the international situ- ation of the last two or three days has been lessened, although there is no disposition in our finan- cial centers to gloss over or min- imize the importance of tomorrow's declaration of the British attitude.

There is a growing belief, how- ever, that an open break will be studiously avoided by both coun- tries. The strength in sterling to- day was accompanied sympathetic- ally by strength in the franc and in most of the other continental exchanges. They have regained at this point as a matter of fact, practically all of the loss of the earlier part of the week.

It is characteristic of present financial opinion that the most im- portant industrial development of the day should have been entirely passed over by all markets. This was to be found in the railroad- car loading report for the last week of June showing a total for the seven days of 1,021,776 cars, breaking the former record of 1,014,480 cars, established in Oc- tober, 1920, and 19,103 more cars than were loaded in the week pre- ceding, and 158,925 cars more than reported a year ago.

MARKET MARKING TIME

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 11.—With public interest still at low ebb, pro- fessional traders exerted intermit- tent selling pressure against to- day's stock-market and prices lost more ground. Trading was again relatively dull, large traders show- ing a disposition to await further developments in the foreign po- litical situation before extending their commitments.

Lower commodity prices un- doubtedly were the most depress- ing influence on quoted values, but some selling also was inspired by the official announcement that a renewed attempt would be made to unionize the steel industry and by the decision of some of the "Big Four" brotherhoods to ask for an increase in wages above the war-time scale.

Wall street was inclined to in- terpret the higher foreign ex- change rates as an indication that foreign centers were still hopeful of a satisfactory solution of the reparations problem. Demand ster- ling advanced 1 cent to $4.58 5-16, but French francs canceled their early gain and closed slightly low- er. Italian lire and German marks showed moderate improvements.

United States Steel fluctuated within a radius of 1 point, com- ing within a small fraction of 89 1-4, the year's low, and closing at 89 7-8 for a net loss of 3-8 on the day.

While yesterday's tonnage report was disappointing, some observers interpreted it as showing that very large deliveries must have taken place in the quarter just closed, so that the earnings report should be impressive. Weekly steel re- views report lessened steel produc- tion and further reductions in pig and scrap prices.

Railroad shares failed to make any response to the report of rec- ord car loadings. Hard-coal car- riers were adversely affected by the decision of the Interstate Com- merce Commission to investigate anthracite freight rates, Lehigh Valley dropping 2 3-4, Delaware and Hudson 1 3-4 and Lackawan- na 1 point.

Most of the standard industrials showed only fractional changes on the day. Commission houses re- ported that a sizable increase was noted in the selling orders from western points, holders of stock in that territory apparently having become discouraged by wheat breaking below $1 a bushel. In- ternational Harvester dropped 2 points. Mail-order shares also yielded, despite unusually large current earnings.

Call money opened at 5 per cent, but fell to 4½ before the close. Time money held firm with brokers paying 5 1-4 per cent for the long- er maturities. The commercial paper market was quiet, with no change in rates.

Day's total sales, 892,000 shares.

Twenty industrials averaged 87.80; net loss, .64; high 1923, 105.38; low, 87.80; new low for year. Twenty railroads averaged 77.73; net loss, .65; high 1923, 90.63; low, 76.85.

NEWS ANOMALIES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 11. — Today's news presented in striking measure the anomalies in the country's business situation which has bred bewilderment as to the future. Wheat prices broke below $1 a bushel for the first time since last September, despite the fact that the report issued by the Depart- ment of Agriculture earlier in the week did not indicate a bumper crop. In consequence of the steady decline in wheat, Minneapolis mill- ers today quoted the lowest price on flour in about eight years.

On the other hand, freight traf- fic during the week ended June 30 was the heaviest ever handled by the American railroads, not even excluding the peak movement or- dinarily resulting from the autumn crop movement.

Every commodity classification showed increases in the freight vol- ume. This seems to leave small room for doubt that customers continue to buy liberally in practi- cally all lines, especially when cou- pled with statements from manu- facturers and merchants that they are not stocking up for future trade.

But a continuation of the pres- ent volume of trade is difficult to foresee if as large a class of the country's population as is repre- sented by the agricultural commu- nity is to receive unsatisfactory prices for its products and labor. Incidentally, today brought news that another attempt will be made to unionize the steel industry, chiefly for the purpose of securing the eight-hour day, and also that two of the most powerful railroad labor unions will demand wage in- creases at somewhat higher figures than war-time pay when existing contracts expire on October 1.

Further evidence of slackening in the steel and automobile indus- tries is apparent, according to the midweek reviews.

Oil Royalties

The Twin Bell Oil Syndicate's announcement of a $150,000 dividend, or 50% of the entire capitalization of the syndicate, payable July 25; also the Star Petroleum Company's announcement of $105,000 dividend amounting to 50% of the entire outstanding capital stock of the corporation, payable July 25, are deserving congratulation and should be thoughtfully considered by the individual who doubts if there is money to be made by the AVERAGE INVESTOR in oil.

The man who invests his money intelligently in oil will get a return far in excess of that afforded by any other form of investment. The profit he makes is dependent largely upon the intelligence that he employs.

If you invest your money through an expert oil investment organization—one that is qualified to select for you—one that is financially and morally responsible—you can make money even out of proportion to that referred to in this ad. We advise you to invest in Land Owner's Oil Royalties which we are offering. They are the safest form of oil investment.

At present we are offering the royalty in an acreage surrounded by the biggest producing oil wells in Santa Fe Springs. The company operating on this property has its own pipe line facilities, absorption plant, and unlimited capital. The royalty on this property will pay you an enormous return. This will appeal to both the large and small investor.

COOTE FAILURE STILL GROWING

Receiver Places Deficit at Million and Half

'Dummy' Accounts Alleged to Have Been Discovered

Investigators Inundated by Creditors' Appeals

With the announcement yesterday that the estimated deficit in the A. W. Coote brokerage failure will reach $1,572,105.51, and intimations in the preliminary report prepared by the receiver, William H. Moore, Jr., that "dummy" accounts have been discovered involving "hundreds of thousands of dollars, apparently embracing the personal trading and speculation of Mr. Coote," several new elements were injected into the explanation of the sudden collapse of the firm which was declared involuntarily bankrupt on June 25. The statement will be mailed to all of the creditors whose names appear on the books within the next few days.

The preliminary estimate of the assets and liabilities that will be submitted by the receiver to the creditors shows assets of $672,548.51 and liabilities of $2,244,654.02, leaving a deficit of $1,572,105.51. When final adjustments are made, the accountants signing the financial report state they are of the opinion that the deficit will be enlarged rather than reduced.

The public impression of the failure of the firm which operated throughout California, Arizona and Colorado and maintained head offices in this city, has been that it was precipitated largely by the financial troubles of Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne, a New York Stock Exchange firm, of which the Coote organization was the Pacific Coast representative. The receiver's letter, however, permits a different conclusion to be drawn. All securities, according to the receiver, of any market value that came into the hands of the firm, were pledged or hypothecated for loans made to Mr. Coote, or were held as security for open trading accounts by various individuals, firms, brokers and banks in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago and New York. When final liquidation is completed, substantial equities may be discovered in some of the loan accounts, Mr. Moore says, but, until the pledges liquidate, the equities cannot be determined, nor can the securities be released from such loans.

All buying orders, as far as the receiver's investigations have gone, were executed, but the securities were immediately used as collateral for loans. None of the securities will be segregated to individual claimants at this time because, as the statement says, many customers claim the same certificates. Mr. Moore advises all creditors to submit their list of holdings in writing to his office to assist in the analysis of the accounts and claims.

The receivership, under its present status, is temporary in character. Mr. Coote has been granted an extension of time, which expires the 20th inst. in which to appear or answer to the involuntary petition in bankruptcy filed against him, and is proceeding in the interval with a plan of reorganization under the supervision of the creditors. Mr. Moore's attitude on the plans for reorganization, however, is pessimistic. He says: "It is not the function of the receiver to express an opinion on the regularity of individual transactions nor to investigate such transactions beyond a point involving protection of the estate as a whole. The receiver is not taking part in any scheme to rehabilitate the business nor has he given approval to any such scheme. Creditors must determine for themselves whether to join in such proposals. Creditors are warned that until the status of each customer's demand for surrender of securities is determined the customer cannot possibly know what or how much he will obtain from this estate."

The extent and magnitude of the failure is growing daily, the receiver's investigators state. They are literally inundated with demands from nearly 3000 customers for the surrender of various stocks and bonds from people in all stations of life, some of the letters manifesting a threatening tone and others pitiful in their appeal for the recovery of their money and securities.

MOTORCYCLE RIDER IN CRASH GIVEN DAMAGES

Mason G. Reed, who was asking $53,300 damages from A. E. Towne as a result of injuries received in an accident on Santa Monica Boulevard July 28, 1922, was awarded $3500 by the jury in Judge Hardy's court yesterday. Reed maintained that he was driving a motorcycle when Towne struck him with his automobile, throwing him to the ground with such force that he received a broken ankle, a fractured arm, besides numerous cuts and bruises.

DAILY MARKET LETTER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 11.—There was not much feature as far as price movements were concerned in the general fresh fruit auction sales today. Offerings of oranges, lemons and grapefruit were about the average while oranges and grapefruit closed unchanged on the best stock with the market quiet and irregular on the ordinary and poor offerings. Lemons were steady.

The price paid for oranges averaged as follows:

On California strictly fancy, $6.50 to $7 a box; fine to fancy $5 to $6.75; poor to good, $3.75 to $4.75.

Florida, fine to fancy, $5 to $6.50 a box, and poor to good from $2.50 to $4.75.

Sales of Porto Ricans were made on the basis of $1.75 to $4 a box.

California lemons sold from $4.50 to $6 a box.

DRIED FRUITS

Predictions of a quick sale of the 1922 carryover of raisins were made today by Leon Gamarian, salesmanager for the New York division of the Sun Maid Raisin Growers.

A fairly liberal allotment has been made to the New York division but buyers are expected to take hold in a big way in order to prevent a repetition of the conditions which prevailed a year ago when practically everything that had been offered had been swept clear in two days and on the third day contracts were taken for 6000 tons that could not be filled.

Due to limited carry-over a year ago coupled with freight congestion approximately 20,000 tons of raisin consumption was lost to the United States and Canada.

The new crop of raisins is much later than usual. Moreover they have been damaged to the extent of at least 25 per cent by cool weather and development of mildew. The damage to crops through mildew varies as to section, ranging from 15 per cent to as high as 50 per cent.

CANNED GOODS

Orders for moderate-sized quantities feature the market for canned goods. The unsatisfactory reports to hand regarding the progress of various crops are disquieting and in view of those conditions the buyer is making more of an effort to protect himself. There has been another opening in salmon at about the prices that the trade expected. There continues a tendency toward higher prices for Maine and California sardines. Fancy corn is in small supply and standards are meeting a good demand.

SUGAR

A sale to the Federal late on Tuesday of some 10,000 bags of Cuban raw sugar loading at 4⅝ cents, cost and freight, served to further unsettle the raw sugar situation today. This was a drop of 3-16 of a cent a pound from the previous sale.

Refiners tried to pick up additional lots either of Cubas or Philippinesat that quotation, but none were available. It was reported refiners might even be willing to pay from 4⅝ to 4 cents cost and freight.

The reaction upward in the sugar futures market after the big break of the day before was the result of buying by interests closely identified with Cuban and European connections, and a great deal of the demand originated from Wall-street interests. The market had advanced 13 to 15 points by the noon hour, and by the close this was stretched into net gains of 20 to 24 points.

A fairly good volume of withdrawal business was in evidence in refined sugar, but new business was apparently limited.

COFFEE, TEA

After showing net gains of 2 to 10 points on call, in reflection of the somewhat firmer cables received from Brazil, the coffee futures market today developed much firmer tendencies on the appearance of more outside interest. Much of the trading was in the nature of switching from July to the far months, the desire being to take advantage of the attractive discounts prevailing.

Conditions in the primary markets were steadier with the Rio term market some 200 to 250 reis higher, while Santos was up 200 to 300 reis.

The Rio exchange rate on London was up 1-32, while the dollar buying rate was some 90 reis higher. Net gains of 13 to 15 points were scored on a turnover of some 23,250 bags.

Cables from Shanghai confirm the opening of Ping Suey teas there at 14½ cents for government standards, which is an advance of 4 gold cents over the prices prevailing at the opening in 1922. Another cable from Shanghai stresses the great strength and activity in low-grade Congou teas resulting from heavy purchasing by the United Kingdom.

News from Japan is that good style medium teas are about finished now.

Java teas continued to show a decidedly firm tone. A cable from Batavia was that teas have advanced 1½ gold cents this week, and that the earliest offerings were for August-September shipment, which teas cannot be delivered here until about January 1.

RICE, BEANS

Trading in rice is dull and without much feature. Inquiries are restricted to small quantities, not sufficiently large to make for any special reductions in the present stocks, which are considered as being adequate on the whole. The market at primary points is steady but without special feature.

The bean market is dull and under pressure to find some sort of a trading basis. Sellers have been quite willing to show favors. Pea beans are perhaps the weakest variety on the list. Red and white kidneys are quiet.

BUTTER, EGGS

The buter market showed increased firmness and readily advanced 1-2 cent a pound. Sales for spot delivery were 25 tubs extras at 38 1-2 cents and 50 tubs at 38 3-4 cents. In futures 100 tubs of extras sold seller July, 38 1-2 cents; 500, seller, August, 38 1-2; 100 seller, July, 38 1-2 cents; 1000 tubs seller, August, 38 1-2; 100 seller, July, 38 3-4; 500 seller, August, 38 3-4 cents. It may be observed that the sales for August indicate speculative values.

The egg market is more or less unsettled. Call sales four cars storage firsts seller, December, were taken at 31 3-4 cents.

Pacific Coast white extras, 39@40 cents; white extra firsts, 36 1-2@38 cents; firsts, 33@35 1-2 cents.

COPPER, ZINC

The copper market advanced 1-4 cent today. The upward movement started in the forenoon when all interests selling at low prices raised their quotation to 1-4 3-4 cents for electrolytic delivered but one and this last interest advanced its price by noon. There is some improvement in demand both here and abroad.

London cables an advance of 10s for the entire list standard spot closing at £65, 15s; futures at £66, 7s 6d; electrolytic spot at £72, 15s and futures £73, 5s.

Zinc advanced again and at the close, spot and July quoted at 6.15 cents; August, at 6.20 and, September, at 6 1-4 cents a pound St. Louis. The market is being bid up by both operators and consumers, while offerings are in small amount.

The London market was firm at £28, 12s 6d for spot and £29 for futures.

OIL, GASOLINE

Refiners in Northwestern Pennsylvania announce a reduction in the price of motor gasoline which they are now quoting at 13 1-4 cents a gallon. Another cut in crude was noted when Corning was reduced 10 cents a barrel to $1.60 a barrel. The Texas company has reduced the price of Gulf Coast crude to $1.50 a barrel, following the cut by the Humble company of last week. Crude prices in Wyoming have been increased by approximately 20 cents a barrel, as a result of the adjustments made by the Producers' and Refiners' Corporation which will hereafter pay midcontinent prices less 35 cents a barrel for crude for same gravity produced in fields contiguous to its pipelines. The differential was formerly 55 cents. It is expected that other large purchasers of Wyoming and Montana crude will adjust their schedules accordingly.

BOND MARKET

Bonds repeated the performance of the previous day, moving within narrow limits until the final hour when prices eased off slightly from the highs.

The decline in call money to 4 1-2 per cent level aided the finish of the market but the lower trend of several of the leading stocks unsettled bond prices.

The foreign group again displayed strength. French bonds being higher. British 5 1-2s finished irregular, off 1-8 to up 1-4. Austrian 7s hardened at the previous closing figure, while Serb 8s moved off 1-2 a point.

Trading in Liberties in the outside market is assuming much larger proportions than the transactions recorded on the stock exchange. Final prices were unchanged to up 2-32. Most of the British buying is being done in the outside market.

Most of the active rail issues closed fractionally down from the opening. Frisco issues and the Katy adjustment 5s were no exception.

Copper and steels have ruled quiet.

Sugars were steadier.

Oil issues commanded fair attention.

FORGETS HER CLOTHES; GUARDS HUNT BODY

Employees of the Venice plunge found a pitiful little heap of girl's garments in a deserted dressing-room yesterday. With visions of a pale body from which life had fled, they hurried to search the plunge waters. They found, nothing. So they called the life guards, and asked them to watch for a lifeless face in the breakers. While the divers were diving, and the guards were watching, a girl in a bathing suit walked in and asked for her clothes. "I often prepare for the beach at home," she said, "and today I forgot that I had changed here until I got home and couldn't find my clothes."

ORDERED TO PAY WIFE ALIMONY PENDING SUIT

Howard Caspary, who told the court he was president of the California Rendering Company, was ordered to pay his wife, Edan Caspary, $250 a month pending trial of a suit for divorce by Judge Summerfield yesterday. In the complaint filed by Mrs. Caspary, it was charged that the husband caused his wife to be forcibly confined in a sanitarium in Pasadena for several months. The wife testified that her husband allowed her $450 a month prior to the separation. The husband was said to receive a salary of $700 a month, in addition to an income from a legacy.

Three Boys and Girl Nabbed as Theft Suspects

Three youths about 20 years of age and a girl, 19, who says she was first made intoxicated by the boys, are being held by the police as burglary suspects, following a robbery Monday night at the Sunset Messenger Company's offices, 441 South Flower street, in which two motorcycles and a box containing $400 in cash and $960 in checks were part of the loot.

The boys are Leslie Wells, Clarence French and Charles Wood, and the girl, Margaret Lee. The arrests were made by Detective Lieutenants Hickey and McCauley.

GUILTY AS SHOPLIFTER

F. Langhenry Carver, 633 Heliotrope Drive, yesterday pleaded guilty to shoplifting when taken before Police Judge Crawford. An operative of the Retail Dry Goods Merchants' Association arrested Carver at Bullocks. Judge Crawford fixed his bail at $350 in default of which Carver was committed. He will be sentenced today.

Four Stills in Canyon Drive House Seized

Four monster distilleries and more than 100 gallons of freshly made whisky, a product which already had been sold with once famous "kick," were seized yesterday by Prohibition agents when they broke open the doors of an elaborately furnished home at 2[illegible] Drive.

Although no one was at the house when officers arrived, Charles C. Bratten, who gave address as 114 Canyon Drive, came up to the door in an automobile and entered the house. He was arrested and charged with violation of the Volstead Act. Officers declared Bratten had a large quantity of liquor in his car.

Five minutes after the robbery of the store of G. Jaroslo[illegible] Gabriel yesterday, Philip [illegible], 19 years of age, was arrested by Marshal Rogers and Deputy Marshal Clark. Quirce was charged with robbing Jaroslo[illegible] of violating his probation.

"Dollar Wheat" Appears; Crops Are Improved

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 11.—Wheat prices dropped below $1 per bushel for the July and the September today for the first time on the crop and closed ¾@¾ lower. Houses with Northwestern connections that were recently good buyers on the black rust scare in the spring wheat territory, liquidated their holdings and prices dropped readily with sentiment decidedly bearish. Corn finished ¼@¾ higher, with July showing the most strength, while oats were ¼ lower to ¼ higher and rye ¾@¾ lower.

Crop reports from the Northwest were more favorable, and messages from crop experts indicated that in South Dakota the wheat would probably mature ahead of the rust. This with cooler weather had considerable influence on values and while the sentiment was a good buyer to renew hedges against export sales, September dropped to 99¾, only to rally 1 at the finish. Hedging pressure is gradually increasing. A commission house with western connections was a good seller of July.

Northwestern markets showed more weakness than Chicago with Minneapolis off 1¾@1¾ and Winnipeg down ¾@1. Readjustment from old to new crop basis at St. Louis caused a drop of 3@7 in spot prices, which led to selling of futures here at the last. Exporters reported 1,500,000 bushels sold in all positions. Purchases to arrive were estimated at 100,000 bushels. Threshing returns from Kansas City, Missouri and Illinois show irregular yields.

Cash corn advanced to within a cent or two of the highest figures of the season, due to a better demand, industries being in the market for the first time in ten days. Deals on yellow was 101¼ higher, with No. 2 6 cents over and bids equal to spot prices were made for the days' shipment from the country. July acted tight and showed the most strength despite ranges of grain delivered on contracts in public elevators being out of condition. There was scattered selling of the deferred deliveries by commission houses and local longs, but the undertone was firm and the finish was firm. Dry weather continues in the Southwest. The government weekly weather and crop reports were construed as favorable. Receipts, sixty-seven cars.

September oats sold down to 34, a new low on the crop, but all deliveries rallied toward the last, with cues. Trade was largely of a local character. Cooler weather is favorable for late grain in Iowa, but some damage was done before the break in the heat wave. Receipts, sixty-five cars.

Rye was influenced largely by the decline in wheat and averaged lower. There were unconfirmed reports of Germany having bought some rye in Russia, but seaboard exporters said they had nothing on it. Russell's News wired Russia offered small lots to Denmark early in the week. The Northwestern markets received forty-eight cars.

SHIPPING AND Los Angeles Harbor NEWS

INCOME FOR PORT SHOWS HIGH TOTAL

Ship Concerns Contribute About $1,650,000 Monthly to Los Angeles Harbor

What commercial shipping is contributing yearly to Los Angeles Harbor is revealed in statistics compiled by Maj. C. A. James, manager of the Marine Exchange, which the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is enlarging at the harbor.

Approximately $1,650,000 enriches the port monthly from ships, stores, labor and services.

More than $150,000 is expended monthly alone, according to Maj. James, for ships' supplies, averaging $300 a ship for the more than 500 ships calling monthly at the harbor.

Stevedoring, however, at $1 a ton, contributes the greatest item of the total, averaging more than $1,200,000 monthly. Added to this are other items, such as a payroll of $175,000 by the stevedoring companies; $4000 for telephone service to Los Angeles; $120,000 for wharfage, and $14,625 for municipal pilot fees. Maj. James estimates that one-fourth of the ships use municipal pilots at $125 a ship.

The telephone item reveals a condition not extant elsewhere. At Los Angeles harbor not more than six shipping agencies have been able to get direct wires to Los Angeles to date, and the expense to others runs as high as $350 a month each in tolls from the port to the city proper.

These figures are exclusive of dock organizations' overhead expense, which Maj. James estimates will add thousands of dollars more to the total.

Harbor Chamber Chooses Beaton for Third Term

Roy H. Beaton, secretary of the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce, was re-elected to the position for the third year, at a meeting of the directors yesterday afternoon.

The chamber, which is popularly accepted as the nearest approach to municipal authority at Los Angeles Harbor, has seen tremendous growth of the port during Beaton's guidance.

The harbor's needs have been laid before Los Angeles City Council and commissions daily by the chamber and action has been obtained on many great projects, including the recently voted $15,000,000 bond issue for harbor development.

Mr. Beaton's activity in harbor development has caused him to be elected instructor in harbor development at the summer chool of commercial secretaries of California, which convenes in San Jose late in July.

RICHARDSON TO BE GUEST OF CHAMBER

The San Pedro Chamber of Commerce is preparing for its annual banquet next Wednesday night. Among the guests of honor will be Gov. Richardson, Col. R. E. Mittlestadt and staff, Frank F. Merriam, Speaker of the Assembly; Fred L. Baker, president of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Drydock Corporation, and Henry E. Carter, Assemblyman. The dinner will be at the Woman's clubhouse.

PEDESTRIAN HIT BY AUTO BADLY HURT

Crowd Threatens Driver of Machine When Victim is Dragged Forty Feet

A. C. Zvolek, Lompoc gardener, 60 years of age, was perhaps fatally injured in an automobile accident at the intersection of Sunset Boulevard and Figueroa street. The driver of the machine was roughly handled by a crowd until police arrived.

Zvolek, who says he is the originator of the winter garden pea, was crossing at the intersection when he was struck by an automobile driven by J. J. Walters, 828 North Inglewood avenue. Zvolek became entangled in the running gear of the car and was dragged forty feet. A crowd soon gathered and leaders were threatening to do violence to Walters when police arrived and quelled the disturbance.

Zvolek was conveyed to the Receiving Hospital by Miss Grace Bancroft, 740 North Lake avenue, Pasadena, where it was found he was suffering from a severe skull fracture.

Street Car Hits Auto; Four Are Slightly Hurt

A collision between a Pacific Electric car and an automobile at Newport Beach yesterday resulted in slight injuries to four persons. The injured all reside in Whittier. They are Mr. and Mrs. William Pinkham and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Robinson.

They were going to Balboa Beach when their machine stalled on the Nineteenth-street crossing. The car crashed into the automobile, totally wrecking it and flinging the passengers to the ground. Mr. Pinkham was most seriously injured. He sustained a cut on his nose and a sprained wrist and leg. The other members of the party escaped with bruises and cuts.

GOVERNOR PAYS VISIT TO CAMP

Gunners Make High Scores at Sea Target

Long Beach Company is Put Through Paces

BY MAJ. JOSEPH P. McQUAIDE

Yesterday was Governor's Day in the camp of the First Coast Defense Command, Coast Artillery Corps, C. N. G. at Fort MacArthur. The Governor was received in the forenoon and he remained for lunch. He was accompanied by Speaker of the Assembly Merriam and some friends from Long Beach.

Seven direct hits on a target towed several miles at sea were made in rifle practice for the Governor and Speaker Merriam of the Assembly. This excellent target practice was made from the 14-inch guns of Battery Farley, manned by the Four Hundred and Sixty-fourth Company of San Diego.

Gov. Richardson and Speaker Merriam arrived at the fort at 11 a. m. and were received with the Governor's salute of seventeen guns. They then went to the upper reservation where the Coast Artillery camp is located, and made the rounds accompanied by Col. R. E. Mittelstadt, commanding officer of the Coast Artillery, and Maj. George Ruhlin, commanding officer of Fort MacArthur.

LARGE REALTY DEALS CLOSED

Total of $2,215,000 in Day's Transfers Announced

Medical Structure and Big Apartments Planned

Broadway Property is Sold and Lease Signed

New realty and building transactions closed yesterday by various real estate firms and architects show that business activities are still on the increase and that millions of dollars will be expended on improvements in Los Angeles during the coming year. The deals consummated in the last twenty-four hours include the erection of a medical building on West Sixth street, an apartment on Eleventh street and the sale and lease of a large Broadway property. It is estimated that more than $2,215,000 is involved.

Official announcement was made by executives of the Professional Building Company, Inc., that final architectural drawings have been completed for a new store and office edifice on the southwest corner of Sixth and St. Paul streets that will be eight stories in height, class-A construction and will cost in excess of $750,000. Actual operations are expected to commence within the next ten days, with completion by February.

All preliminary details in the plans have been worked out by W. S. Hebbard, local architect and designer of the doctors' home. According to specifications provided by him, the building will be of reinforced concrete construction, absolutely fireproof and built to meet the needs of tenants and their special requirements.

ROOM FOR STORES

There will be twelve modern stores on the ground floor, elaborately furnished with latest conveniences including compressed air, electrical power for hospital apparatus and hot and cold water. Space on the upper floors will be divided into approximately twenty-five offices for each floor and thirteen rooms on the mezzanine floor, making a total of 357 offices and extra space for storage in the basement.

Property on the corner was purchased outright from J. M. Russell and associates recently for $145,000 through Walter F. Rowley of the Campbell-Joralman Company, local realtors, who have been selected to handle all the lease negotiations and rentals for the building. The site has a frontage of 184 feet on Sixth street and fifty-one feet on St. Paul street with a main entrance on the north side.

Among the materials to be used in the structure are terra cotta and brick for exterior walls and facing, marble for the interior finish of all corridors and lobby and mahogany for inside furnishings. Three high-speed electric passenger and freight elevators will be installed to provide efficient transportation facilities for all floors. Contract for the project has been awarded to the Winter Construction Company of this city.

TO BUILD APARTMENT

Architects Russell & Alpaugh have been commissioned to prepare drawings for attractive apartments to rise on the northeast corner of Eleventh and Lake streets for Mrs. Julia A. Fitch at an expenditure of $200,000, exclusive of site valuations. Work will be begun next week and rushed through

DRY AGENTS RAID TWO DRUG STORES

Two drug stores, asserted to have made illegal sales of liquor, were entered yesterday by prohibition agents from H. H. Dolley's office, who arrested the clerks and served notice that the proprietors must come into court and give bond. At the Burlington Pharmacy, 1735 West Seventh street, where an agent said he bought a pint of gin, D. A. Shepard was arrested and taken to the County Jail. George A. Simmons was arrested at the Pico-Hill Pharmacy, 166 West Pico street, where agents said they bought a pint of whisky. A quantity of liquor was seized at each place.

Prohibition agents yesterday raided the premises at 2014 Canyon Drive, Hollywood, where they declared that they discovered four aluminum liquor stills and approximately 100 gallons of moonshine booze. No one was at the place at the time, but the agents waited and arrested Charles C. Bratten, who drove into the place in an automobile. Search of the car revealed a bottle of moonshine, the agents reported.

FUN LOVERS GIVEN INNINGS

Special Amusement Concessions Added to Motion Picture Exposition at Popular Demand

The Monroe Centennial Exposition and Motion Picture Revue now in progress at Exposition Park is an undertaking worthy of the patronage and support of everyone.

It is not only that it is a home product and an exposition of the city's biggest and most spectacular industry, as well as a patriotic conception of national scope; it is a good show and worth the money.

In the belief that any time will do for attending a spectacle that lasts five weeks, many persons have deferred their planned visit to the grounds. This is one of the frequent occasions when there is no time like the present. If you don't go now you are likely to get caught in a last-minute jam and see the show either under unsatisfactory conditions or not at all.

The exposition marks the formal opening of the great Coliseum—the biggest thing of the kind Los Angeles ever put forth. This gigantic stadium is, as a spectacle, worth the price of admission by itself. It is the daily setting of a program of historical pageantry of impressive scope. Without its doors are a thousand things of interest and value not only to citizens of Los Angeles but to everyone. New features are being added daily.

It's your show. Go to it!

After moving along majestically for more than ten days as a sedate combination of educational exposition and historical revue, the Motion Picture Exposition and Monroe Doctrine Centennial began to "feel its oats" yesterday and played to the visiting throngs as a roaring snorting show.

The thousands in and around Los Angeles will be nothing short of tickled to know that the real carnival spirit has begun to sweep over the great exposition. Before many days pass, the biggest "sport" in town will be able to do himself proud by taking his best girl and showing her a real time at the exposition and its wonderful night show, the management announced.

The change in plans for catering to the amusement-loving public has been in the process of development for some time. The first results are to be seen in the first of the carnival attractions to be placed on the ground. They may have outraged the architectural spirit of the place in so doing, but it is a fact that they have gone and planked a big Ferris wheel right down at the end of the romantic yet reserved Rue de la Paix, which, in the American lingo, is the "main stem" of the exposition city.

ALONG THE "RUE"

Shivers of dismay and anguish may have wriggled up and down the spine of the exquisite statue of President Monroe at the other end of the "rue," but the crowds voiced their instant approval and appeared to diminish not one whit their appreciation of the statues.

"The classic creation of the sculptor might just as well get used to it," "Hi" Wambold, publicity man for the exposition announced, "because this is only the beginning of our work of putting the razzle-dazzle into the show out here." Other amusement concessions are to be moved in immediately. Dancing girls, the fire eaters, the sword swallowers, the ring throwing contests, guessing games and every other attraction that goes to make up a real "great white way" will soon take their places on the exposition grounds.

ENLARGE FEATURES

Notwithstanding these added attractions, all of the other entertainment and exposition features that have been drawing the crowds will be retained, it was announced. Some of them, in fact, will be enlarged and intensified. The motion-picture producers are already sending out their stars and feature players to miniature exposition bungalows to meet and entertain the film fans.

A trip through the little film studios on the grounds is nothing short of a quick and entertaining

Convicted Men to be Taken to San Quentin Today

A five-day sympathetic strike of I.W.W. marine workers at Los Angeles Harbor, as a protest against the conviction of twenty-seven I.W.W. members on a charge of criminal syndicalism in Judge McCormick's court yesterday, was voted at a meeting of 1200 ship workers at Liberty Hill in the harbor district last night.

The men, stirred by speakers conspicuous for their inability to speak the English language, voted solidly in favor of the strike, to begin at 10 a.m., today.

The wording of the resolution adopted indicated that the strikers will return to work in five days, but will "carry the strike to their jobs," a phrase interpreted to mean that they will follow the customary I.W.W., tactics of "soldiering."

THREE ARRESTED

Three admitted members of the I.W.W. were arrested while a discussion of the strike vote was in progress. Patrolman Stenger of the Wobbly Squad arrested Fred Miller, 32, a German and a newcomer from Seattle. He said he had been in Chicago and at other points where the I.W.W. disturbances have been rampant, and stated he had come from Seattle to direct the Wobblies' activities at the Harbor.

Herman A. Berg, 32, was arrested by Capt. Clyde Plummer while attempting to sign additional members at the Liberty Hill meeting. I.W.W. credentials as Wobbly organizers were found on him and on Miller.

Patrolman Wycoff arrested W. W. Norris, 43, who the police say is the official "newsboy" of the Wobblies at the Harbor. According to the authorities, Norris directs the sale and distribution of the Wobbly newspaper and other forms of propaganda. The three men were taken by members of the Wobbly Squad to Central Police Station, Los Angeles.

POLICE AT MEETING

The meeting was attended by a large detail of harbor police, who went on a twelve-hour shift yesterday.

Most of the speakers were so pronouncedly foreign that Americans in the audience could understand them only with difficulty. Fred Miller, the chairman, had a heavy German accent. Alfred Cohen, introduced as "general defense secretary for California," also used the English language with difficulty.

Several speakers used Spanish, addressing the large Mexican element among the workers. One of the high lights of the meeting was the appearance of George Chalmers Richmond, the former Episcopalian clergyman, who has sued Rev. Bob Shuler for $50,000 for asserted libel.

Mr. Richmond appeared in the garb of the Episcopal order, although he has not been assigned to any church of that faith for some time past. He made a highly inflammatory speech, and when his remarks were not received with sufficient enthusiasm, cried out: "Applaud! Applaud! That is the place to clap!"

His remarks were considerably extended, and the men began to leave before he had ended.

SHIP-OWNERS ON GUARD

While the ship-owners anticipate no great trouble from the strike, they were placed on their guard by word last night that I.W.W.'s from the Atlantic coast are heading for Los Angeles Harbor on intercoastal steamers.

Some of the speakers made the boast that all loggers in the Northwest would join the sympathetic strike, and that marine workers along the Atlantic coast are organizing a similar protest.

The ship-owners said last night that about 300 of the marine workers at this port are members

RICH CHICAGOANS WED HERE

Mrs. Tilden, Divorced Wife of Banker, Becomes Bride of Sydney Gardiner; Ceremony Quiet

"And to think we came all the way to Beverly Hills to avoid publicity!"

Pretty Mrs. Sydney Gardiner, who Tuesday evening before dinner was Mrs. Gladys Tilden, divorced wife for fifteen months of Edward Tilden, prominent Chicago banker and packer, pouted a bit to a blushing accompaniment. Husband Sydney was not so disconcerted as his bride but considerably more displeased, he said, when the reporter found them last night at Beverly Hills Hotel where they were married Tuesday evening by Rev. S. J. Skevington of the First Baptist Church of Hollywood.

The marriage took place after a series of incidents that threatened chaos for plans and which began when young Gardiner, accompanied by Townsend Netcher, went to the Marriage License Bureau to obtain that necessary document. The bride-to-be was not with them.

"But she is away out in Beverly Hills and it's getting late," exclaimed Mr. Gardiner when he was informed that the bride-to-be must be present when the license is issued.

Mr. Netcher's chauffeur smiled when asked if he trifled with speed laws in getting Mrs. Tilden to the bureau.

The trip to a convenient jeweler for a ring did not take so long and everyone breathed easier on the return to the hotel.

"Looked to me like every preacher in Hollywood was out playing golf," exclaimed Netcher. "Can't blame them either. We jumped in

SIX MILLION FAIL TO GET LIVING PAY

Savant Declares $845 is Lowest Figure Necessary for Family of Five

Six million men in the United States in 1918 earned less than $600 a year.

A recent investigation of wages paid in the steel industry shows that one-third of the vast army of men employed earned less than the minimum cost of subsistence, which was determined to $845 a year for a family of five in 1912 and which later investigations have set at approximately the same figure.

These somewhat startling figures were given by Prof. Francis B. Sayre, of the Harvard University Law School, in an address on the "Living Wage" before the Los Angeles City Club yesterday noon.

A majority of the different government and other bodies which have conducted exhaustive investigations to determine the "living wage" have proceeded on the assumption that a "living wage" is simply an income large enough for the average family to exist upon. Proceeding upon the conclusion that the average family consists of man and wife and three children and using low cost figures of food, clothing and other necessities, the figure of $845 a year was reached. Such items as $19.50 for an overcoat to be worn for three years and $1.50 per year for incidentals were cited.

The importance of the payment of a "living wage" was emphasized by Prof. Sayre, who said:

"If a substantial body of workers get less than the bare cost of living for their labor the effect is at once seen in a higher death rate, overcrowded housing conditions, more sickness and other economic losses. There will be no industrial peace as long as a substantial number of men are not paid a 'living wage' as the first instinct of nature is for a man to fight for the preservation of himself and his family."

TO CELEBRATE DRUG DRIVE

Parade and Program Planned for 21st Inst., With Great Public Meeting at Coliseum

Celebrating the inauguration of the world wide campaign of education on the perils of narcotics, a parade and elaborate ceremonies will be conducted the 21st inst. by the Los Angeles Citizens' Committee on Narcotic Education.

The parade will contain more than 5000 school children and an equal number of representatives of Sunday-schools, Boy Scouts, Army and Navy detachments, Salvation Army, Angelus Temple crusaders and congregation, fraternal orders and delegations from civic, educational and commercial organizations. The parade will be followed at the Coliseum, Exposition Park, by a great public meeting.

MOVEMENT BORN HERE

The movement to educate children as to the perils of habit-forming drugs had its inception in Los Angeles, and there is now a demand from every quarter of the United States for the establishment of similar organizations. The campaign has been indorsed by leaders in every walk of life in the United States, and public-spirited citizens are most enthusiastic as to the possibilities of the move, realizing that the boys and girls of this and future generations will be virtually immune from narcotic addiction through the activities of the International Narcotic Education Association's campaign.

Through the courtesy and cooperation of the officials of the American Historical Review and Motion-Picture Industrial Exposition, special arrangements have been made to admit without charge thousands of men, women and children who are to participate in the parade and ceremonies.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

A special morning program in connection with Narcotic Education Day will be given in the Women's Auditorium at the Exposition grounds at 10:30 o'clock. The speakers will include Mrs. Basil Clark and H. R. Bonner.

The parade of Narcotic Education Day will form in Los Angeles

WARRANT OUT FOR DOCTOR

James T. Fisher, Well Known in Fight Against Drug is Named in Complaint

A complaint charging violation of the Harrison Narcotic Act was filed yesterday with the United States Commissioner against Dr. James T. Fisher, a prominent alienist and figure in the fight against drug addiction. The asserted offense named in the complaint is the sale, to Federal Narcotic Agent De Spain, of seventy-five grains of morphine for $100 and the delivery of a part of the drug.

The doctor, who is 60 years of age, has, it is said, been under investigation by the Federal agents for three months and they say that he has a clientele of more or less prominent men and women.

An inspection of his records, Agents De Spain and W. R. Wood reported, showed that he had not kept account of the narcotics he handled, as he is required to do under the permit granted him by the Internal Revenue Department.

Although a warrant was issued for Dr. Fisher yesterday, it will not be served until this morning, when he is scheduled to appear for arraignment before United States Commissioner Long. Nominal bond will be asked to be provided by the doctor at that time by the United States Attorney's office, it was stated, as the officers entertain no fears that he will flee the jurisdiction of the court.

AIDS DRUG FILM

Dr. Fisher is favorably known in the medical world, having been for fifteen years the head of the County Insanity Board. He was one of the producers of "Human Wreckage." Mrs. Dorothy Davenport Reid's antinarcotic motion picture. Dr. Fisher told Agents De Spain and Wood that he wrote the subtitles for the film. Mrs. Reid is the widow of Wallace Reid, the motion-picture star who died after several years' addiction to the use of morphine. Dr. Fisher was a major in the United States Army during the World War.

Efforts to reach the physician for a statement last night regarding the case were fruitless. It was reported he was out of the city.

STREET-BOND ISSUE URGED

Whitnall Proposal for Arterial Highway Program May be Submitted to Council

A city-wide bond issue to carry out the program of arterial highway development is recommended by G. Gordon Whitnall, director of the City Planning Commission, in a report to the commission. The report probably will be transmitted to the City Council.

Mr. Whitnall deals with the general program of street lengthening and widening and straightening as outlined in the plan of the Committee Development Association already before the Council. He, however, goes into the question of financing the vast project, which he declared to be the chief difficulty. Of the financial program, Mr. Whitnall says:

"More important even than the construction of projects constituting our improvement program are the methods to be employed to secure them. It is important in this connection to recognize the fact that in the case of all projects recommended, the demands for the relief they will afford and the service they will perform, is intimately connected with the financial benefits to accruing therefrom. The necessity for the program suggested results from the traffic requirements of the community at large. It is conceivable that in some instances acquisitions may result in immedi-

BEGS COURT TO KEEP HUSBAND AWAY FOR FEAR SHE'D KNOCK HIM INTO UNCONSCIOUSNESS

It wasn't fear of what her husband would do to her but what she would do to him if she got angry that caused Mrs. Ella M. Olsen to ask for a restraining order to prevent him from coming to see her, she admitted in Judge Summerfield's division of the Superior Court yesterday.

Mrs. Olsen and her husband Jack appeared in Judge Summerfield's court in a suit to determine whether he should be forced to pay her alimony pending the trial of the divorce suit instituted by the husband. Mrs. Olsen demanded that a restraining order be issued against her husband. Judge Summerfield, somewhat surprised, asked why she wished a restraining order as she was almost twice as large as her husband.

The wife admitted this but declared she was afraid to defend herself when he struck her because she feared if she struck back she might injure him permanently. Judge Summerfield thereupon ordered both man and wife not to molest each other for their mutual welfare and ordered the husband to pay his wife $7 a week alimony for the support of their child.

TINY SHIP USED TO BRAVE SEAS

Angeleno, Alone, Takes Trip to Southern Waters

Dangers Encountered Are Related in Letter

Harry Pidgeon Plans World Five-Year Cruise

Beating alone about the trackless wastes of the South Seas in a tiny craft for more than 8000 miles has failed to quench the thirst for adventure of Harry Pidgeon, 56-year-old yachtsman of Los Angeles Harbor. Mr. Pidgeon sailed eighteen months ago from the local port and forty days later reached Marquesa Islands manning a thirty-six-foot yawl alone.

A letter from him received at the port yesterday was written in the New Hebrides three months ago and presents a graphic account of hardships and thrilling experiences he has undergone while beating about in strange places of the southern ocean. The letter tells of his numerous battles with the elements while thousands of miles from land, of careful measures taken to obtain food and water, of dangers met in fever-infested villages and of savages where all the wealth of the world could not obtain proper medical attention. He has decided to circumnavigate the globe, he says, and he plans to make the 33,000-mile voyage in five years. Since he left the Marquesa twelve months ago, Mr. Pidgeon visited Tahiti, Society Islands, Samoa and the Fiji Island before reaching the New Hebrides.

Fiji islanders, known as the worst-feared cannibals of the South Seas, proved friendly to the wanderer from Los Angeles, according to the letter. He formed a much better opinion of the Fijians, he says, than that obtained by reading novels of the South Seas. He is now en route to Australia and New Zealand and from the Antipodes plans to work up the East Indies to China and Japan, thence south and westward to the east coast of Africa.

From the Cape of Good Hope he plans to attempt the dangerous route direct to Cape Horn and then come home up the west coast of South America.

MOTHER HEARS SON TESTIFY AGAINST HER

Loren Bird, 11 years of age, was the principal witness against his mother, Mrs. Bertie Bird, and Al Main, her asserted shoplifting confederate, at their hearing yesterday before Justice Follette. Though many objections were made to the boy's testimony because of his age and other technical points, his story was received in evidence. He said that after the arrest of Main his mother took a large quantity of clothing and furs from the place they had been living to a room in another part of the city. He said he showed officers, after his mother's arrest, where these things were. The hearing will continue today.

EXHIBIT PUTS IN FUN ZONE

education in the why and how of the motion-picture. The studios are coming right out and revealing to the public many of the fascinating secrets connected with the production of pictures.

FOR FILM FANS

One studio, for instance, shows you how it was done in the early days. Another shows how a film is handled from the time a scene is "shot" until it has gone through the film laboratories and is ready for the little theater away out on the prairies of Kansas. There are many working models used in big pictures well known to the public, showing how they were employed to obtain certain effects.

To see these things and to learn their significance is merely a matter of making a tour of the Exposition studios up and down the Rue de la Paix. To see these things outside the Exposition would require days of travel around the various studios in Hollywood, Culver City and other places—and even then the companies probably could not accomplish what they are accomplishing daily out at the Motion-Picture Exposition.

In between peeps into the workings of the motion pictures there are countless industrial exhibits on the grounds, showing the latest methods and improvements in household arts, furnishings, building and living, and has to get some real joy out of life.

PLENTY TO SEE

Following the educational trip through the grounds and a little refreshment in the way of a hot dog, a cafeteria meal or a dinner at the sumptuous Montmartre Gardens, the visitor is ready for the big evening show. It is given in the giant new coliseum. Just to get inside this great structure with its awe-inspiring expanse and impressive architecture is worth the price of admission—50 cents.

The show is a rare combination of pageantry, circus, cowboy sports, vaudeville and a grand finale of pyrotechnic display—the great Montezuma fireworks. It's a three-hour show. Take it all in all, add it up, and the management defies anyone to beat a whirl at the Exposition at the price. Young or old, married or single, there is a big treat out there for all.

Yesterday was Baby Day at the Exposition. Scores of babies were entered in the baby contest given by the Exposition management.

Perhaps the most notable part of the baby contest, from the parents' viewpoint, was the filming of the contestants and the attendent possibility of seeing their infants in the motion pictures later. Pictures of the babies which took part in the competition for prizes will be shown on the exposition grounds, starting today.

INDIAN SONGS HEARD

The program staged yesterday afternoon at the Women's Auditorium featured Indian numbers. Miss Gloria Mayne appeared in native Indian costume in two groups of Indian songs. Thayer Roberts, attired as an Indian chief, gave the "Spear Dance."

Humorous and pathetic incidents observed at the Jackson street settlement in New York City were related by Mrs. J. L. McLaughlin, who for many years was identified with the work among the New York Italian immigrants. The story of the work done at the school, where the pupils are not only educated but fed and clothed as well, was received with keen interest by the large audience. John de Chouvenet gave several solos on the French horn.

CLUB GROUPS FILMED

Clubs and organizations were provided with special entertainment at the exposition last night. Various groups that attended were filmed and the members were accorded special consideration.

Child Welfare Day will be observed today. The program for the Women's Auditorium will be presented under the direction of the Castelar Creche. Prudence Penny will give an address and Dr. E. P. Lickley, president of the Social Service Commission of Los Angeles, and Edward Lyman, attorney, will also speak on child welfare work. A program showing the various phases of Camp Fire Girls' work will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Gustavus Snyder of Sacramento.

TODAY AT EXPOSITION

Today is World Traders' Day at the Exposition.

At the Women's Court a "Child Welfare" program will be in vogue. Mrs. Urquhart will speak at 2 o'clock. The Camp Fire Girls will be in session, lunching on the grounds. Prominent society women will take part in the House of Hospitality.

At the Montmartre Gardens Cafe "Pleasure Mad" night will be attended by prominent cinema folk, including Louis B. Mayer, Reginald Barker, Rene Adoree and others.

At the Universal bungalow this afternoon Virginia Valli, former Follies beauty, now a Laemmle star, will serve tea and receive her fans and friends.

This evening in the Coliseum at 8 o'clock the historical tableaux, feature acts and pyrotechnic spectacles will be in order.

The Exposition gates open at 1 o'clock.

through its paces with a mortar battery and then saw the big gun show by the San Diego guardsmen. The target practice was subcaliber work, but simulated in all respects the actual firing of the weapons except for the size of the charges and projectiles used.

After the inspection the Governor was the guest of officers of the regiment at lunch, during which a serenade was played by the regimental band.

At 2 p. m. the Governor reviewed the regiment on the parade ground at Fort MacArthur.

Before and succeeding the Governor's visit the day was the most strenuous one in the camp. The senior instructor, Capt. Carl Doney, U.S.A., assigned the ten companies in couples to Batteries Saxton, Barlow, Leary, Farley and Merriam. Maj. D. P. Hardy of San Francisco was in charge of the First Fire command and Maj. Walter G. Gastil of San Diego was in charge of the Second.

Evidently the reference made in yesterday's article about the support given by the city of Long Beach to its fine company of the Coast Artillery, National Guard, hurt no feelings, but, on the contrary, did much good. It aroused enough attention on the part of some well-disposed citizens to have an invitation extended to the regimental chaplain to go to Long Beach and have lunch with and talk before the Kiwanians.

Needless to say, the chaplain will go. This is the kind of an opportunity that must be created by the friends of the guard in all places where the attitude of the citizens toward the American soldiery is such that breeds lack of interest. The people as a whole are O.K. and can be trusted, but the people are made of but units more or less, and these units need leaders. Allow the latter to speak and act, then all things patriotic will be safe.

In this matter of placing the position and usefulness of the National Guard before the people no less an authority than the present Secretary of War took pains to devote fully one-half of an exhaustive address recently made in San Francisco upon the relation of the U. S. Army to the National Guard. It is a lamentable fact that only three-fifths of the maximum fixed number of guardsmen differentiated among the States according to population is on the rolls and that in California only one-third the quota is found in the roster.

If the young men of the country could be brought to realize what a schooling there is in even one enlistment with its two or three encampments to boot, there would be no chance to record the deplorable fact just mentioned.

Already there is keen rivalry shown in those things that make up general efficiency in the company units. Capt. Miller's company of San Francisco, generally picked as equal to the best, is challenged by Capt. Motherall's company of San Diego to drill as infantry for a trophy. The efficiency of a military company is only an instance of the effect of a known cause, and that cause is efficiency in the leader.

A conference of all the officers of the camp was held yesterday afternoon. Things noted and checked up in the drills, exercises and reviews were made manifest. Mistakes were pointed out and necessary instructions given by Capt. Doney, U.S.A., the senior instructor of the camp. Capt. Albert T. Emerson, the adjutant, made his observations, based upon the reports given him, and altogether a very fair condition of things in general was noted. The day ended in a saber drill for officers, with Capt. Argo, U.S.A., as instructor. At night the Marion Ward School of Dramatic Art from Los Angeles gave an entertainment for the men.

OPEN SUMMER LECTURES

The W.C.T.U. opened its daily summer lecture course last night at the W.C.T.U. Hall, Temple and Broadway, with a talk on "Egypt in the Days of King Tut," illustrated with colored views, by A. F. WIFE SAYS HUSBAND CALLED HER OLD COW

He called her a regular old cow and said she was too ignorant to talk to a man of his intelligence, Mrs. Jessye Lamy asserted of Louis Lamy, a lawyer, in a divorce complaint filed yesterday in Superior Court. For the last few years, Mrs. Lamy said, her husband has refused to take her anywhere, wouldn't converse except in monosyllables and not many of those, and was generally cruel. Once, she asserted, he threw her over an ice box and hurt her back. In 1919, when she had tonsilitis and had her tonsils removed, Lamy visited her bedside, she said, but refused to cheer her up or give her any money. Instead, she said, he abused her. Once he told Mrs. Lamy he wouldn't live with her a minute if he had any money, the wife declared. The couple were married in 1911 and separated two days ago. Walter T. Casey is the wife's attorney.

WIFE TO FACE COURT

Accused of Attempt to Kill Husband Protesting Form Display

Lucille Casey was held by Justice Baird yesterday to answer a charge of assault with intent to commit murder by shooting her husband Walter. Testimony showed that the shooting followed an attempt by Mrs. Casey to convince Walter Hunter, her husband's guest, of the charm of her figure. Hunter testified he was invited to the Casey home by the husband and while at dinner proceeded to describe a beauty he had seen at the beach in a bathing suit.

Mrs. Casey, he said, took exception to his remarks as reflecting on herself and attempted to show that her figure was just as beautiful as that of the girl's. Casey objected, the witness said, and forced his wife to leave the room. She returned with a revolver and pumped four bullets into her husband's body, Hunter said. The husband was present at the trial.

Dep. Dist.-Attorney Jordan is prosecuting the case.

REALIZE DREAM OF WORLD PORT

deavor to find a model for conditions as they existed down here.

"It may not be generally known, but the port it was finally decided to follow as a type for the harbor was that of Antwerp. We found conditions there much like those prevailing here and the manner in which they had been handled seemed satisfactory. So we copied Antwerp's plans so far as practicable."

STRESSES ADVANTAGES

Gen. Fries stressed the advantages of a harbor's being located at some distance from the city of which it forms the port. Congestion is always one of the chief problems connected with harbor activities, he said. The location of a city's business center on the waterfront increases the tendency to congestion and hence increases the port problems, he declared.

The speaker also pointed out that another advantage of Los Angeles Harbor is the fact that it is largely artificial. Many problems are presented by a natural harbor, he said, which are obviated where the port facilities are largely within the control of man. In such circumstances the harbor may be made to fit the needs of the place where it is located, he suggested.

LAUDS BOND ISSUE

Gen. Fries said he was pleased to know of the passage of the recent bond issue for $15,000,000 for further harbor improvements. He stated that with the steady development of Los Angeles, and particularly of the oil fields here, increased harbor facilities would be an absolute necessity in the near future. He suggested that if the harbor development be continued here in the future along the same lines as in the past, the visions of the originators of the harbor idea, who saw here a great world port, will eventually be realized in the fullest measure.

a car and after calling at a few churches we found Mr. Skevington. Mrs. Netcher was matron of honor and I was the best man and also the ring bearer. Did a good job, too."

To all of which the newlyweds, who are prominently identified with activities of the younger set in Chicago, added but little.

Mrs. Gardiner came to Los Angeles some three weeks ago with the Netchers from Chicago, where she obtained her divorce about a year ago from her wealthy banker husband, charging him with cruelty. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Hempel of Chicago. Gardiner, who is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Gardiner of Evanston, Ill., a suburb of Chicago, reached Los Angeles on Tuesday with his wedding plans in an embryo state as the result of mail and telegraphic correspondence with his bride. Gardiner's first wife, who was Miss Irene Warzburg of Grand Rapids, Mich., died in 1921.

Townsend Netcher is the son of Mrs. Mollie Netcher-Newberry, owner of the Boston Store, one of Chicago's largest department stores, and one of the city's richest women.

Frederick Hamilton, Omaha banker and a personal friend of the Gardiners and the Netchers, attended the ceremony.

"Fred just wanted to see how it was done," said Mr. Netcher.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner are leaving today for the East preliminary to a honeymoon in Europe.

"I won't tell you where we are going because if I do there will be more reporters," said Mrs. Gardiner.

Concert Tonight by Gladys G. Hill and Monrovia Trio

der Shor's selections were "Meditation," by Bach-Gounod, and "Vi-ennese Song," arranged by Kreisler. George Devren's skill was apparent in "Romance G Major," by Beethoven, and "Hungarian Dance," by Elchorn. Geneva Zubrinsky's excellence was revealed in "Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso," by Saint-Saens.

The influence of Mr. Timmner upon his pupils was notable in their intelligent execution and fine interpretation.

Dr. Mars Baumgardt, noted scientist and astronomer of Southern California, gave a talk on "Meteors." The intellectual value and profound interest of his series of talks are highly considered by listeners-in.

Frances Ulric Cole, composer-pianist, a pupil of Homer Grunn, starred on the matinee musicale with a list of her own compositions. Mr. Grunn, rated as a leading musician, composer and teacher, was present, and, with his pupil, gave "Concerto for Two Pianos," with distinct artistry. Homer Grunn's compositions are favorites without exception. Who has not been thrilled by the beauty of such heart songs as "Indian Love Song" and "In Springtime?"

Miss Cole is only 17 years of age, but she is musically advanced far beyond her years. Her father is a well-known 'cellist and her mother a prominent soprano. She began to compose when barely out of the toddling age, her parents say, and has an affinity for the piano that is most marked.

Her gift for composing is natural, she having received no instruction in this line of effort. This fall she plans to go to New York and study orchestration and counterpoint.

Among the splendid original numbers with which she favored yesterday afternoon were "A Legend," "Pines in the Woods," "In a Moonlit Canyon" and "Wildcat of Mt. Wilson," all of these composing a group; and "Three Oriental Moods," consisting of "Along the Ganges," "Dendarah" and "Dancer of Bagdad."

Emilie Cole, soprano, mother of Miss Cole, favored with clearly sung solos, including "Doe Skin Blanket" and "Calling to Thee," by Cadman; "Sweet and Low," by Miss Cole, and "Bird of the Wilderness," by Horseman. She is a native of London, and received her earlier training in Chicago, being a gold-medal recipient of the American Conservatory of that city. She later studied abroad under famous singers, and, upon returning to America, concertized widely.

Clara Wait Kribs, soprano, who sang on the noon program, won applause from studio guests with her own composition, "When I Look in the Eyes of You." Her modulation was perfect from a broadcast standpoint.

Carrie Preston Rittmeister accompanied the singer, the other songs being "Boats of Mine," by Anne Miller, and "The Night Wind," by Ernest Ball.

Mrs. Rittmeister favored with two piano solos, skillfully rendered, "Moment Musical, Op. 94," and "Impromptu Op. 142," both by Schubert.

The children's program brought to KHJ such talented juveniles as Jimmy Osborn, Evelyn Hind, Irving Krick and Jeanne Krick.

Jimmy Osborn is a boy soprano with a voice that has been called phenomenal. He has a high range, true clarity and excellent control. His recent appearance at Grauman's Million-Dollar Theater was a real success. Yesterday evening his ringing voice was heard in "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

Evelyn Hind, reader, 12 years of age, is a pupil of Mrs. J. B. McCoy. She amused with her recitation of "Pink Pajamas."

Irving Krick, pianist, 16 years of age, gave an accomplished rendition of Chopin's "Waltz In C Sharp Minor," and "Sixth Rhapsody," by Liszt. Jeanne Krick, 10 years of age, pleased with two piano solos, "Paderewski's Minuet," and "Waltz in G Flat," by Chopin.

THE FLOWING BOWL

On concert nights it is no trick to fill the flowing bowl out Hollywood way. But it is the folks who do the flowing.

WHAT'S THE USE?

Americans may now enter Constantinople without being picked up by the police, but who wants to? We can get all the turkey we want at home.

GETTING THE MONEY

New York is taking custom tolls of approximately $1,000,000 a day, so that the tariff measure is certainly producing the money. As a cash collector it is the champion of its species.

FOXES AND FURS

They are to raise foxes for the fur market on a ranch in the Big Bear country. We will have it so that the ladies of Los Angeles can snare their own wraps. There is every conceivable kind of a ranch in this section and even a fox farm will create no wonderment.

THEN AND NOW

Some of the suffrage leaders are going to make a pilgrimage to Seneca Falls, N. Y., on July 20 to mark the seventy-fifth anniversary of the first suffrage meeting which assembled at that place at the call of Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton. A good deal of water has gone over the wheel since that day.

OVERSEAS COAL

Boston schools are being supplied with coal from Wales at a cost of 40 cents a ton less than was being paid for Pennsylvania anthracite. American miners are expected to go on another strike after August 31, when their existing wage agreements expire. But if we can get cheaper coal from Wales the coal famine may not be so tragic.

THE BROKER BROKE

A former treasurer of the United States has gone broke through a brokerage venture. For a broker to be broke is no remarkable experience, but when a treasurer loses his treasure there are complications. But it seems painful that a man whose name appears on so many millions of Uncle Sam's notes cannot make a few good ones of his own.

BUYING PEACE

A distinguished peace advocate would have Uncle Sam buy this desirable thing for the whole world. Most of the European governments are heavily in our debt. If a nation scrapped its war machinery its indebtedness would be canceled. A guarantee to nevermore embark in battle would be worth $1,000,000,000 on the ledger. That is all very well to talk about, but a peace that is purchased wholly by the financial sacrifices of the United States would not be worth a whole lot, even if it came with a guarantee.

A LOST LEADER

The sudden death of Tracy Shoults leaves a pronounced gap in the ranks of the city's most progressive realtors. He was the leading spirit in the development of a number of the regal subdivisions with which Los Angeles is dowered. In this way he has been responsible for much of the beautification of the city. A great part of the Windsor Square section will stand as his monument, but that represents but a tithe of his activities. He was called away in the midst of his most ambitious efforts, but his work and his vision will carry on.

THE SPENDTHRIFTS

There are some highly seasoned spendthrifts in other States. We haven't got all of them in California, by a long shot. The Illinois General Assembly, which has just closed its biennial session, managed to appropriate $225,000,000 during its deliberations. Of this sum it was necessary to raise $105,000,000 by the sale of bonds. The last Assembly was made up of wild blades, but this one saw the former record and went it $20,000,000 better. They are building a lot of new roads in Illinois, but the work is being all done by politicians instead of experts in stone and cement. The voters realize the difference between their present Small executive and a real one such as Gov. Lowden proved himself to be.

EIGHT HOURS IN STEEL

The steel industry is arranging to operate under the eight-hour day, but it may take a little time to bring it around. Judge Gary claims that it will require an addition of nearly 60,000 employees and the men now working will draw much less money. The men themselves are far from being unanimously in favor of the change. As the steel industry is practically in continuous operation, the night and day shifts, of twelve hours each, became the natural division. To make three divisions instead of two will virtually call for the addition of as many toilers as are now employed on the day shift. The best steel workers come from Central Europe. Whether there are enough of them to meet the situation remains to be seen. But the industry has promised President Harding that the eight-hour day will be established and may be expected to keep its word.

WHY A PLAZA TERMINAL?

Why should the proposed Los Angeles union terminal be built at the Plaza?

In the first place it will better serve the traveling public on that site than on any other which is available. It is centrally located and easy of access by street car, automobile and to pedestrians. These are conditions which will continue to be true, no matter how large the city grows. They are not true of any present depot or any other proposed site.

It will better serve the railways themselves, now and in the future. In the event that other roads seek ingress into Los Angeles it will provide for them as will no other site.

It will merge the traffic of the three steam roads and the Pacific Electric under one roof for less money than any alternate plan proposed by the railroads themselves. Under any other plan that has been suggested the roads will have to remodel one station and build two more. The Plaza terminal will cost about $7,000,000. The Kansas City terminal cost $30,000,000.

The Plaza plan is the only one that eminent and disinterested engineers have been able to advance which will completely solve the grade-crossing problem. Scattered along the three steam lines, extending through this city and toward Pasadena, are more than 100 perilous grade crossings, where hundreds of persons have been killed by trains during the seven years that the Plaza case has been under discussion.

It is the only plan that has been offered by engineers which does not call for and require the construction of from one to three long, unsightly trestles for the purpose of lifting strings of cars up over the dangerous grade crossings.

No other plan offers absolute assurance that elevated railway transportation—long since a back number—will not have to be resorted to in handling the local transportation problem.

The Plaza union terminal, as conceived by Engineer Richard Sachse, for the State Railroad Commission, after five years of intensive study, is the only plan thus far advanced whereby all three of the steam roads and the electric interurban system can be accommodated under one roof.

A union terminal built near the Plaza will fit in advantageously with the group of buildings which will shortly constitute the civic center of Los Angeles and which has already been located at the North End by popular vote.

A tremendous advantage in favor of a terminal at the Plaza is the fact that the site is not held at a prohibitive price. According to appraisers who have discussed the matter during the present hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission the land in that vicinity is cheaper today than it was in 1920.

Another strong point in favor of the site is that of the sixty-odd acres needed for the terminal and its surroundings much of the area is now used for various railroad activities and can be rededicated to terminal usages.

A DIPLOMATIC CLIMAX

Seldom in time of peace has there been an event awaited with so tense expectancy in the diplomatic circles of the world as the promulgation in the British Parliament today of the policy of Great Britain in relation to reparations and the French occupation of the Ruhr.

It is like sitting in a theater awaiting the denouement of a powerful, thrilling tragedy. For six months international affairs have been moving like the scenes of a play under the pen of a master to the climax that is the power and the glory of the dramatic art. Despite pressure from within and without, the British government has waited. Now the diplomats of all countries are on the tiptoe of expectancy.

Those who have followed events since the French crossed the Rhine are aware that the crisis has arrived. Today we shall know whether England aligns itself on the side of France or turns with a friendly gesture to Germany.

Premier Baldwin and his government will stand or fall, not by what the Premier says today, but by the success or failure of the policy upon which they will announce. Poincare and Cuno are in a similar position; for there are a dozen nations in Europe waiting to follow the English lead.

If England turns its back upon France that country will be left in a position of practical isolation, supported in Europe only by the good will of the Little Entente. But, if the British government continues to give to France its moral support and announces in plain terms that it has no sympathy with the German policy of passive resistance, then the Cuno government will fall and Germany, deserted by the rest of Europe, will be forced to make a new agreement with France on the terms that France proposes.

Enough is already known to indicate that there will be no indorsement of the French policy of holding the Ruhr as a hostage until Germany pays the last mark of the indemnity that France demands. Pressed by the opposition a week ago, Premier Baldwin said that the government contemplated making no statement that would indorse the French policy. But the burning question is how far the British government will go in its repudiation.

According to Wednesday's cables, the British Premier will state plainly that, in the opinion of his government, a continuation of the present French policy will mean the economic ruin of Europe. But what substitute policy has England to offer? That is the rub. Germany is a delinquent debtor. Her attitude during the last two years indicates that she has no intention of paying, that force alone can bring her to terms. France is determined that Germany must pay or starve; and hunger is in itself a forceful argument.

If the London correspondents have guessed rightly, the Premier will propose an international economic conference, in which he hopes our own country will consent to take part. At that conference an attempt will be made to arrive at a just conclusion concerning how much Germany is able to pay and the time she should be permitted to take to discharge her indebtedness.

Repeatedly the French government has asserted that it will take part in no such conference, that it will permit no outside nation to interfere between her and her beaten enemy. If France rejects this proposal the last thread of the Franco-British Entente will be severed. And what will follow? A week ago the announcement came unofficially from Paris that the answer to a British call for an international conference will be the immediate movement of the French armies toward Berlin.

The French are a proud and valiant people; and they are in no mood to accept dictation from any other government or association of governments. They prefer severing a Gordian knot with the sword to laboriously seeking to untangle it.

But the French government has given recent evidence that it does not relish the British idea of leaving the country isolated from the rest of the world. In The Times on Tuesday appeared an important interview with Premier Poincare. He stated that France recognized her indebtedness to America, that there was no intent of repudiation or setting up claims which would materially diminish the amount. He said France has the will to pay in full, has never had any other intention and that lack of means alone prevents the immediate discharge of the obligation.

But he also said that France must be paid by those who are indebted to her before she can discharge her obligations. When Germany pays, France will pay; that is the tenor of the Premier's statement. The French Premier asserted that there is no intent on the part of France to annex any part of what is now German territory. She is on German soil as a creditor who has taken possession until his debtor fulfills his promises. When that is done the French will withdraw.

This attitude is one with which few right-thinking people can find fault; and the announcement of this policy before the British Premier has spoken is an indication that he is aware of the tenor of the British pronunciamento and desires that the French attitude may not be misunderstood or misrepresented in this country.

There are crises in peace as important as those in war. Great battles are themselves results rather than causes. And one of these crises has now arrived in the history of Europe and the world.

THE MONROE CENTENNIAL

Since it opened its gates on the 2nd of July the Monroe Centennial Exposition has lived up to the high standard its promoters set themselves for combining instruction with entertainment. A birdseye view of the big colosseum and the crowded Spanish streets on the night of "the Fourth" was sufficient proof that the people of Los Angeles appreciated the efforts put forth in this enterprise typical of the Southland.

Its amusements have been provided on a comprehensive plan, both indoors and out-of-doors. The architecture is harmonious throughout, the buildings conforming strictly to the old Spanish-Moorish style. In the Rue de la Paix the colored fountain and the string and brass orchestras give to the bright circle an air of old romance.

Expressing the higher aspirations of the Hollywood film colony, the "Little Church Around the Corner" has proved an attraction, natural in a community that holds religious service in such high esteem. A liberal instruction in the making of films is another feature that marks the Monroe Centennial as different from expositions that have gone before. In fact, not to conform to preconceived notions was the aim of the sponsors of the Los Angeles exposition.

In all these respects they have succeeded admirably. Our Monroe Centennial has been unique. If on the home stretch it loses some of the classic flavor and adds to the composition a piquant soupcon of jazz pickles it is only because the modern spirit demands an infusion of modern delights.

Lincoln's famous dictum on "fooling the people" applies even more strongly to pleasing the people. Nothing is more difficult than pleasing some of the people all the time unless it be pleasing all the people some of the time.

So from this time forth till the closing of the gates visitors to the centennial will observe one great change in the scheme of amusements. A "Great White Way" is being added to razzle-dazzle that part of the public that has no intention of taking its pleasures too soberly. Next to the church will stand "the pitc"—the sword swallowers, the fat women, the living skeletons, the snake-charmers, the fortune-tellers, the missing links, etc., and as an additional drawing card a giant Ferris Wheel.

Some will regret the transformation in the original spirit that planned an exposition to honor the father of the Monroe Doctrine and emphasize the friendship between the United States and Latin America. But a great many more will rejoice at finding on the grounds the kind of entertainment which the populace demands.

BURLESQUE RIVALRY

The crossfire satire by writers of the Los Angeles Times and the San Francisco Chronicle published daily this week in both papers has elicited much comment of different kinds. Many are amused. Some use it to show the trivial nature of the rivalry between the cities and a few are somewhat indignant. The Times writer is undoubtedly very unpopular in San Francisco just now and it may be that the Chronicle writer has wounded the feelings of some Angelenos. However, the barbs are harmless and should not be taken too seriously. This is especially true of the grotesque assertions concerning Los Angeles realtors. That subject would naturally be emphasized by a San Franciscan because the success and high standards of local realtors constitute a tender point with any rival of Los Angeles. Perhaps the spectacle of the two cities making faces at each other, as it were, through these satirical and humorous articles may lead to better feeling on the part of level-headed citizens of both cities.

AFFECTING THE EYES

The president of the American Optometrists' Association says that modern moving pictures are not hard on the eyes. We'll say that it depends on the picture. Some of the films they have been putting across are rather trying to the vision.

RIPPLING RHYMES

GREEN OLD AGE

I've noticed that the sickly men, who of their ailments screech, live very long—four score and ten the mark they often reach. I used to say of Gaffer Jones, who lived next door but one, "The sexton soon will plant his bones, his course is nearly run. He harbors every known disease, he's shriveled up and frail, and he has spavins on his knees and pills do not avail. He's cornered all the standard ills, from Bright's dis-ase to mumps, and he's so pale around the gills he soon must bump the bumps." And that was forty years ago, and many stalwart men, red-blooded gents I used to know, are sleeping in the glen. And I have seen the young depart, the gifted and the brave; oh, oft I've seen the black plumed cart bear comrades to the grave. And nearly all the friends are gone who walked the hills with me; but Gaffer Jones, he still hangs on, a ruin sad to see. He still complains of scanty breath, his lungs, he says, are sore; but I don't bank upon his death—he'll live forevermore. The young may perish in their bloom, the strong may find their biers, but Gaffer Jones will dodge the tomb for twice a hundred years. The wailing invalids endure and won't pay nature's debt; and such is life—there's nothing sure on which a man may bet.

WALT MASON.

HOW IT STARTED

"Every Man Has His Price"

If this cynical saying were true in the larger sense it would be a great reflection upon human nature. One hopes that it is not true. As a matter of fact, it is not against man in general that the words originated but merely as an indictment of a coterie of politicians at a certain period of British history.

It was Sir Robert Walpole, whose name stands out in history for his frank avowal of the necessity of parliamentary corruption, who was the author of the words. Walpole believed that "all is fair" in politics and that if the opposition would not give their votes these could and must be bought. Hence his famous remark, in referring to a group of his political opponents, "All those men have their price."

The expression came into popular usage where unfortunately the application has been extended so that its original use has been obliterated.

PEN POINTS

The Constitution follows the flag at least to the three-mile limit.

Another thing, religion is not a rabbit's foot to keep hard luck away. Some people have no higher regard for it.

It is the ultimate hope of every tragedian to play "Hamlet." Of every singer to render the "Mad Scene" from "Lucia."

On the western trip Mrs. Harding is again demonstrating the ability that crowned her efforts when she was giving music lessons back in Marion for the support of herself and son. She has been the right arm of her distinguished husband ever since their marriage more than thirty years ago. Then she assumed the direction of the Harding household and she has held the honor ever since. That she has been a success is demonstrated by the honors that have come to it. But for her urging he would have quit politics in disgust when he was defeated for Governor of Ohio. There is no braver or more clever woman, absolutely devoted to her husband and his career.

THIS IS THE DAY

In the year 1812, as part of the campaign in the war against Great Britain, Gen. William Hull, commanding an American army, started the invasion of Canada at Sandwich, near Detroit. The expedition was a failure.

WHEN AMERICA WENT TO JAPAN

BY JENNIE VAN ALLEN

"Seventy years ago (July 23, 1853,) America opened the long-closed doors of Japan and since that time my country has loved your country," said Sadanori Motsumoto, a young Japanese student who is studying the language and customs of the United States.

"Our people have been glad to creep on their knees through your vast fields and sift the soil through their fingers to make it fine and fertile that it might bring forth abundantly. In Japan they worked in miniature because the islands are small and the inhabitants are many. But there they paint great landscape pictures in living green and their markets are like huge mosaics.

"Today America is heaven to the Japanese.

"But yesterday America knocked at the door of Japan.

"She wanted Japan for a coaling station.

"She wanted her carvings, her wonderful lacquered ware, her silks, her rice and tea.

"She wanted to open commercial relations between America and Japan. And we, like fools, refused. Our harbors were closed to the ships and the people of a great nation. The king and all his officials were against the innovation. Japan did not heed America and it was treason for the people to whisper the wish that Japan might sell our goods to Americans and buy their treasures.

"I heard all these stories from my Grandfather Matsumoto, who was in fortress of Shuri-jyo when our King and Commodore Perry shook hands on the compact that was signed that memorable day, July 28, 1853.

"He lived to a great age and was very familiar with the history and legends of old Japan, but of all the stories he told me when I was a little boy I thrilled most at the wonderful story of opening wide the doors of Japan to American trade.

"July is a month of jubilee to the Japanese because on July 8, 1853, Commodore Perry sailed into three of our harbors with four sailing vessels that looked to us as formidable as a fleet of warships.

"All over Japan the word was sent as fast as the runners could carry it:

"'Commodore Perry from America is in the harbor of Uraga. He has four ships like big white birds and he is talking to the big men of the city. He wants the American ships to stop in our harbors to unload American goods and reload his ships with the things we make and whatever we grow on the island of Japan. Oh, we hope the harbors of Japan will be opened to American vessels.

"The Japanese government officials were very polite, but said:

"'We cannot answer you now. Come again next year.'

"And because they refused to talk business Commodore Perry and his four ships sailed to Edo, now called Tokio. Again he pleaded with our government men and, though they bowed and bowed and their voices were as smooth as oil, they said:

"'Come again next year. We cannot answer you now.'

"Commodore Perry was a very disappointed man. He had been sent by the United States to open the ports of Japan to American trade and he did not think he was a good diplomat when the government officials in Uraga and Edo said with bland courtesy:

"'We cannot answer you. Come again next year.'

"But he was just as polite and said:

"'I will go to Shanghai, but I will come again.'

"And the people of Japan were disappointed and in every bamboo house men and women were sorry that it would be a whole year before they would know whether or not the ports of Japan would be open to American trade.

"Commodore Perry left Edo on July 17, but he had not gone far when he ran into a terrible storm with a hurricane wind that whipped the sea into mountain-high billows that roared like cannons. And because he was afraid his ships would be lost he steered for the harbor of Naha and landed at Hyukyu, now called Okinawa.

"He arrived on the 25th of July and went ashore to call on the government officials whose words dripped like honey from the honeycomb as they welcomed him.

"And because Commodore Perry was really a diplomat he said:

"'I have been at Uraga and Edo and found the representatives of the King very kind and I hope you, too, will be friendly.'

"'Oh, we are very friendly to the United States. Tell us what your great government wants of us.'

"'Well,' said Commodore Perry, 'we have three requests to make of the Japanese government. We want your King to permit the United States to build a warehouse large enough to hold 600 tons of coal and we will agree to pay you $10 a month rent for the land. Second, we want you to be friendly. We do not want to be watched, for we expect to deal honorably with you. Third, we want to buy from and to sell to Japan.'

"And the government men bowed low and said:

"'Only our King can give you an answer.'

"'Where is your King?'

"'He is in the fortress of Shuri-jyo.'

"'Is it far from here?'

"'Oh, no, the rickshaw men can take you there very quickly.'

"'Then I will go and call on your King this afternoon. I must open direct communications with your ruler because his representatives in three ports have not the power to speak for him.'

"The fastest runner in the city went to notify the King that Commodore Perry of the United States would call on him at 2 o'clock and when Commodore Perry arrived he found the King sitting on his throne waiting to receive him. Beside him was Secretary Itarasachi, who spoke English fluently, and around him were the officers of state, who graciously saluted Commodore Perry and his staff.

"Again Commodore Perry made his three requests to [illegible] Itarasachi, who translated them to the King, who replied through the interpreter:

"'I cannot answer you now. Come again next year.'

"This was the third time Commodore Perry had [illegible] and the blood went into his face and he said:

"'In a few days I will sail for Shanghai and will be gone for three months. When I return to Naha I want you to tell me whether or no Japan will open permanent commercial relations with the United States. That you will decide to do it is my last word to Japan and America.'

"And then his diplomacy [illegible] from him like a volcanic eruption and he said in a very harsh voice:

"'If you do not have a favorable answer for me my government will send American soldiers to attack your fortress and blow it to atoms.'

"The King was very much troubled as he said:

"'I am very sorry, but I cannot answer you today.'

"'Can you answer me tomorrow?'

"'Yes, I will give you my answer tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.'

"The next day there was a great gathering near the harbor of Naha, as all Japan wondered what the King's answer would be.

"The road from Kyukyu to the fortress of Shuri-jyo was [illegible] with people on their way to the meeting that was of such importance to Japan and the United States.

"Patiently a great [illegible] outside the big, square, [illegible] made of stone and heavy [illegible] They watched Commodore Perry and his staff go inside the [illegible] and saw the heavy doors close behind him.

"Again the King sat on his throne with his interpreter at his right hand and again Commodore Perry was graciously received by his men of state. Then the King and his secretary whispered together for a moment and then Secretary Itarasachi said:

"'Commodore Perry, the King welcomes you to Naha and will do what you have requested.'

"The King rose and put out his hand and grasped that of Commodore Perry and, as official representatives of two great nations, they ratified the compact between Japan and America.

"Commodore Perry's [illegible] ed the joy of his heart, [illegible] clear waters reflect the [illegible] strong voice had in it the ring of tears as he said:

"'This is a wonderful day in the history of Japan and the United States. A hundred years from now the people of both nations will remember the 28th day of July. Japan has opened her ports to the world's commerce and to the friendship she has shown herself to be a friend of all nations!'

"The reason that statement was obtained by the City Prosecutor," declared the prosecuter, "was that I did not want to bring Gaston Glass's name before the public in a case of this kind if there was no case against him.

"I said at that time that if the man did wrong, the case would go to a jury—and I took it to the jury despite the fact that everybody tried to keep me from it."

FEW WOMEN PRESENT

Women were conspicuously absent from the courtroom during the morning session. The prisoners' docket, the few creaking benches and the aisles and doorways to the courtroom were overcrowded, but the spectators were men—dapper chaps in extreme styles, old men who may have been custodians of the church collection boxes, haggard vagrants in stubble beards, Mexicans in overalls, negroes in flamboyant shirts, habitues of Pershing Square.

Only four women were present among the spectators. Two of them, modestly attired and wearing shell spectacles, were wedged in between two men in laborers' clothes. They resembled schoolteachers. Two sweet young things elbowed into the courtroom. They wore white turbans, brilliantly colored sandals and chewed gum vociferously. One leaned against a negro with burnished lies. The other peeped at the witnesses over the padded shoulder of a youth with waxed moustache and marceled hair.

Across the narrow court that separated the courtroom from the prison tanks was wafted the prison stench, mingling with the odor of cheap perfumes and hair tonic.

Judge Frederickson leaned far back in his swivel chair. From behind a high barricade of law books Glass's attorneys were attempting to batter down the prosecution's case against the motion-picture star with a barrage of objections. The objections were frequently interrupted by Judge Frederickson's declaration that he would clear the courtroom if the giggling and laughing did not cease.

TESTIMONY ASSAILED

Police Sergeant Nelson repeated the story of the asserted "wild party" as it had been told on the previous day by Officers Freeman and Hawes.

A written statement, signed by Officer Freeman and which had precipitated a lengthy argument on Tuesday was introduced and read by Attorney Cohen. The defense contended it contained statements by Freeman in variance with his testimony on the witness stand. With it the defense sought to impeach Officer Freeman's testimony.

With the testimony of the three officers Deputy City Prosecutor Krowl closed his case.

Mrs. Helen McCloskey, former Follies girl, and custodian of the raided house, was the first witness called by Glass's attorneys. She denied almost everything the officers had testified to. She denied it was a wild party, denied she had used the language she was accused of. She denied she had uttered any statement against Americans.

"Why should I?" she retorted. "My brother was an American soldier. My husband was an American. Why should I talk about my relatives?"

The gaudy blue and gold curtains from her bedroom were introduced. Through them, the defense contended, the officers could not have seen what they said they saw. Mrs. McCloskey said they completely covered the window at all times, that no eye could penetrate them.

GLASS DENIES CHARGES

"I always kept them closed," said Mrs. McCloskey. "I am alone most of the time and I am a very nervous woman."

"Oh, you are, are you?" asked Prosecutor McCloskey.

Mr. Gasnier, twirling his straw hat and with tilted chin, also denied the accusations of the officers.

He said he had gone to Mrs. McCloskey's home to rent the house, that he was invited to dinner and accepted the invitation. He closed the deal of renting the house, he said, and returned later—shortly before the raid.

"To pay more rent, I suppose," said the prosecutor. And the jury laughed.

Glass, his head bowed and with closed eyes, made a few admissions but denied the bulk of the accusations. He said he and Alma Rhoades were sweethearts, and had been for six months. He denied he had partaken of liquor. He drank nothing but ginger ale, he said.

"You have heard the text of the language which the officers testified you used. Did you make those remarks?" he was asked.

Glass whirled toward the jury. His face flushed. Dramatically and vigorously he shook his head.

"I most certainly did not! I don't use such language."

HONORS FOR RADIO HEROES

Operators of Liner City of Honolulu Will Receive Medals and Money from Mayor Cryer Today

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the Los Angeles City Hall will be the scene of the final act in the great drama of the sea which last October thrilled the world as the newspapers printed pages made possible by uninterrupted wireless communication with the scene itself and the burning steamship City of Honolulu.

Chief Wireless Operator W. P. Bell, Second Operator H. D. Hancock and Third Operator N. C. Kumler, all of whom were in the service of the Radio Corporation of America on board the City of Honolulu, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, with Pacific Coast Manager A. A. Isbell, of the Radio Corporation. This is the first time since the great rescue that it has been possible to have these three heroes together in the steamship's home port since last October.

At the hour mentioned Mayor Cryer, acting as the official spokesman for the city and for Southern California, will receive the three radio operators in his office at the City Hall and will present to each of them a check for $500 and a gold medal for distinguished service, specially designed by Tiffany, which were voted them by the board of directors of the Radio Corporation of America.

Officials of the State, county, city and harbor and of the Los Angeles Steamship Company will be present as the Mayor voices the appreciation of the world of the achievements of radio in safeguarding ocean travel, and of the loyal heroism of the three operators who had the honor and glory of one of the greatest radio or wireless achievements up to the present time.

The Radio Corporation of America leads the world in the development of wireless and radio. It has stations in Europe, Asia, South and Central America and maintains land and marine service on a plane far in advance of any other country both by 'graph and 'phone.

Its Los Angeles marine station is at the Catalina Terminal in Wilmington, while its Pacific Coast headquarters are maintained in San Francisco for the Great West and trans-Pacific communication. Laboratories for development and factories for production of radio equipment are maintained at several industrial centers in the East.

The presentation of medals and money by Mayor Cryer today, according to Manager Isbell, are in the first place designed as evidence of heartfelt appreciation of distinguished service and loyalty to duty; but he says it will also serve to call attention to America's dominant position in radio development and still further to the fact that by means of this American development, sea travel has been shorn of all its former hazards, making it safer to travel by water than to walk the streets of any of our cities, as shown by the records of motor casualties.

UNIVERSITY ALUMNI WILL MEET FOR DRIVE

PLANS FOR GREAT ENDOWMENT CAMPAIGN TO BE MADE TOMORROW NIGHT

A call to 1000 members of the alumni of the University of Southern California was issued yesterday to attend a meeting to be held tomorrow night in the Pacific Mutual Building. Plans will be outlined for the participation of the alumni in the solicitation for the $10,000,000 development and endowment campaign of the university.

The alumni body will take entire charge of the interviewing of the selected list of persons, who will be asked to aid the university.

At the meeting tomorrow night, members of the endowment department, who have been doing the preliminary work of the campaign, will outline the task to be accomplished, and President Von KleinSmid will speak of the problems which the alumni will face.

Organization will be completed at the meeting, and the men will be divided into teams. Members of the business men's committee will assist the alumni as advisors.

COURTS TO MOVE INTO NEW ROOMS

Transfer of Tribunals is Made Necessary by Added Departments

A rearrangement of the Superior Courts has been agreed upon tentatively, it was announced yesterday, and it is expected that at the next meeting of the Superior Court judges definite action will be taken.

It is proposed to transfer all courts handling civil cases to the old Courthouse Building. In order to find room for all the departments it is proposed to move the justice courts, at present located on the ground floor of the old Courthouse, to the Alhambra Hotel Building, which was recently purchased by the county. The rearrangement is made necessary by the six new departments which will go into operation as soon as Gov. Richardson appoints the judges.

The plans also entail the remodeling of the room now occupied by the Registrar of Voters into a courtroom. Department Eight, the Juvenile Court, will be the only exception to the plan for moving all the courts into the old Courthouse. This will remain on the tenth floor of the Hall of Records.

Asserted Liquor Parties Lead to Suit for Divorce

Home, to her husband, was a place to give parties that were "continuous rounds of drinking, cardplaying and crap shooting," Mrs. Helen C. Thorney asserted in a divorced filed yesterday against her husband, Robert T. Thorney, a film man.

Despite her objections, her husband continued to invite his studio friends to these parties, the wife declared, which, she says, caused her great embarrassment and humiliation.

Acts committed by Thorney when he was under the influence of liquor were also recited in the complaint. Last June, Mrs. Thorney declared that her husband drove her out of their home clad only in her night clothes, and kept her in the yard for an hour.

Last January when some friends were invited to go to the theater at her husband's request, she states that Thorney came home intoxicated and threw himself on the floor, refusing to go to the theater or to get up. Friends were called in to help him to his feet, she asserts.

Mrs. Thorney also declared that she was caused great embarrassment by being forced to face her husband's creditors and to make statements that were not true when they annoyed here.

AGED WOMAN IS BADLY HURT BY AUTOMOBILE

Mrs. Carrie Fox, 67 years of age, 2071½ South Berendo street, while crossing the street last night at First street and Western avenue, was struck by an automobile driven by James B. Wallace, 6369 Hollywood Boulevard. She was taken to the receiving hospital suffering severe concussion, scalp wounds and bruises, by Battalion Fire Chief Walker. The Hollywood police are investigating the cause of the accident.

CONCERT THRILL TOLD BY LEADER

Lifetime Experience, Says Oberhoffer

Hopes for Summer Season Revealed

Guest of Bowl Association at Luncheon

BY MYRA NYE

"To play into a great silence to a multitude of people hidden in silence away in the hills of Hollywood—ah, how does it feel to do that? To lead a great orchestra? It will take a long time to discover my exact reaction, but to tell in a word—that is different. Any musician would be thrilled. It was an experience of a lifetime."

Emil Oberhoffer, celebrated conductor who is directing the summer concerts in Hollywood Bowl, replied quickly and vivaciously to the question of Mrs. J. J. Carter, the Bowl enthusiast, and incidentally the secretary of the Bowl association. She presided yesterday at a luncheon at the Men's University Club, given by the association for a group of newspaper men and women.

ENTHUSES HEARERS

"How does it feel to play for the first time under the stars, the wonderful stars, in our wonderful Bowl?" Mrs. Carter had given the conductor his after-dinner subject at length, and finished with a question mark. As everyone who knows her knows, her favorite adjective is wonderful, and somehow she has the magic of enthusiasm to make even newspaper people feel that the greater number of things she calls wonderful are wonderful, indeed. So again yesterday the Bowl concerts were blessed with wonder.

The great conductor told of some of his hopes for the summer, how he wanted particularly to bring American music to the American people and then to inspire musicians and originators of music to compose more American music.

SOURCE OF MUSIC

"Some there are," he said, "who say our music must spring from the southern negro folklore. Others think that the Indian must be the basis for American music. I do not think they are right. Our music must be Anglo-Saxon, based on the general culture of all the people of America. I hope to lead in American compositions, over and over again in your 'wonderful Bowl,'" and he smiled at Mrs. Carter.

"The grandmother of Hollywood," Mrs. E. B. Wakeman, who started out a fortnight ago to sell one book of tickets for the Bowl concerts and has sold 130, the greatest number of anyone, told of her love for the Bowl, for Hollywood and for Mrs. Carter in her sweet quavering voice. A year ago Mrs. Wakeman, on her eighty-seventh birthday, gave a partty to her friends. She called it her "going-away" party. When someone asked her where she was going she answered blithly:

STILL WITH US

"I don't know yet whether it is to heaven or" and she pointed with her cane to the ground. "But I want all my friends to be with me once more before I die and my funeral don't count." And yet she has been able to postpone her going. Perhaps the Bowl concerts and her interest have helped her in the happy postponement.

Mrs. Oberhoffer was another one of the distinguished guests who responded to Mrs. Carter's introduction. John Daggett, who was her luncheon partner told how next Sunday it will be her twenty-fifth wedding anniversary which she will spend in the Bowl. She came to Los Angeles on her honeymoon.

"Perhaps you would have been happy always if you had remained here," said Uncle John.

"I don't see how I could be any happier than I am," was the reply.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Among others who spoke were: Othaman Stevens, George G. Young, Alma Whitaker, Edwin R. Collins, Lannie Haynes Martin, Florence Pierce Reed, Caroline Walker, Frank F. Barnham, Francis Kendig and Edwin Schallert.

Mrs. Carter announced for the first time the children's day concert for next Wednesday in the Bowl. Forty thousand tickets have been sold to children and their mothers with Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, superintendent of schools as chairman of arrangements. The Consul from Argentine is in charge of the foreign children who will attend. Mrs. Carter made an appeal for the provision of free and safe transportation for the children.

Luncheon for Ida May Adams

As an expression of recognition to Ida May Adams, woman attorney, for her courage and self-confidence in carrying to the Appellate court the matter of habeas corpus, to secure a private conference with prison clients in the County Jail a luncheon has been arranged for today at the Hotel Clark at 12:30, by representative club women who desire to establish a precedent in encouraging such self-confidence in women.

The toastmistress is to be Mrs. Mary Avery Scherfee, and the speakers whom she will introduce are Judge Gavin Craig, Judge Russ Avery, Asa Keyes, Mrs. Amelia F. Johnson on Law Constitutionality, and Mrs. Mabel L. Chilburg on Indian Welfare Activities in Washington, and Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, Jr.

In My Garden

By Josef A. Currey

If you have a flagpole in your garden I have a suggestion to make for a summer planting about it, something I saw last year that appealed to me as quite striking. Of course, a favored planting about the base of a flag pole is cannas, but the planting that appealed to me was a joint spring and summer planting. In the bed about the base of the flagpole in the early spring were Darwin tulips of the Pride of Harlem variety, giving a rich deep red tone, and the two outer rows of the bed were in the Picotee type. Just as the tulips were passing, house-grown plants of kochia or sumer cypress were planted along the outer edge and there the bed was edged with lobelia. In a few weeks the kochia had developed sufficiently to hide the dying tops of the tulips and the lobelia was coming into bloom. As the summer advanced the kochia took on its deep rich tints and made a most striking foundation for the flagpole. There is one advantage in this kind of a planting and that is that the tulips do not have to be stored over the summer, the owner permitting them to stay in their bed for three years before taking them up.

July is a good month in which to plan for your next season's garden, as there are many things which can be sown now in the way of perennials that they should receive attention. If seed sown now is carried through you will find that by fall you will have plants of sufficient size to plant into their permanent places. Among these are such things as columbines, delphiniums, Sweet Williams, Canterbury bells, heucheras, lupins and a whole host of other things. In planting seed be careful of the sun, for the seed bed should be well shaded until germination takes place. A friend of mine, a most experienced amateur, uses for propagating these perennials one of his cold frames, which has just been emptied, for with it he can better regulate the shade and the ventilation.

EDUCATORS DEPART ON TRIP HOME

Delegates to Convention Leave for Los Angeles Visit

After having spent two weeks visiting in Los Angeles, the eastern delegates to the National Educational Association convention in San Francisco, which closed Saturday, left in a special car over the Union Pacific at 4 p. m. yesterday for the East via Lake and Denver.

The train carried a number of the country's most noted educators, all of whom were loud in their praise of the way they had been welcomed in California and of the brand of sunshine which we hand out here.

The teachers expressed the opinion that the convention just closed will prove the most important in the history of the association, the richest in accomplishment, partly to the fact that its sessions were in part conducted jointly with the World's Conference on Education. Plans were laid at these meetings to combat illiteracy throughout the entire world, definite steps were taken to further world peace.

The N. E. A. also took definite steps looking toward the Americanization and upbuilding of the public schools. Two million pupils are shown, moved from the congested districts into the cities to the United States last year, and the principal cause of this migration is said to be the lack of educational advantages in country schools.

Los Angeles educators who attended the convention were Miss Susan M. Dorsey, assistant superintendent of city schools; Harry M. Gaylord, assistant superintendent of schools; Miss Ida C. Jones, president of the Los Angeles City Teachers' Association; Lyman Thurston, executive secretary of the California Teachers' Association, Southern section, and members of the local women's clubs.

Among others in attendance from nearby towns and cities were Walter B. Crane, principal of the Ramona School; Paul L. Boynton, art, superintendent of the Santa Barbara schools; J. F. Thomas, of the Pasadena schools, and Miss Clifton, principal of the Hollywood schools.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Keeps Them From Boiling

A cup of water in the pan will make roasts, cakes and puddings bake more evenly.

Will Bake Better

When adding cooked meat to cookie batter, add them with the butter, egg and sugar instead of adding the flour.

Stewed Rhubarb

A pinch of salt added to stewed rhubarb when nearly done will neutralize the acidity of the fruit, so less sugar is necessary.

For Scrubbing Floors

Cold water is better than warm for scrubbing floors, as it makes them dry quickly and not curl up at the boards, causing them to warp.

A Seasonable Dish

Left-over rice and macaroni are just the things to use for croquettes and save you buying something extra for the next day's table.

Inside the Bureau Drawer

Tiny little scrapbooks may be fastened to the side of the bureau drawer with thumbtacks and will hold hair nets, ribbons, etc.

The Amateur Seamstress

The person who is not very handy with the paint brush can make most attractive clothes dinieres by painting the plain stone jugs a bright color and adding decorative designs in black.

That Sandy Spinach

Did you ever wash spinach in cold water instead of colander? Then put it in cold water until time for cooking and lift up and down as you would wash spinach then will be free from sand.

For Those Who Bake

When baking a cake, add the baking powder last.

A tablespoonful of flour measured after sifting.

Different macaroni will add variety to the same meal.

Garnish cold meat with alternate stripes of red and green jelly.

Never add raisins to cake dough, bread or the flavor of the fruit will be entirely wasted.

Rub rusted spring with a little vaseline to prevent rust and keep the rest of the wheels clean.

Children's Rubbers

When buying children's rubbers it is economy to buy the best, as alike. Then the child will wear out first one pair of rubbers and the remaining pair will be as good as to the best advantage.

Walking Shoes

If you are fond of walking you will find the shoes you use for that purpose will last longer if the soles are dipped in boiling water every few weeks. This will make them waterproof.

Haven't You Said It?

So often when we hear a woman say, "It is a shame to throw away this pretty guest towel, but I have no one to whom this belongs to send it," we think that the family when entertaining greatly prefer paper napkins and towels provided for the occasion.

The wise housewife, when preparing cups, one for liquid and one for dry ingredients, will save much time and labor in measuring.

The Woman and Her Job

by Valerie Watrous

[Questions of general interest bearing on the vocational training of women and their employment problems will be answered by Mrs. Watrous in this column if addressed to her in care of The Times.]

"THE TWO-JOB GIRL"

Magazine writers are having much to say about "the two-job girl" as though she were a new creature evolved from postwar conditions.

Since when has the business girl not been a "two-job"—or in reality a three-or-four-job woman? Nor does this apply to the girl in the commercial world only. Her mother, and each of her feminine forbears since the dawn of civilization, has held down the job of wife, mother, cook, laundress, seamstress, milliner, yes, and in time of stress, doctor and nurse.

When this mistress-of-trades transferred her activities from the sheltering walls of home to the bleak canyons of brick and concrete downtown it was hardly to be expected she would abandon at once everything except the particular occupation in which the law says she may not be engaged for more than eight hours per day.

Because of this persistent functioning on other planes—higher or lower, according to the individual viewpoint—her name is anathema to mistresses of boarding-houses and managers of hotels. Scheme as they might, she always succeeded in outwitting them and would turn her room into a miniature hand laundry between sunset and sunrise. This meant electricity used to heat water and irons, and no sooner was one rebel reduced to a state of fear and trembling by an irate landlady than another would begin operations on some other floor.

There is only one choice possible when confronted by two evils. And this was made by the hotel managers. They have "compromised" with the eternal feminine by ignoring her nocturnal activities as a laundress, or have installed a washtub and ironing board in some obscure corner on the top floor, or in the basement. In many of the best hotels a service folder is delivered to each new arrival. Among other things it states that "a pressing board and electric iron will be furnished on request."

In one of our big house-furnishing stores there is employed an assistant buyer whose sartorial perfection has caused much comment. There be those who wonder "how she does it on her salary"—even though it be that of an assistant buyer.

Many of her evenings, and at least part of each Sunday, are given to the fashioning of costumes such as the exclusive Seventh-street shop would label, "latest importation from France." Through her wide acquaintance in the wholesale world she is able to buy materials from the jobbers, and her entire wardrobe represents but a small outlay.

This following of the old cycle of activities belonging to the home is inherent in the majority of women. The girl who does not express herself in some creative way—remaking her hats, constructing new ones from scraps of silk or ribbon, knitting sweaters, or perhaps spending her Sundays preparing delectable dinners to which she invites her friends, is unusual. Nor is this always because she is the daughter of necessity. Many women who earn big salaries still find time to perform the simple homely tasks that once rounded out the woman's day.

The "two-job girl" is really as old as Mother Eve. She is new only in so far as she now takes unto herself a husband—and thereby complicates the situation a little—not much.

But whether she does this, or confines her activities to being a seamstress, milliner and laundress by night, and a business woman by day, she is borrowing from her left hand to fill her right. No girl can give the best of herself to her job after she has labored far into the night with the skirt that "just won't hang right."

When the day's work is done, Miss Business Girl owes it to herself to seek diversion and recreation. Mopping the linoleum in the bath room and kitchen and putting the "wash to soak," or giving the living-room a thorough cleaning long needed, and making and hanging the news drapes, can hardly be called recreation. Nor does it mean the highest point of efficiency in meeting the business problems with which she will be confronted on the morrow.

Of course, there will rise a chorus of protests to this.

"But I LIKE to wash my own things and fix my hats myself," she insists.

This may be true, but the fact remains that employers list these homely virtues as among the seven deadly sins of the woman employee.

CHILDREN WILL TEACH PARENTS

Putting into practice what for years has been preached—the value of cleanliness—and reaching the parent through the example of the child, is the object of a modern health crusade, explanatory meetings for which are to be held at the University of California, Southern Branch, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Charles M. DeForest of New York, modern health crusader executive of the National Tuberculosis Association, and his assistant, Miss Theresa Dansdill, will conduct the meetings which have been arranged under the supervision of Dr. B. M. Woods, dean of the summer sessions of the university.

Teachers at the university and from all the public schools, trained and student nurses from the various hospitals, members of Parent-Teachers' associations and the public generally have been invited to attend the three sessions which are to be held Friday and Saturday mornings, starting at 9:30 o'clock, and Friday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock.

The sessions which will be held in Room No. 101, Science Hall of the university, 855 North Vermont avenue, form the conclusion of the tuberculosis institute for tuberculosis workers which has been holding forth at the university since June 27.

BE CAREFUL, MADAM

You who use Palmolive Soap have a serious purpose.

You quit common soaps because you wanted fine complexions, youthful skin. Now common soaps are made to imitate Palmolive, so that buyers will think that they get it.

Be careful. If you want Palmolive, look out for deceptions. Palmolive has become, by its clear results, the leading toilet soap of the world.

One user told another—the others told others. Thus millions of beauty lovers came to adopt this soap.

Not merely because of olive oil or palm oil. But because our experts gave those oils efficiency they never had before.

Now very cheap soaps are colored green and made in Palmolive shape. They are given like-sounding names.

Thus, careless people think they get Palmolive when they don't. Then complexions suffer. The desired results are lacking. And folks blame Palmolive for it.

Palmolive is based on an ideal blend of palm and olive oils. It has been perfected by many years of scientific study. The skin effects are unique. They have never been attained from any oils before.

It is a quality soap—a 25-cent quality. But enormous production enables a 10-cent price.

If you want those virtues—and you do—the only way to get them is in real Palmolive Soap.

The way to get it is to watch the name and wrapper. Otherwise, you may get a soap which brings no like results.

CALLS WITNESS IN SONTAG CASE

Lawyer Summons Man in Reported Settlement

Is Seeking to Collect His Fee of $2750

Court to Decide Final Fight Over Noted Will

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, July 11.—Another chapter in the famous Hugo Sontag will case opened today by the serving of a summons on William Jennings, 1824 North Second avenue, to appear in a suit instituted by Archie D. Mitchell, Ontario attorney. Mitchell asks for $2750, asserted to be due for services in the settlement of the case in which Mr. Jennings is reported to have received $5500 of the Sontag estate.

At the time of the death of Hugo Sontag, known as the hermit of Cucamonga Canyon, a will made some years ago in favor of Richard Sontag, a nephew, in which the entire estate valued at more than $20,000 was left to the relative, could not be found, but Mr. Jennings, who had befriended the aged man in his last hours, filed for probate a death-bed will leaving the entire estate to him.

Richard Sontag at once announced that he would contest the death-bed will of his uncle. While he was proceeding with his plans for so doing, the earlier will was located in Portland, Or., by the daughter of an attorney, since dead, who had made it out for the recluse.

When the nephew agreed to pay Jennings $5500, it is said that in order to avoid bringing other of his uncle's relatives into the case, the man who had befriended the elder Sontag during his last days agreed out of court to drop the case and withdrew the will he had filed. It will now be up to the Superior Court, it is said, to determine whether or not Attorney Mitchell is entitled to his fee of $2750.

Pomona Plans to Convert Idle Land Into Park

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, July 11.—If the plans of I. H. Manning, local hotel-owner, presented before the City Council today, go through, the space between the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific Railroad tracks here will be converted from bare ground to a beautiful park extending through the heart of the city for a distance of one mile.

It is planned to curb the distance from Park avenue on the west to Towne avenue on the east, and convert the entire space into a park with wide gravel walks, trees, flowers, spacious lawns and other greenery.

Mr. Manning had previously taken up the matter with the two railroads. The Union Pacific accepted the suggestion, while the Southern Pacific has taken the matter under advisement.

REFUSES TO RESPOND TO FIRE CALLS

Pasadena Will Keep Its Apparatus at Home Despite Outside Appeals

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, July 11.—Pasadena fire apparatus will not respond to calls outside the city limits in spite of City Manager Koiner's order to Fire Chief Coop that all calls would be answered, it was learned today following a meeting of the city directors. The refusal last week of the department to answer a call when an Altadena home was burning brought forth the City Manager's order.

Today when the matter was presented to the city directors by the City Manager, the order was refuted. The city directors declare that because the fire apparatus is maintained solely at the expense of Pasadena it would be unfair to the people who pay for this equipment if it were sent to outside territory.

At the time of the Altadena fire, during which time a home was destroyed, considerable criticism fell upon the fire department that disregarded the appeals for help. The fire chief contended that it would jeopardize the city of Pasadena to send the apparatus away. The city manager declared some arrangement for compensation by the outlying territories would be made and for him to answer all calls in the future. The city directors adopted the new policy upon hearing the facts of the case.

Compton Asks Espee Company to Curb Noises

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

COMPTON, July 11.—In the old times, when Compton was a sleepy village, and that was only two years ago, the Southern Pacific Railway did not make much noise when passing through the town.

Now from sixteen to forty-three full carloads of merchandise are received here daily, and the switching causes the locomotives to whistle so frequently and loudly that at the regular meeting of the Business Men's Association yesterday the secretary was ordered to request the railway to place mufflers on the whistles and endeavor to run their trains with less noise.

New City Laws Hit Builders at South Pasadena

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SOUTH PASADENA, July 11.—South Pasadena's recent boom of building permits for bungalow courts and apartments came to an abrupt stop today when the new zoning ordinance went into effect.

Building permits for private residences maintained a good figure, but income property was in the minority. This is due to the fact that during the past few weeks builders have been hurrying their plans for places in districts which are now restricted.

The ordinance places restrictions in sections which previously lacked them.

HONOR VISALIA IN NATIONAL SHOW

Girl and Artist Win Wide Acclaim

Marion Lee Pettit Posing for Citrus Poster

VISALIA, July 11.—To a Visalia artist and a Visalia maiden goes the honor of central picture of the California exhibit at the International Photographic Association convention, which opens in Washington, D. C., the 16th inst. and continues until the 21st inst.

Mrs. Adnah Morrison is the artist and Miss Marian Lee Pettit, graduate of Visalia Union High School, is the maiden.

Miss Pettit posed before the camera of Mrs. Morrison two years ago for a poster for the San Joaquin Valley Citrus Fair. It represents a beautiful young girl holding a basket of oranges, while in the background stretch the groves leading into the hills, with the snow-capped Sierras in the distance. It is thought that this will be the only colored photograph in the entire exhibition of thousands of the best specimens of work of professional photographers from all parts of the world.

Selection of this picture for the central figure of the California exhibit by the committee was made for its rare beauty and grace and the photographic skill and beautiful coloring. The original photograph has been sent to Washington for this purpose. It was formerly on display in the Visalia Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Mrs. Morrison also has six other photographs of prominent people entered in the State's collection at this convention. All of the California pictures are to be of the same size and framed alike.

Auto Club to Place Red Lights at All Dangerous Corners in Oxnard

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OXNARD, July 11.—Representatives of the Automobile Club of Southern California were in Oxnard today to see about erecting red-light flashers on dangerous corners.

The crossing at El Rio will have red lights instead of the green ones now there.

The intersection of Ocean View Road near Hueneme will be marked with a red flasher as it is a corner where many wrecks have occurred.

Another red light will be placed at the intersection of Vineyard avenue and the road from Saticoy to Del Norte. Numerous accidents have occurred at this junction.

Another corner where a flasher is to be placed is where the two highways intersect about a quarter of a mile north of Somis. There is a sharp turn at this point and many accidents have occurred there. These installations will require extra poles to carry the electric wires, but the Edison Company is anxious to assist the Auto Club in every way.

RANCHER DISCOVERS RATTLE SNAKES WILL NOT TAKE BITE AT HANDS THAT FREEZE THEM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WOODLAKE, July 11.—Warren E. Ragle, local rancher, recommends freezing rattle snakes to render them less dangerous.

Ragle had an experience with one of the reptiles a few days ago which still chills his spine. He left home at Woodlake in quest of ice. Before leaving he carried a blanket from the garage and placed it in the machine. At the ice plant in Woodlake the blanket was wrapped around about forty pounds of ice.

Arriving home, Ragle found a good big rattler, so cold he was almost harmless, cuddled close to the ice. He killed it and removed its five rattlers.

The snake was in the blanket all the time and Ragle is wondering how he escaped a deadly bite.

POLICEMAN RUNS AMUCK IN SAN DIEGO

Officer Said to Have Been Crazed by Moonshine Wrecks Hotel Room

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, July 11.—Crazed, it is said, from the effects of moonshine liquor, handcuffed and struggling with three brother officers, Patrolman Theodore Anderson of the Police Department was removed from a downtown hotel after wrecking his room and damaging the Ernsting jewelry store early this morning.

When policemen broke into Anderson's room it was found he had demolished the furniture and thrown it out of a window into the court. The radiator, torn from the floor, had been sent crashing through a skylight and into a plate glass show case in the Ernsting store.

Chief of Police Patrick said this afternoon that Anderson would be summarily discharged from the service.

Girl Shoplifter Suspects Held in Heavy Bonds

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, July 11.—A bond of $12,000 each was demanded by Acting-Police Judge Wheaton in the case of Patsy Neal, alias Dorothy Huston, and Isola Ray, alias Irene Wills, under arrest here charged with shoplifting. Three counts each have been returned against them. A number of costly gowns and furs identified by local merchants compose the evidence.

The young women were permitted to telephone to Los Angeles and San Francisco friends last night, and, in response, Atty. S. Harris of Los Angeles arrived this morning to undertake their defense. Because of this show of financial backing, the District Attorney asked that the bail in each case be placed at $12,000. The request was granted over the protest of the attorney who threatened to appeal from the order directly to the Superior Court. The Police Judge also set the date of the examination for the 13th inst., which the prisoners objected to as a foreboding of evil.

Officers say that Patsy Neal leaped from a detention-home window in an effort to escape last night, but was overtaken after an hour's chase.

OFF TO EUROPE

RUDY VALENTINO AND WIFE TO TAKE TRIP

By Grace Kingsley

Having completed his dancing tour, and having spent much eloquence in doing missionary work for Mineralava, Rodolph Valentino is back in New York with his wife, Natacha Rambova.

The sheik isn't going to spend any time cooling his talented heels at the Ritz, however, but is going to Europe, according to telegraphic word just received from him by his tried and trusted friend, Douglas Gerrard, motion-picture director.

"Both Rudy and his wife expect to sail abroad within a week or two," explained Gerrard, yesterday. "He will be gone several months, according to present plans. He will visit his parents in Italy, and may make a picture while abroad."

No, Mr. Gerrard didn't know what the picture would be, but some people are surmising that Rudy may yet play "Ben Hur," and it is known that F. J. Godsol is now abroad, and that he is arranging for the filming of some of the big features which Goldwyn is to make of the famous Lew Wallace story.

Buster Collier Likes Us

The stage is to see Willie Collier, Jr., no more if that promising youth has anything to say about it. He doesn't care a stage fiver for Broadway's bright lights and is going to stick to pictures. And just to prove it he is going to send for his mother to live with him in a nice bungalow which he has taken in Beverly Hills. Later, despite his tender years, he is going to rise to the dignity of a real householder and build a house in Beverly district.

Mae Murray Returns

Mae Murray and her director-husband, Robert Leonard, have returned from New York and are preparing to make their next pictures which may or may not be made at the Goldwyn Studios.

The name of Miss Murray's new starring vehicle is "Fashion Row"—yea, you pronounce it so as to rhyme with dough—and in it Miss Murray will wear more gorgeous raiment than ever.

Robert Leonard has purchased a building site in Beverly Hills, and he and Miss Murray are now absorbed in considering plans for their new home.

The pair had a nice trip west, they say, and they explained that inasmuch as they were near Shelby when the big Dempsey-Gibbons fight was pulled off, why they just stopped over and saw it.

Insect Dramas the Rage

We have all had the busy bee held up to us at one time or another as an example of industry—but it has remained for Sol Lesser to discover that the bee is not alone a low, commercial creature, but also an artist. In fact, he now has a bee star, and inasmuch as all the other creatures are having their innings, he doesn't see why his pet bee shouldn't have a chance.

Not to give anybody any chance to make any low jokes about Mr. Lesser's intending to sting anybody, I will at once announce that his bee does some very natural acting in an educational picture.

Through recent negotiations between Sol Lesser for the Principal Pictures Corporation and Louis H. Tolhurst, inventor of the first perfected apparatus and processes by which microscopic motion pictures can be satisfactorily made, a series of pictures revealing the amazing wonders of insect life, the fascinating revelations of insect development will be produced. Two series of these, one for regular theatrical distribution and one for nontheatrical or scientific and educational purposes, will be made.

The picture illustrating the life of the bee has been completed, edited, titled and is ready for the public.

But this is not all. Other pictures along the same lines, illustrating the virtues and faults to be found in the spider, the ant, the house-fly, the mosquito, grasshopper and beetle, will be made.

"No one," says Mr. Lesser, "unacquainted with the problems of light, optics and electricity can estimate the prodigious accomplishments of Mr. Tolhurst in throwing open to the world the wonders of microscopic life. It is the biggest single achievement in motion picture making, and I believe our series of pictures will do much to prove the amazingly vital influence on education that the screen is about to take.

"From some of the most notable of California scientists have come letters commending our work, and not a few celebrities in the sciences of biology and zoology have said that through the scientific revelation of Mr. Tolhurst's pictures, university students can learn in an hour more than they could learn in a week through the usual laboratory methods. But it is even more in the popular series that we are making sure that this educational influence will be felt, for we are able to bring these marvels to the whole world in such terms as can be as easily understood by a child as by a savant."

Arline Pretty's Escape

Arline Pretty narrowly escaped serious injury Monday evening. The car in which she and her sister, Polly Ferguson, were driving, up on Whitley Heights, went over a five-foot embankment, turning over. Miss Pretty was standing on the running board, preparatory to getting into the car, following an examination of the engine, when the machine started, the brakes not holding, and Miss Pretty was thrown several feet clear of the car. Both she and her sister miraculously escaped injury.

Little Mary Lost Birds

Mary Pickford has a hobby. That is, she had a hobby, but it—or they—flew away. Miss Pickford's hobby was canary birds. She received a present of a pair a few months ago, bought them a nice house, and they have been thriving and multiplying ever since. The cage is sometimes left by an open window at night.

The family had increased to eight, when alas, somebody left the cage-door open, and the whole eight had taken flight by the time Miss Pickford discovered her loss, the other morning.

Irving Cummings's Plans

Owing to the favor with which his story of New York's "Bohemian Life" has been received, Irving Cummings, producer of "Broken Hearts of Broadway," which was adapted to the screen from the stage play by James Kyrle MacCurdy, is considering the production of Jane Porter's "Thaddeus of Warsaw," that has its action laid in the slums of London and the palaces of the Polish capital.

BARBARA ADOPTS ITALIAN ORPHAN

Barbara La Marr, now enacting a leading role in "The Eternal City," in Rome, has just adopted an Italian waif, according to a cable from the star to her manager, Arthur Sawyer. The orphan, a little 5-year-old girl, is named Rosa Siccardi, and will accompany Miss La Marr when she sails for America next month. The actress recently adopted a little Texan boy, who is at present at her Hollywood home.

ABOUT TO START ON STAR SERIES

Billie Rhodes.

The first of Billie Rhodes's starring vehicles has been selected by Samuel V. Grand and will be produced and directed by Ben Wilson, work to start within a month or six weeks. It is an original story by Adam Hull Shirk, tentatively titled "Leave It to Gerry."

Miss Rhodes will play the part of a girl who has been brought up like a boy to a large extent and who is able to take care of himself in almost any circumstance. Mr. Wilson expresses entire satisfaction with the vehicle and declares that he will give it a splendid production.

PLAYDOM

NEW ANGLIN SHOW

ACTRESS WILL SOON PLAY RETURN ENGAGEMENT

By Edwin Schallert

The appearance of Margaret Anglin in a new play is one of the promised early events of the summer season in the footlights circle. Miss Anglin is at present in San Francisco, and is appearing in "A Woman of No Importance" and other productions. During her stay here she is to try out a new dramatic piece that will probably serve her next season if the reception is favorable.

Will Location Soon

A two months' absence on location is now in sight for Jack Pickford, when he starts filming his picture, "The Valley of the Wolf," and Marilynn Miller will be with him nearly all of that time, or at least until her eastern engagement in "Sally" demands her services. The Pickford company is to location at Boulder Creek.

The first shots on the feature will be made next Monday. The first interior sets are ready, and after a few days at the studio the company will leave.

The cast of the picture, which will be directed by George Hill, comprises to date Lucille Ricksen, Frank Leigh, Ralph Yearsley and Mammy Petters. There are more to be signed.

"Spring Magic" Resumes

Work on "Spring Magic," the picture which William De Mille is directing, has been resumed after a week of inactivity due to the fact that Charles de Roche broke his toe while playing in one of the scenes. For five days de Roche has been confined to his home under the care of doctors. It was thought at first that there might be only a delay of a day on account of his injury, but complications set in and the actor was forced to refrain from walking more than was absolutely necessary. The fracture occurred when de Roche made a difficult leap.

Arbuckle Through

Roscoe Arbuckle has announced definitely his intention of not endeavoring to return to screen acting. He said that he would continue, however, to work as a director until his contract expires the end of this year.

"I shall leave the pictures to those who assume to dictate that field," he is quoted as saying. "Results have proved that there is a demand for my comedy upon the stage."

It is said that $5000 a week has been guaranteed for an indefinite series of appearances by Arbuckle in a cabaret entertainment in the East, which was fully as much as he made during his hey-day in the films.

SECOND CONCERT TONIGHT

The second of the summer concerts at the Hollywood Bowl tonight will be the first program to feature a soloist. Alfred Mirovitch, pianist, will play Tschaikowsky's First Piano Concerto. Emil Oberhoffer, conductor, has chosen a well-rounded program for the second concert. The program will include:

March from Symphony No. 5, "Leonore" (Raff); Symphonic Poem, "The Moldau," (Smetana); Rondo d'Amour (Westerhout); Air de Ballet Herbert); and Overture "Carneval," Op. 92 (Dvorak.)

THIRD TERMINAL PLAN SUGGESTED

Official Proposes Site at Sixth and Main

Paul Shoup Would Build Elevated Tracks

Plaza Briefs Not to be Filed Till Fall

Paul Shoup, vice-president of the Southern Pacific Railway, testified yesterday before the Interstate Commerce Commission in the Plaza Terminal case, suggesting the Pacific Electric station at Sixth and Main streets, or a new station on its site, as a union passenger terminal. He pictured a network of inbound and outbound tracks of all the railroads extending from its easterly concourse to a point beyond Central avenue. These tracks would all be built upon a great elevated structure, the width of the space between Sixth and Seventh streets. This elevated terminal system would extend clear across to the east side of the river.

Passengers wishing to go to the Southern Pacific station would get off at a station shed 1700 feet south of the present Arcade station and walk over, or if they wished to go from the Arcade station to the Pacific Electric terminal they would walk the same distance and climb a flight of stairs thirty-five feet high to get onto the elevated trestle.

WOULD HAUL PASSENGERS

Mr. Shoup, upon cross-examination, admitted that 1700 feet was quite a distance for the average traveler to carry baggage in going from one of the proposed stations to the other, so he smilingly agreed that the companies, for both of which he is spokesman, would gladly transport them in conveyances.

The Shoup plan is somewhat similar to the one proposed by Mr. Shoup three years ago, before the State Railroad Commission. Speaking of his proposition yesterday, Mr. Shoup testified that it was a creation of his own mind, and had never received the approval of the Southern Pacific. He said that its cost has never been estimated. He is heartily in favor of the Arcade terminal plan, but asserted that, in his opinion, the Pacific Electric plan above described would be more desirable than the Plaza plan.

Harry Hawgood, well-known engineer, declared that elevated train facilities are old-fashioned and dangerous. He cited the recent fatal disaster on the Brooklyn elevated street railway system as one of the best reasons why an elevated terminal should be avoided.

"Some time or other most trains get off the track," said he, "and when they get off it is much safer to have them on the ground."

H. G. Weeks, transportation engineer of the State Railroad Commission, pointed out that the Shoup plan would call for the acquisition of a large number of coach tracks between Sixth and Seventh streets and the river, in an area where property values are exceedingly high, and that it would bring still greater traffic congestion into an already badly congested area.

In closing the hearing Commissioner Aitchison agreed with counsel that briefs in the Plaza case shall not be filed until after the United States Supreme Court decided in November whether or not the State Railroad Commission has jurisdiction in the Plaza Terminal case.

BROTHER CONTEST GLASSMAN'S WILL

Filing a contest in Probate Court yesterday on the ground that his brother's will, which left him nothing, was illegally executed, George Glassman asked that the will of Henry Glassman be set aside. The estate, which consisted of a drug store on East Seventh street and money in the bank, was divided equally among three sisters, Lena Shafer, Gertrude Glassman and Rosa Basto. The two brothers, George and Louis Glassman, were not mentioned. The will is being contested on the grounds that it was not signed by the decedent in the presence of the witnesses and witnesses did not sign the document at the request of the testator as required by law.

WOBBLIES CALL PROTEST STRIKE

of the I.W.W., the remainder having been weeded out during the previous strike. The ship men asserted that full preparations have been made to fill the places of these men as rapidly as they leave work.

Steamers coming into the harbor yesterday were affected by the action of I.W.W. members of the crew. Efforts to persuade crews of three British ships to join in the sympathetic strike were said to have met with some success. The steamer Steel Traveller, reaching this port yesterday from New York on its way around the world, turned over to harbor police two men said to be I.W.W. organizers.

Capt. R. V. Pillette of the Steel Traveller, reported that the two men, A. Lorrer, fireman, and C. Dessalenoes, Greek seaman, had attempted to organize the crew while at sea. He said that resolutions were passed that the crew would refuse to work while the ship stayed at Los Angeles Harbor, or to move cargo at this port.

Capt. Pillette put the two men under guard, charged them with mutiny on the high seas, and they were put in the harbor jail on charges of criminal syndicalism.

Leaders of the I.W.W. movement on the Pacific Coast were among those sentenced by Judge McCormick yesterday—Leo Stark and H. C. Duke. A heavy guard of police and deputy sheriffs prevented a demonstration in the courtroom. Without exception, the twenty-seven men who had been found guilty by the jury were offered probation by Judge McCormick on condition that they would quit the Wobbly organization, stop agitation and go to work, and without exception they refused. They demanded immediate sentence and were given one to fourteen years each.

The twenty-seven prisoners will be taken to San Quentin today by special request of Judge McCormick, who sent word to the Sheriff that they seemed anxious to start their prison sentences. The party will be in charge of Deputy Sheriffs David S. Larimer, Martin Aguirre and ten other deputies.

N. O. Gaard, convicted of grand larceny for the theft of an automobile, will make a twenty-eighth in the San Quentin delegation.

"We will organize the prison workers and spread the gospel of freedom within the prison walls," declared one of the prisoners, dramatically, when sentence was imposed upon him.

To each man in turn, Judge McCormick offered probation on condition that he get a job, drop connection with criminal organizations and cease redical propaganda. Every man declined his freedom on such conditions.

The courtroom was crowded with spectators as the long-drawn-out trial reached its conclusion yesterday. There was confusion enough in the courtroom, for each of the prisoners insisted on making a speech both before and after sentence and these were with difficulty cut short by the judge.

The jury reached its conclusion after about eight hours deliberation. It was locked up Tuesday night, receiving the case at 4 p.m., Tuesday, and reported its verdict soon after court convened yesterday morning.

Judge McCormick asked if the prisoners, who acted as their own counsel, desired to submit the customary motions for a new trial and said he would postpone sentence until such motions could be made and argued.

"I desire to move for a new trial but we want no delay," said C. J. Sullivan, one of the prisoners, who has been their principal spokesman.

"Shall I not fix a data for argument on the motion?" asked the judge.

"No, we will argue it immediately," said Sullivan.

"We have committed no crime. We have been guilty of no acts of violence. We have advocated no acts of violence. We have distributed literature, but we did not write the literature and are not responsible for the statements they contain."

Sullivan continued in this strain at considerable length, but Judge McCormick ruled that making a radical speech was not argument to the motion and told Sullivan to confine himself to the manner in which the trial had been conducted and the legal points at issue. At last he cut the speech short and denied the motion.

"Have you any reason why sentence should not be pronounced on you?" he asked.

"Many reasons," replied Sullivan and he began to repeat what he had said before.

The same performance was repeated with each of the defendants in turn. One of them declared that his ancestors had fought in the Revolution and the Civil War and that he himself had taken part in the Spanish-American and World wars.

"I have done nothing but express my opinion," he said. "If San Quentin is the reward I get I welcome it. I still consider myself a good American citizen."

To each prisoner Judge McCormick expressed his reluctance at giving him a prison sentence and offered probation contingent on a promise of good behavior.

The trial of the twenty-seven lasted twenty-eight court days, of which eight were taken up in the selection of a jury. It was considered that the trial proceeded with remarkable speed, considering the number of defendants.

The prisoners were: C. J. Sullivan, G. J. Terrell, H. C. Duke, Leo Stark, Ernest Erickson, J. C. Robertson, F. E. McClennegan, George Roeschlau, James LaLonde, Joseph Clohessy, John G. Hollis, J. J. Johnson, Pierre Jans, James P. Gordon, H. Cederheim, H. R. Hansen, Tom Lyons, Walter Kohre, Gunnera Lindsfors, John Pugh, William Minton, Joe Barela, Charles Jim Smith, J. B. Childs, T. C. Kleiberg, Francis Hart and Charles Andrews.

JAPANESE WINNER IN LAND CASE

Court Rules Oriental May Hold Real Estate for Other Than Commercial Uses

The right of a Japanese to hold land in California other than for expressly commercial purposes, was upheld in a decision handed down yesterday by Judge Hewitt of the Superior Court in the case of the State of California against T. Tagami and Raymond D. Sepulveda.

The land in question is located within a mile of Fort MacArthur.

The suit originated some time ago when the State, through the Attorney General, instituted proceedings to force Tagami to vacate the lease which he had obtained from Sepulveda and whose value was placed at approximately $20,000. The land is located at Point Firmin.

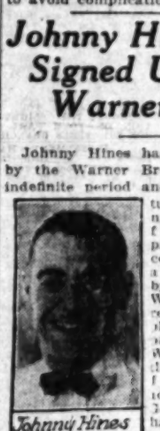
It was contended by the State that the lease violated not only the treaty entered into between Japan and the United States in 1911 in that the land was located too near a fortification, but that it also was in violation of the alien land law which provides that Japanese cannot hold or lease land other than for commercial purposes.

A demurrer to the State's complaint was filed by the defendants and the court yesterday sustained this demurrer. The demurrer contended that the land was being used as a sanatorium for Chinese and therefore fell properly under the terms of the land law.

In his decision Judge Hewitt indicated that although the leasing of the land by Tagami might be made to constitute a technical violation of the law, a liberal interpretation of it would make the lease legal. He also urged that this law be interpreted liberally to avoid complications.

Johnny Hines Signed Up for Warner Films

Johnny Hines has been signed by the Warner Brothers for an indefinite period and will be featured in a number of forthcoming pictures, according to an announcement by Harry M. Warner. Hines recently completed his first picture for the Warners, "Little Johnny Jones," an adaptation of George M. Cohan's stage play, which has been completed under the direction of Arthur Rosson.



Johnny Hines

The Warner Brothers originally secured Hines only for "Little Johnny Jones," but because of his work in this picture engaged him for a series.

In "Little Johnny Jones," Hines portrays the role of an American jockey in Europe bent on winning the English derby. Romance and intrigue are woven into the story which was adapted for the screen by Raymond Schrock.

Rich Mother and Daughter Hurt in Crash

Mrs. Minnie Davidson of 215 South Norton avenue, wife of N. Davidson, wealthy brick manufacturer, was probably fatally injured, and her daughter Thelma, 12 years of age, slightly injured when they were struck by an automobile at the intersection of Pico and Lake streets late yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Davidson is at the Receiving Hospital suffering from internal injuries, concussion, a broken left leg and cuts and bruises. Attending physicians entertain but little hope for her recovery. The child is suffering from cuts, bruises and shock.

James Solomon of 1506 Griffith avenue, driver of the car which struck the woman and her daughter, is held at the Wilshire station pending a complete investigation into the accident. He told the police that he was driving east on Pico street and was about to turn north on Lake when a truck hurried across in front of him, and in dodging it he struck the two victims. The automobile, after striking the two women, hit a fire hydrant on the sidewalk and stopped.

INDICTMENTS ARE SOUGHT

Indictments charging violation of the Dyer Act will be asked at the next session of the Federal grand jury against Kenneth Blackner and Fred Ross, now under arrest at Yuma, Ariz., it was announced yesterday by Leon Bone, in charge of the Department of Justice office here, when he was notified that the two youths have been taken into custody. It is asserted that Blackner and Ross stole the touring car of Lloyd Edens, a cripple who is unable to walk.

FILMS MADE BEST HERE

Climate and Organization Establish Los Angeles as Ideal Place for all Productions

Filming of the greatest masterpieces of European literature can be accomplished more artistically, more convincingly and more economically in Los Angeles than in any setting to be found in Europe.

This, in brief, is the summing up of a report of picture conditions made yesterday by Al Lichtman, of the Preferred Pictures Corporation, who has arrived in Los Angeles after a tour of the whole of Europe.

The announcement is a significant one since Mr. Lichtman's organization is about to film Robert W. Service's novel of Monte Carlo, "Poisoned Paradise." It was originally proposed to produce the picture in the actual setting described by Service, who wrote the novel within sound of the clicking of the roulette balls and the calls of the croupiers of the gambling palaces. Investigation abroad and at home has resulted in a decision of the B. P. Schulberg production forces to reconstruct the most important buildings of the tiny principality and proceed with the picture here.

IMPORTANT AGENCIES HERE

"We have just two agencies for picture making here that never can be duplicated elsewhere—and they happen to be the most important of the factors that go to make the most successful screen productions," said Mr. Lichtman. "I refer to climate and organization.

"It is an old story to say that climate is essential to continued picture production. We have found that no place in the world offers us climatic conditions so desirable for camera work as we have here.

"But the other essential of good pictures—organization—is equally important and equally unique to Los Angeles. Where else in the world could a producer telephone to an organization and call for 500 men, six feet tall, experienced in picture work, and correctly clad in evening clothes? Our own service bureau is not to be duplicated in any other business or any other part of the world.

"Where else could a producer telephone to some other producing unit, saying that he wanted to use an Alaskan village, or a South African street, for two days shooting? But that can be done and is done here every day.

GENIUSES BROUGHT HERE

"Whenever Europe produces directorial geniuses, or gifted actors or actresses who can give something to the American screen, they will continue to be brought here, where their ideas may be used, or their faces screened in American productions.

"It is largely because of our climate and our organization that American pictures dominate the field the world over. It was a thrilling thing to sit in a theater in Liverpool and view the premiere of a picture like 'Shadows' at almost the same time as it was being shown to theater-goers in the big cities here.

"But it was still more inspiring to see that our successes here became the big favorites abroad just as readily and for the same reasons. Human nature is the same the world over. We are catering to the peoples of the entire world, assimilated here as Americans. Their likes and dislikes are those of the entire world. That probably is the real reason why it is possible to make, here in Los Angeles, pictures that have a world-wide appeal."

FLOOD CURB PLAN GIVEN TO COUNCIL

Workman Asks for Survey of River to Protect Land at Van Nuys and Tejunga

President Workman of the City Council will present this morning a resolution calling for a special survey by the city of the hydraulic conditions of the Los Angeles River, looking to a system of flood control that would remove what Mr. Workman thinks is a menace to certain parts of the city. He will ask for the employment of an experienced flood control engineer to make a survey, and will ask that the Board of Supervisors be requested to co-operate.

Mr. Workman's resolution, made public by him last night, sets forth that the value of land in or near Van Nuys and the Tejunga Cone and the increase in population there demand definite protection. In the last several years there have been various engineering schemes advanced by the city, but none has been adopted.

"The latest plan now in the course of construction by the County Flood Control District," Mr. Workman says, "calls for construction of a channel from the mouth of the Pacoima Canyon to the Los Angeles River, which would rush the flood waters into the river at a point above the city. The danger and extent of such a plan can be best understood by the record of the flood of 1914, during three days of which the rainfall and run-off from the Pacoima watershed were in excess of 14,000 acre feet of water, and during the same period the rainfall in the San Fernando Valley was more than eight inches. The sudden addition of 14,000 acre feet, or any other large amount of water from the Pacoima watershed to the other flood waters would cause an uncontrollable and destructive torrent which would do inestimable damage to the riparian lands of the Los Angeles River."

Guardsmen Are Jailed for Not Going to Camp

Three local National Guardsmen are locked up in the City Jail and are liable to the findings of court-martial because they did not join their regiment when it departed for its annual encampment now being held at El Monterey.

The men are George Bishop, 18 years of age, 3716 Woodlawn street; Hilbert Paeschke, 25, 3454 Arlington street, and C. Urtubees, 35, 660 North Van Ness avenue.

All are being held on warrants issued by the National Guard, and pending their being sent to El Monterey for court-martial under the military code, are likely to remain in jail several days, the local police say. It is understood that there are several other warrants out for men who failed to respond to the encampment call. The arrests of the three men were made by Lieut. Lindenberg of the National Guard.

Heretofore the Federal government and the State each has paid soldiers at encampments $1 a day for their services. Recently under a new rule the State declined to pay the men, bringing their daily pay to $1. It is understood that many soldiers have declined to respond to calls to attend encampments because of the new pay rule.

Two Chinatown Distillers Pay to Escape Jail

The two Ngs—Ng Sung and Ng Gin—settled with the law for making "linisent" of too high a proof yesterday, when Judge Chambers fined them $500 each with an alternative of spending six months in jail. A charge of possessing opium remains unsettled.

The two Chinese were arrested in a raid on the house of Kuong, Yee & Co., in Chinatown Tuesday, which resulted in the seizure of large quantities of "linisent," in bottles, jugs, barrels and cans.

NATION NOW IS BOOSTING CALIFORNIA

Strangers No Longer Ask About State but Tell Its Advantages, Says Kiwanian

People of the United States no longer ask about Los Angeles when meeting an Angeleno. They have been so thoroughly informed about the city through advertising that they start immediately telling about its many advantages when meeting a Californian. Such, at least, was the report of Otho L. Ferris, president of the Los Angeles Kiwanis Club, when telling the club of the national Kiwanis convention at Atlanta, Ga.

The entire membership of the club was in attendance at the regular weekly luncheon yesterday noon at Paulais Hall to hear the report of President Ferris and Secretary Clack, and each member went away imbued with the spirit of service, the watchword of this organization.

A large number of visiting Kiwanians from other clubs of the State, who were in attendance at the convention, were at the luncheon and formed a chorus which led in the singing of the California songs which were features of the special train from the Golden State to the convention.

While the delegates admitted having boosted for Los Angeles and Southern California, as has become their habit; they told of great plans worked out at the convention for the upbuilding of their club, especially in the work of giving a square deal to unprivileged children, and urged that every member make himself sponsor for some boy, who can further his personal ideals.

The lunch was featured by a display of Adohr certified milk, a bottle of which was placed at each plate by the management of this dairy.

The music was directed by Howard Deems, leader of the Long Beach Kiwanis Chorus, who soon had the entire gathering following the snappy notes of his lead.

MUSIC FACULTY TO ENTERTAIN VISITORS

A reception in honor of the music faculty of the Southern Branch of the University of California will be given Monday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock by the music department of the summer session of the University of Southern California. The affair will be in the parlors of the president's suite with the following U.S.C. music faculty in the receiving line: Mrs. Emma M. Bartlett, Mrs. Abbie Norton Jamison, Miss A. Howell, Thaddeus P. Giddings; Joseph E. Maddy and M. Allen. This will be the first of a series of Monday afternoon social affairs to be given by the U.S.C. music department during the summer session.

LARGE REALTY DEALS CLOSED

to completion by the first of the year.

Preliminary arrangements now being completed provide for a four-story structure that will contain fifty-five apartments or a total of 129 rooms, all finished in Oregon-pine trim, hardwood floors and tiled baths. The exterior walls will be faced with brick and cast stone materials and built of reinforced concrete.

According to the owners, plans call for a central refrigeration plant in the basement, an expensive heating and ventilating unit and many other novel features. Those prominent in the negotiations are D. L. DiVecchio, attorney for the owners; the First Mortgage Company, which underwrote the bond issue, and the architects.

Property at 227 South Broadway was sold yesterday by Emil Olcovich to G. M. Furman for an aggregate consideration of $460,000, according to an announcement by Mr. Olcovich last night. The transaction includes the sale of a four-story building and the ground.

Negotiations for the land have been under way for several months. At present the Western Shoe Company, headed by Mr. Olcovich, occupies the entire structure.

LEASE IS ACQUIRED

Following the sale, immediate arrangements were concluded by executives of the shoe store for the acquisition of a twenty-year lease on the building for an aggregate rental of $720,000. It is the intention of the new owner to hold the property for investment purposes, and no improvements are planned.

The Broadway building is sixty feet wide and extends from Broadway to Hill street with a frontage on both thoroughfares. It is considered one of the best buys in the northern part of the business district. As part exchange, Mr. Olcovich received the West Adams Gardens, a tract of land improved with forty-eight flats bringing an annual income of approximately $33,000.

YOUR NAME WRITTEN IN THIS BOOK?

Collector of Revenue Has List of Tax Delinquents; Many Prominent Persons

The latest Blue Book of the social and financial elect of Southern California is now in the keeping of Federal Court Clerk Williams, who has recently installed a whole wall of file cases to hold the 13,607 tax liens filed by Collector of Internal Revenue Goodcell against those firms and individuals who are derelict in their regular income-tax payments.

Each day new names of the rich and famous are added to the list, which reads like a roster of the great.

"There's hardly a noted film actor in the country," said Chief Clerk Zimmerman yesterday, "who hasn't managed to get his name in these files. They don't pay any attention to the income-tax collector when he calls around, so after a while Rex Goodcell gets tired, and sends down all this stuff to us. After a few weeks of fuss they usually pay. Meanwhile, there's a lien on their property."

The list is not exclusively composed of motion-picture stars, however, for there are many business men and large firms who fall out with the representatives of Uncle Sam, and must be gently jogged before they "cough up." This information was formerly considered confidential, but the files recently have been thrown open for inspection.

There have been tales of how the nouveau riche and the war profiteers have ceased boasting of how many motor cars and Corots they own, in order to impress their hearers, and have now resorted to bragging of the size of the tax lien the internal revenue collector has filed against them.

The Curtis Canning Corporation is asserted to owe $50,746, the largest amount filed in several months. The tax runs back for three years. A. B. Stewart, president of the corporation, is now under bond, having been indicted as a member of the conspiracy to smuggle ashore a shipload of Canadian liquors at the Curtis wharf in Long Beach last March.

CAN'T CHECK OUTLAW WELL

Stream of Sand, Oil and Water Blocks Trains and Causes Damage at Signal Hill

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, July 11.—Desperate efforts to place the "outlaw" Union Community No. 11 well under control proved futile today and the well at a late hour was still sending a huge mass of mud, sand, oil and salt water into the air and causing considerable property damage at Signal Hill.

The well broke loose and came in as a gasser yesterday morning. At a late hour tonight experts estimated that the "outlaw" was shooting up at least 100,000 barrels of salt water a day.

The deluge of mud and water sent up by the well has covered the field for a quarter of a mile in three directions and operations on all other wells in a three-block area have been suspended.

Service on the Huntington Beach-Balboa Beach Pacific Electric line and on the North Long Beach local line was suspended for a time last night and the trains were rerouted today. The tracks of these lines are covered with a three-foot coating of mud. The Pacific Electric tracks are covered by a coating of mud several feet deep from a point near Signal Hill to a point northwest of Orange avenue. Leases northeast of Willow street also have been inundated in the sea of mud and sand, making the continuance of drilling operations there impossible.

Experts have been unable to devise any effective method for placing the "outlaw" under control and are waiting for the well either to sand up or lose force. Fear that the well may catch fire was minimized because of the enormous quantity of water it is sending up.

The well began to shoot up salt water about a half hour after it blew out yesterday morning. City officials are taking steps to prevent further damage to city property and to prevent the mud and oil from finding its way into the city proper.

PLAN TRIAL OF TRAFFIC PROPOSAL

Council Unwilling to Adopt Boulevard-Stop System Without Test

The proposal of the Public Safety Committee of the Council to designate twelve highways for application of the boulevard-stop system struck a snag yesterday when it came before the City Council as a whole.

Paul G. Huffman of the Traffic Commission appeared before the Council to recommend that no general program be attempted until the scheme was put into practical test in this city. He suggested that it be tried in Wilshire Boulevard first.

Several of the Councilmen agreed that it would be a dangerous experiment to attempt enforcement without a test, and the proposal was referred back to the Public Safety Committee. This committee is expected to modify its recommendations so as to apply the scheme temporarily to two or three boulevards.

By the boulevard-stop system as applied in some eastern cities the motorist before entering a thoroughfare designated as a boulevard must come to a dead stop but may proceed immediately. It is designed to prevent accidents and facilitate traffic on the arterial highways.

The Traffic Commission later in the day issued a statement explaining its position as follows:

"The Traffic Commission believes that the introduction of boulevard stops as now proposed upon twelve selected main traffic thoroughfares of the city of Los Angeles, be modified to cover only one street for the first test, for the reasons that concentration upon one street will:

"Permit of thorough study, and analysis of complete results, by interested and authorized traffic observers, such as will be impossible over large areas;

"The police department could intensively control, with twelve times the proportion of officers to automobiles, as would be required for twelve streets;

"Modifications in the requirements may be found necessary, hence tests under the direction of the police department should be made before any presumed final ordinances are passed by the City Council;

"The Traffic Commission feels that all proposals for changing in traffic regulation should be given actual field tests under authorized observers, before being embodied in the law."
